

Society

Former Omahan Is Engaged to a Southerner

Omaha friends of Mrs. Pierre Morey of New York have received news of her engagement to Charles Fay of New Orleans, traffic manager of the Southern Pacific. Dr. and Mrs. Morey were well known in Omaha. They left here five years ago and lived in New York until last year, when they returned to Omaha for a few months just before Dr. Morey's death. Mrs. Morey spent a week in Omaha during June of this year, but it is only recently that she has announced her engagement. "It is no secret," she writes Omaha friends.

The romance is the culmination of a friendship begun 12 years ago when Dr. and Mrs. Morey met Mr. and Mrs. Fay and their children at a lake in northern Minnesota. The two families became much attached to each other and were close friends. Mr. Fay is now a widower. They do not expect to be married for several months, but they have made plans for their honeymoon, when they will travel in Mr. Fay's private car.

She was formerly Miss Clara Schroeder. Mr. Fay has four children. They will make their home in New Orleans.

Dana Hill Girls to Visit. Miss Nancy Leach of Minneapolis will arrive August 5 to spend two weeks with Miss De Weenta Conrad. The two girls were roommates at Dana Hill. Miss Jean McHugh, their classmate at Dana, will be in Omaha the same week and as the guest of her aunt, Miss Kate McHugh, and Miss Conrad has sent out cards for a luncheon at Happy Hollow club, August 5, complimentary to Miss Leach and Miss McHugh. The latter is on her way east after several weeks at the Eton ranch in Wyoming. She, too, lives in Minneapolis.

For Miss Connors. Honoring Miss Florence Connors, who is the house guest of her brother, A. H. Connors, and Mrs. Connors, Mrs. A. H. Hathaway entertained at luncheon and bridge at her home Friday Miss Marguerite Schaefer will give a luncheon and bridge Saturday afternoon for Miss Connors, and this evening Judge and Mrs. George Shields will entertain at dinner at the Field club, when covers will be laid for 14. Miss Connors will be in Omaha until the middle of August.

Bridge for Visitor. Miss Mary Brundage of Tecumseh was honor guest at a bridge Thursday afternoon given by her hostess, Miss Gertrude Harie, at her home. Tables were placed for the Misses Helen Nieman, Doris Conners, Alice Kimberly, Frances Lindholm, Sara Smeaton, Mary Thomas, Muriel Allen, Mildred Taylor, Isabel Evans, Cecile Fox and Mrs. John Drexel.

On Monday Miss Isabel Adams is planning a bridge luncheon for Miss Brundage.

Luncheon at Nurses Club. Miss Charlotte Townsend, director of the institute of public health which closed today, in the city hall, entertained the 33 graduates at luncheon today at the Nurses club. The nurses yesterday gave a luncheon in Miss Townsend's honor at the Burgess-Nash tea room.

At the Field Club. Luncheon together at the Field club Friday were the Mesdames Charles E. Hall, Fred W. Lehmann, G. B. Lehmann, J. C. Buffington, T. L. Coombs, Ford E. Hovey, O. H. Menold, S. S. Montgomery, R. Rix and T. F. Stroud.

Mrs. C. J. Baird had reservations for four for luncheon. Mrs. F. J. Murphy entertained at the matinee dance in the afternoon in honor of the 14th birthday anniversary of her daughter, Helen. The guests were Ruth Bettiner, Beatrice Ainsworth, Geraldine Newcomb, Josephine Thomas, Josephine Wiig, Helen Ralston, Catherine Cushing, Katharine Murphy, Irene Murphy and Barbara Scott of Jellico, Tenn., house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy.

Mrs. F. W. Heagy had as her guests for her daughters, Mary and Margaret, Mrs. Ralph Linkhart, and son, Ralph, Jr.; Mrs. James Haney and her daughter, Betty, and Mrs. John Wilbur.

Miss Helen Nygaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nygaard, had as her guests the Misses Lucille Cote, Kathryn Bavinger, Virginia Guthrie, Lillian and Marie Robertson, Helen Longman and Dorothy Hill.

Mrs. L. H. Blanchard had reservations for four.

