

Voters to Face Three Big Issues in Ohio Primary

Liquor, Labor and Progressive Main Questions in Buckeye State—Total of 69 Candidates in Field.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—(By A. P.)—Ohio's free-for-all primary campaign, participated in by 69 candidates for state offices, closed to night. The voters will face three major issues when they go to the polls—wet and dry, labor and progressive. Not in years has the issue been more sharply drawn and never before has there been such a gallery of candidates.

All through the campaign and up to the last minute, the race between candidates for the republican nomination for governor has attracted chief attention. Governor Harry L. Davis was not a candidate for re-nomination.

Main interest in the republican gubernatorial fight appears to be in the probable strength of two wine and beer candidates and one liberal candidate, and in the ability of President Harding's choice to hold his own against two progressives.

Thompson Draws Fire. Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, former treasurer of the United States and said to be the national administration's choice for the nomination, has drawn the fire of practically the entire field of other candidates. This has the strong endorsement of the republican organization and the Ohio Anti-Saloon league.

Congressman Charles L. Knight, Akron publisher, and Daniel A. Williams, Jackson publisher, are the progressive candidates. Both were Roosevelt men in 1912 and both have made a strong appeal for the progressive note. Knight has waged a strong billboard campaign in which he has pointed out the progressive victories this year in Pennsylvania and Indiana were increased.

C. Homer Durand of Coshocton, former wet leader, made his campaign on a wine and beer platform. He did J. W. Durnell of Columbus, Harvey C. Smith of Zanesville, now serving his second term as secretary of state, also is credited by the Anti-Saloon league with being a wet.

Four-Cornered Fight. State Senator Arthur H. Day of Cleveland, sponsor of the Ohio soldier bonus law; Rupert R. Beetham of Cadiz, speaker of the Ohio house of representatives, and Harry Clay Smith, Cleveland, editor of the Ohio state newspaper, are the other candidates for the republican nomination for governor.

Politicians appeared unanimous in their belief that the real fight in this large field will be between Thompson, Durand, Knight and Harry Smith.

Only three candidates are participating for the democratic nomination for governor. Former State Auditor A. V. Donahy of New Philadelphia, the democratic candidate for governor two years ago, has strong backing in both the urban and rural districts, while James G. Johnson of Springfield, a man who nominated James M. Cox for the presidency at the San Francisco convention two years ago, has much of the organization back of him. Johnson resigned this week as a justice of the Ohio supreme court.

Thomas J. Duffey of East Liverpool and at present chairman of the Ohio Industrial commission, is receiving much of the support of organized labor. Duffey is a Catholic and is expected to poll a large religious vote.

Considerable of a fight has been made against the renomination of Senator Atlee Pomerene.

ADVERTISING. WHY YOU NEED IRON. To make you strong and "brainy" and put the power into your blood to overcome disease germs.

The food you eat contains carbon. When your food is digested it is absorbed from the intestines into the blood. When the carbon in your food comes in contact with the oxygen carried by the iron in your blood, the carbon and oxygen unite and by so doing they give off tremendous energy, thereby giving you great force, strength and endurance. Without iron your blood carries no oxygen and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food, so that you get no energy, no good—you do not get any strength from it—it is like putting coal into a stove without a fire. You cannot get any heat unless the coal unites with the fire.

The strongest weapon with which to prevent and overcome cold, pneumonia, kidney trouble, rheumatism, nervous prostration, in fact almost any disease or disease germ is plenty of good rich, pure blood, strength, energy and endurance and the greater energy carrier in the body is organic iron, not metallic iron which people usually take, but organic iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron contained in what is known as organic Nuxated Iron. Which may be taken from almost any drug store. Nuxated Iron often increased the strength, energy and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down folks in two or three weeks. It has been used and highly recommended by former United States Senators, Members of Congress and sides of U. S. Courts, many physicians and prominent men.

Over 4,000,000 people are now using it annually. Satisfactory results are guaranteed or your money. Sold by all druggists in tablet form only. NUXATED IRON (For Red Blood Strength and Endurance) ADVERTISING. Heals Old Sores Peterson's Ointment

France Tired of Conferences to End Europe's Troubles

'Just One More Palaver' Is How Man in Street Characterizes Approaching Confab in London to Discuss Reparations and Other Knotty Problems.

Paris, Aug. 5.—(By A. P.)—Premier Poincare on the eve of his departure for London to discuss reparations and other knotty allied problems, was asked tactfully today whether he was going to take a golf lesson from the British premier.

The questioner, an intimate friend, had reference to the now famous game of golf between M. Briand and Lloyd George at Cannes, photographs of which purporting to depict the former French premier in attempting to drive but actually giving a fine reputation to a wood chopper's swing, were published in French newspapers, causing considerable uproar of laughter. Moreover, the fun produced by the photographs helped the French to forget the failure of Briand's viewpoint at a late conference, resulting in the downfall of his ministry.

"We have had our lesson in golf," Premier Poincare replied, "but perhaps Mr. Lloyd George will let me teach him piquet."

