Problems That Perplex Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Deceitfulness Will Not Pay. Dear Miss Fairfax: We are two young girls, each 16 years of age, and have read your column in The Omaha Bee nearly every evening and we would like some of your good advice. We girls are pals and poth are very much in love with your good advice. We girls are pals and you good advice. We girls are pals and your good advice. We girls are pals and you good advice. Lately we have been planning on going with them without our parents' knowledge. We do hate to do this, but naturally we wish some freedom. There is nothing the matter with these men; they omaha on Thursday. They will are nice and very well known and spend some time in Marshalltown. thought of. So our parents can raise no objection on that score. Will you please give us your advice in to Detroit.

It is matter? We both would dearly appreciate it; and can we hope to get an answer to this from you through The Omaha Bee?

boys is true, there seems no reason why you should not be allowed to go about with them, but your parents may know more about them than you do. Or perhaps it is because you say you are in love with them that your fathers and mothers feel that you are too young. You are too young to be in love, and so are the boys, and I am afraid you are silly about it. If you and your friend are willing to drop such ideas the month of July and are on their foreabout four years and just confriend are willing to drop such ideas for about four years, and just consider the boys as good friends, I imagine your parents would be less strict with you. As it is, you would be making a mistake to do something behind their backs that they have forbidden you to do. Underhanded actions always make for unhappiness, and you say yourselves you hate the idea. Have the courhanded actions always make for un-happiness, and you say yourselves you hate the idea. Have the cour-age to stand by what you know is right behavior. Young people don't like to feel that their liberty is being curtailed, but there are times when it is better to trust the judg-ment of older people.

Send Him the Ring.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am com-ing to you like many others for some of your wonderful advice. I have had an affair bothering me for some time and am in doubt as what to do. I have been going with a young man two years my senior and he seemed very devoted until he left for a vacation. After he came back he did not speak to or notice me whatsoever and tries to hurt me as much as he can. I cannot think of anything that happened that would justify his actions.

He seemed to not like my keeping company with other young men. but I am not engaged to him, so I feel that he is acting very rudely towards me. Now, I'm not in love with him by any means, but what is worrying me is this: He gave me his ring to wear and I still have it. and, as I have too much pride to call him up and ask him to come and get it, I feel it is his place to make all advances, as he chose to get angry first without an explana-tion of any kind. I'm just 20. Hoping to see my letter in print very soon, I will remain, ONE IN DOUBT.

ONE IN DOUBT.

The young man seems thoroughly disagreeable, doesn't he? If I were you I would send the ring back to him by registered mail, if you can't bring yourself to call him up. I wouldn't keep it a day longer, as it gives him an opportunity to say unkind things about you if he wants to.