For Saturday dinner the following have reservations: George W. Shields, 14; F. R. Robinson, 8; Chester Nieman, 8.

Happy Hollow Club. Mrs. J. J. McMullen entertained nine guests at luncheon Friday at Happy Hollow club.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Carpenter will have 10 guests at the dinner dance Saturday evening at Dr. and Mrs. Palmer Findley will entertain a foursome.

Sermo Club Picnic. On Tuesday the Sermo club will give its first picnic of the season at Elmwood park.

Efficiency. Ted—Tom seems to be still chasing rainbows.

Ned—His latest scheme is to go to Constantinople and get the suits to install a card index in his harem.

A futurist's dream of landscaping: green asphalt lawns.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

Little Tots Are Newcomers

Personals

Mrs. Fred Dale returned Tuesday from a trip to Madison Lake, Minn.

Mrs. J. K. Crowell returned Wednesday from visit to her old home in Kankakee, Ill.

Miss Margaret Rix left Thursday for Camp Holiday at Lake Okoboji for the next two weeks.

John Forbes of Cedar Rapids arrived Friday afternoon to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Newman Benson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hasson will leave Sunday for Estes Park. They will motor up and will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Welsh.

Mrs. W. W. Slabaugh leaves the last of August for Dayton, O., where she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Baxter, for three months.

Miss Henrietta Rees, who has been abroad for the last six months, is expected to land the first of the week in New York. She will return to Omaha in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Felheimer returned Tuesday from a month spent at Milwaukee with Mrs. Felheimer's mother, Mrs. H. Gold, at Greenlake and at Chicago.

Miss Helen Bernstein, who has been visiting the University of Chicago for the past two years, and who was formerly of Omaha, is visiting Miss Lucy Weir for the next two weeks.

Mrs. Carrie Ada Campbell, general secretary of the Omaha Young Women's Christian association, will return Sunday morning from Ohio, where she was called by the death of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Shields leave the middle of August for Sioux City, where they will be the guests of their nephew, Paul Caldwell and Mrs. Caldwell. They will be gone three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Benson move the first of next week from their home on Emily street to 517 South Happy Hollow boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Finlayson will occupy the Benson's home.

Mrs. Alice Winspear Youtsey, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. A. G. Schreiber, has just returned from a nine month's tour of Europe. During her travels Mrs. Youtsey studied applied design at Toulouse, France.

Mr. and Mrs. James Muldoon, jr., have returned from a week's motor trip through Minnesota. At Cass lake, Minn., they spent some time at Hansholm, the summer home of J. H. Hansen. They also visited friends at Minneapolis and Minnetonka.

Lieut. and Mrs. Carlisle Allan are now at Lake Mohonk on a vacation trip and will spend August at Otterville, on Cape Cod, Mass. Lieut. Allan, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Allan of Omaha, has recently been notified that after a year's work at Columbia he will be stationed at West Point as an instructor.

Miss Winifred Smith, who has been in Canada visiting relatives, has gone to Rockland, Me., to visit Miss Gwendolen Wolfe. She will be there until the middle of August, and will visit Miss Gussie Reinert of Hartford, Conn., before her return. Miss Smith and Miss Reinert were attendants in the Hunsacker-Brandt wedding last April.

Mrs. John F. Dale, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sydney Smith of Hartford, Conn., for the past six weeks, returned to Omaha Wednesday. Mr. Dale, who accompanied Mrs. Dale to the east on the 40th anniversary of their wedding, returned earlier in July. Mrs. Dale motored in Massachusetts, up the famous Mohawk trail and down to Duxbury, Boston and Plymouth.

Odolona Gingham, Voiles, Linens, Ratines

WASH DRESSES In a Sale at Buy one and we give you another of equal value for 1c

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

Efficiency. Ted—Tom seems to be still chasing rainbows.

Ned—His latest scheme is to go to Constantinople and get the suits to install a card index in his harem.