Piquet is as popular in France as pinocle is on the east side of New York. "Just one more palaver" is how the man in the street here characterized the coming London conference. The general French public apparently has lost confidence in the settlement of Europe's troubles by conferences.

Rue de la Paix Quiet. An atmosphere of peace and quiet now reigns in the Rue de la Paix. The doors of famous dressmaking establishments with most of their staffs at Deauville, Dieppe and other renowned summer resorts, present a forlorn appearance.

Meanwhile the smaller houses are now having their innings and are busy resuming fresh frocks and frills, so that no visitor need leave Paris empty handed.

Handbags of soft charmeuse with large clasps either of ivory, tortoise shell or platinum set with diamonds, are being pushed along as Paris souvenirs while the leading houses are busy at the seaside.

Of flat envelope shape, these bags are very convenient for everybody's use. Some are made of red or blue Russian leather, designed to hang by a cord which slips over the arm. They are big enough to contain all that is necessary for a busy makeup with powderpuffs, lipstick, rouge, eyebrow pencil and other cosmetic accessories.

Undesirable Gamblers Listed. France has a record containing the names of several thousand Frenchmen and foreigners, among whom are from 500 to 600 Americans who are considered by the managements of gambling casinos and card tables around the gambling tables. The record comprises a volume about one inch thick, and is consulted whenever a newcomer applies for admittance.

The list of names is made up by the minister of the interior from reports made by all French casinos, made up of players who are not welcomed by the various managements.

Grouchy losers predominate on the list. It also includes persons habitually dining too well, who are loudly exuberant when winning and equally superstitious against fate when they are losing.

Casino managers detest noisy players and especially bad losers. Many of the players barred are prominent members of their respective communities, ranking high in the world of finance and business in France and other countries.

The month of August is the biggest gambling month of the year. Deauville, Dieppe, Coburg, Houlogate and other Normandy and Brittany seaside resorts are now in full swing.

The state levies 25 per cent of the profits of the casinos while the municipalities in which they are situated, assess from 7 to 15 per cent according to local arrangements.

French Payment of Pre-War Debts to Germans Cut

Action Taken as First of Series of Reprisals for Germans' Nonpayment of Debts to Frenchmen.

Paris, Aug. 5.—(By A. P.)—Premier Poincare at noon today notified the German embassy at Paris that the first of a series of measures to conserve French interests against a lapse in Germany's pre-war debt payments would be put into effect immediately.

The notice followed the receipt of a note from Germany refusing to meet the £2,000,000 installment of these payments to French citizens due August 15.

To Cease Functioning. The first of French measures consists of the immediate suspension of all payments to German nationals for debts contracted with Frenchmen before the war, both in France and Alsace-Lorraine. The office in Paris and Strasbourg, which were set up to liquidate these debts, were notified to cease functioning at once and to pay no more German claims until further orders from the premier.

The initial measures also include the suspension of all further payments to Germans for German property sequestered in France. This property includes estates, villas, art collections, etc.

More Severe Methods. The agreement reached at Baden under which Germany were being compensated for the houses, furnishings, stocks, bonds and cash left in Alsace and Lorraine also is suspended.

It was explained at the foreign office that these first measures taken are not preliminary to the strictest course of the world, but merely action to safeguard the French interests which have been jeopardized by the Germans refusing to pay.

If these measures fail to bring a satisfactory settlement further and more severe measures will be enforced. The nature of these is withheld pending the effect of the present action.

August 9 Last Day Ex-Yanks May File for Compensation. Importance of August 9, 1922, on the disabled ex-service man's calendar, is emphasized in an announcement Saturday for the U. S. Veterans' bureau.

This is the last day on which to file compensation claims, Miss Florence B. Roring, chief of the strictest division of the bureau, said in a press broadcast. "Call at the local office, Mickel building, Fifteenth and Harney, on or before that day."

Parents not receiving compensation must show dependency within five years after the death of person on account of whose service claim is made.

Traveling Man Injured in Automobile Accident. York, Neb., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Paul A. Schmetzler, traveling man from Hastings, was thrown through the windshield and hurled 15 feet to the ground in an automobile accident south of the city. Schmetzler attempted to dismount a touring car, parked in the road without lights and ran into it. The tourists had stopped to fix a tire. Schmetzler's face and body were badly cut and three ribs broken.

Rush to Alaskan Oil Fields. Anchorage, Alaska, Aug. 5.—A general stampede to the Cold Bay Oil fields since the announcement that large interests have planned to drill there, forecasts the springing of a mushroom city. Coast merchants are preparing to take in stocks by way of Kodiak Island. Discovery of an uplift formation along the Eagle river, north of Anchorage, has revived interest in the oil possibilities of their fields. Geological survey will make an examination and have a report ready in a few days.

American Manners Get Merry Razz From London

D'You Know, One Yankee Woman Actually Carried Her 'Usband's Straw' At Right Into the Spiffy Ritz Restaurant, Blime Me if She Didn't, and Duchess Writer Puts Her on Pan.

