Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Omaha Grain Change De Omaha Grain Omaha, July 29. The trend of grain prices today was towards a lower level. This was particularly true of corn. This grain showed the heaviest tone and most decline. Cortinued rains are very beneficial to the growing corn, but a good many complaints are coming in that wheat is sprouting in the shock. Foreign exchange was weak. German marks fell to a new low level, selling at .00153c. There was a a noticeable let-up in activity in export quarters and overnight business in wheat and corn was reported somewhat smaller. Receipts of wheat in the Omaha market was 125 cars, against 25 cars, against 25 cars, of oats, 35 cars, against 28 cars last year. Total shipments were 208 cars at compared with 259 cars By CHARLES D. MICHAELS. Omaha Bee Leased Wire.