A futurist's dream of landscaping: green asphalt lawns.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair (Toilet Talk). A stiff paste made with some powdered detelone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining detelone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is detelone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

Little Virginia and Betty Bausher are newcomers to Omaha. With their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bausher, they came here a few weeks ago from Chicago. They will occupy an apartment at the Austin after August 15. Mrs. Bausher was formerly Miss Winnie Warner of Fairbury, Neb.

Y. W. C. A.

The Christian Association Athletic club will spend the week-end at Camp Brewster, with an athletic tournament as the big feature of their program. There will be contests in tennis, swimming and other sports, when the girls will compete for club honors.

Miss Kate Field and Miss Mildred Bryan of the Lincoln Young Women's Christian association secretarial staff are spending this week at Camp Brewster.

The first year gymnasium classes will hold a reunion at Camp Brewster August 5 and 6. Vesper service at camp Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Mrs. C. E. Melton is the speaker and there will be special music by Miss Stella Shane. The public is invited.

All club girls will go to camp Monday evening. Trucks leave central building at 5:30. Dinner will be followed by outdoor sports. Registration may be made at central building by Sunday evening.

Little Things to Make the Home Attractive Chair cushions edged with colored ball fringe in the color predominating in the chintz of the cushions are a delightful detail for a well-furnished room.

Wrought iron standards were used for lamps, then for gold fish bowls and fruit dishes standing high from the floor, and now for ash stands for men. They are really very attractive, these ash stands with the wrought iron foundation.

A big brocade covered box with a hinged cover is a delight, even if it costs from $12 to $15. For it is fitted within with little compartments to hold the toilet articles and so helps to keep the dressing table neat and orderly.

Bedspreads for children are decorated with gay little figures from Mother Goose cut out of colored muslin and stitched into place.

Some women have not yet heard that their sex is now at liberty to make a living.

Chic Beach Frock

Little Betty Gulick, known as the "Brunswick Baby," wore this little party frock by Doleys when she was one of the entertainers at the first musicale ever given on the beach at Brighton Beach, N. Y.

Tennis Players Honored. The tennis committee, John Brotherton, chairman, entertained Thursday at the Athletic club roof garden, complimentary to the out-of-town players in the Missouri valley tennis tournament. Saturday evening they will be guests of the Field club. A large gallery is expected Saturday afternoon at the Field club, when the finals will be played, beginning at 2:30.

Luncheon for Lincoln Visitors. Mrs. Joseph Murphy entertained in honor of the Misses Carrie Herzog and Katherine Smith of Lincoln at luncheon at her home, Wednesday. Miss Herzog is the guest of Mrs. Dolly Elgutter, and Miss Smith is visiting Mrs. Murphy. Covers were laid for nine.

Drinks That Cool in Warm Weather

Lemon tea is a refreshing drink in summer. To make it pare the yellow rind thinly from one lemon for each pint of liquid wanted. Add this rind to a pint of boiling water and a tablespoonful of sugar. Let it infuse until it is cold, strain the liquid. Gooseberry fool is a dish with a reputation that is well worth while, for it is very old and very substantial. Whether you like gooseberry fool or not, the very name is sure to suggest a romantic sort of setting to the dish to you. To make it, simmer a quart of gooseberries and a cupful of water until they are tender. Then rub them through a fine sieve and cook them thoroughly. When cold, pour the fruit over a cupful of thick cream. Serve very cold in long-stemmed dessert glasses. If necessary, add more sugar.

Mint sweets are a delicious confection light and dainty enough for the most fastidious and much more appropriate for a summer's day than heavy chocolates. Select only the most attractive and most perfect leaves, neither too old nor too small. Wash them carefully and let them dry by spreading them out on a fresh piece of old damask. Then in scrupulously clean stew pan make ready a syrup, using a cupful of water to a cupful of granulated sugar. Cook until it strings or forms a fine thread. Remove the sugar from the fire and, taking each mint stalk, one at a time, by the stem dip it into the sugar syrup. Place them on a piece of oil paper on a platter and when they have become slightly hardened dust them liberally with granulated sugar.

Candied plums are a tempting dainty. Choose good looking plums for this purpose, and dip them, after washing and drying them, in the unsharpened white of an egg. Then roll them in powdered sugar. Let them dry before serving.

Candied plums are made from ripe fruit. Stone them and halve them and dredge them quickly with powdered sugar. Put them in a granite dish in a moderate oven for half an hour. Then lay them on plates to dry and cool.

Cafe Parfait. Boil one cup sugar and one-fourth cup clear black coffee together to thread degree and then pour in a fine stream into the beaten yolks of six eggs. Return to the fire in a double boiler and stir and cook until the mixture coats a spoon. Beat until cold, then add one pint of double cream flavored with one fourth cup strong, clear coffee and whipped stiff and dry. Pack in ice and coarse salt for four hours after placing in the mold. Do not freeze a parfait by turning as you do ice cream, sherbets, etc.

Birth Announcements. Mr. and Mrs. Max Blasser announce the birth of a daughter, Shirley, July 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Henderson of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Omaha, announce the birth of a son, Richard Royce. Mrs. Henderson was formerly Miss Mabel Johnson.

Delta Gammis Honored. Mrs. Melvin Bekins, a recent bride, and Miss Mary Brundage of Tecumseh, who is the guest of Miss Gertrude Harie, were entertained at a bridge luncheon at the home of Miss Helen Nieman, on Tuesday. Covers were placed for 16. Mrs. Bekins and Miss Brundage were schoolmates and sisters in the Delta Gamma sorority at Nebraska university.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

My Marriage Problems

Adèle Garrison's New Phase of "REVELATIONS OF A WIFE"

(Copyright 1922)

The Way Harry Underwood Tried to Impress Madge.

From somewhere I summoned the promise to bid Dr. Pettit a calm good morning, and in another minute there was a good mile between his tense white face and Harry Underwood's. But we traveled another mile before the man at my side spoke. I guessed that the encounter had touched him more nearly than he wished me to know, and that he was battling to recover his usual insouciant demeanor. "Pleasant had, Herbie," he drawled at last. "Something about him taking to the eye, so endearing, don't you know. Is he still writing sonnets to your eyebrows and emitting furnace-like sighs when you are around?"

"I was not aware that he ever—" I began faintly when Mr. Underwood cut short my protest with an incredulous laugh, just a trifle too loud and too carefree to be wholly convincing as to its genuineness.

"This Breaks the Record." "Don't try to draw any wool over your Uncle Dudley's eyes," he said, "for he wasn't born yesterday or even the day before. I can remember only too well when the poor old sawbones had any moon-struck calf of 20 back-rod of the boards. Masy's the time I've refrained from kicking him only because I did so hate to disturb a good toe polish. And so he's still pursuing you, Trip, if he were only a villain like me! It's all according to Hoyle to have a villain pursue you, but when it comes to having a pie-faced—"

"Do stop talking such utter nonsense!" I exclaimed. "Dr. Pettit is madly in love with an attractive young western girl named Claire Foster. They were engaged, I think, but something, I do not know what, happened."

"Probably Claire came out from the ether," Mr. Underwood interjected.

But I paid no attention and finished my sentence—"and he has been very down-hearted ever since."

"Well! I thought my opinion of him was as low as my mental thermometer could possibly register," he rejoined, "but this simply breaks the record. He breathed the same air that you did, and then—he fell in love with a western girl!"

I had hard work to keep back a laugh, and then I contemptuously forced something else back also—an undeniable thrill of vanity at something in his voice beneath the extravagance.

An Attempt at Flattery. "We are coming into Bridgehampton," I said hurriedly. "One of my errands is completed, thanks to our meeting Dr. Pettit. But I have three others. Mr. Smythe-Hopkins wishes a garage mechanic sent back to his car, his butler notified to send another car down to the farm for the family, and a telegram dispatched to Dr. Y. at this address."

I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still bad medicine," I see," he said with a note of bitterness.

Delta Gammis Honored. I took my right hand from the wheel and extracted from the pocket of my motor coat the scribbled paper Mr. Smythe-Hopkins had given me. This I held out to Mr. Underwood. When he took it he unfolded my hand also in his, as if by accident, and laughed shortly as I hurriedly removed it. "I'm still