London, Aug. 5.—Every invasion seems to have its "atrocities." There were German atrocities during the invasion of Belgium. Now there are American "atrocities" during the tourist invasion of Great Britain, it is one to believe the British press.

Despite the high cost of white paper and restricted space, the British press is devoting a great deal of space to American "atrocities." Some of the indictments against the Americans as set forth in the English press are:

1. An American girl wore a knickerbocker suit in Piccadilly. 2. American men wear dinner jackets in the presence of ladies. 3. American women have their shoes shined at street bootblack stands.

4. American women chew gum. These are just a few of the "atrocities" that are worrying the British press and which are offending the niceties of British aristocracy and nobility.

"Corisande," who writes like a duchess out of work—and duchesses are writing for the newspapers now that the duchess business has gone to pot—in her "society" column in the Evening Standard, recites one of the horrible "American atrocities" as follows:

"What a brave people the Americans are! Or is it that they think they can do things in London undreamed of in New York? We might be just the same. I have thought the world many times since the transatlantic rush began—and one has met Americans with every step in London.

"I came upon me very strongly when I saw an American woman walking into the Ritz restaurant with a man's straw hat, wrapped up in brown paper, under her arm, and the paper had come adrift in one direction, so that there could be no doubt that it was a straw hat.

Oh, horrors! horrors! I don't know what other lurchers such as the duke of Rutland, Sir Godfrey Baring or the charming Countess Choulesse (white-haired and all in black) must have thought. Perhaps they did not notice.

"Let's hope that the duke of Rutland and the Countess Choulesse did not notice. Why them, poor things, if they did notice and were shocked to insensibility by this American woman, who brought her husband's straw hat, wrapped in brown paper, mind you, right into the Ritz dining room!"

One can imagine the fishmongers' wives and in Billingsgate leading "Corisande's" horrible tale, and wringing their hands and tearfully joining together in a fervent prayer that the empire might be saved from further "atrocities" of this sort.

This is just one of the many protests and notices that have gone up from the British press. They have tried ridicule extensively and still seem unable to check the American "atrocities." England has no "comic papers," such as there are in America, and perhaps that's why many of the papers are altogether "comic sheets."

Lingo Is Berated. At least they are "comic sheets" in so far as they attempt to depict the American. According to the versions

Veterans Are Urged to Revive Insurance

Florence J. Barr, contract representative, United States Veterans' bureau, Mickel building, yesterday appealed to war veterans to reinstate or convert term insurance and offered the help of the bureau.

Insurance lapsed less than three months may be reinstated merely by written application, more than three months on medical examination. In both instances premiums for two months are paid down.

One injured or diseased as a result of the war, provided disability is not total or permanent, may reinstate without meeting any health requirement on payment of all premiums in arrears with interest at 5 per cent, but medical examination report must be submitted.

Medical examinations are made free by any authorized examiner receiving a salary from the veterans' bureau.

Similar rules apply to both term and converted insurance. Term insurance may be converted either at the time of reinstatement or subsequent thereto into any of the six forms of permanent insurance offered by the government. The converted policies all provide for cash, loan, paid up and extended insurance values after 12 monthly premiums have been made.

The policy also provides for total permanent disability benefits as included under term insurance. Benefits in the event of death, however, may be paid in one sum to the beneficiary if the insured so elects.

The contract representative here gives assistance by mail, too.

Woman Shot in Head Opens Her Eyes First Time

Questioning by Detectives Futile; Feels for Rings; Not Expected to Survive Night.

Mrs. Bess Jones, 27, who has lived five days in St. Joseph hospital with one bullet in her brain and holes made by two others through her head, opened her eyes yesterday for the first time.

Detectives hastened to her side in the hope she could solve the mystery of her wounding in her home in the 11er apartments, Sixteenth and Jackson streets, Monday afternoon.

"Did Fred Swan, the Missouri Valley farmer, shoot you?" they queried. Mrs. Jones stared vacantly into space. Her left thumb felt the ring finger of its hand, seeming to search for the $2,000 worth of diamonds she wore when she was shot. Her right side remained motionless, paralyzed. There was no answer. Her eyes followed the investigators as they walked softly away.

For the fifth consecutive day it was predicted she would not survive the night.

Iowa Officials Hold Nebraska Car for Ransom

Machine Lost by Lincoln Man on Omaha Streets Is Held Pending Payment of Reward.

The refusal of Sheriff Paul Beardsley of Sioux City to turn over a recovered automobile, belonging to S. C. Lowery of Lincoln, to Detectives Cich and Buglewicz of Omaha last Friday is being investigated by John J. Pzsanowski of the Omaha auto theft bureau.

The automobile was taken from Fifteenth street near Douglas July 3 and was recovered by the Sioux City officials when a man who gave his name as Roy Rohrer was found driving it.

The sheriff immediately notified Lowery and asked for $50 reward. Lowery turned the matter over to an insurance company. Meanwhile Omaha authorities heard of the recovery and sent two detectives to bring the stolen property and Rohrer to Omaha.

The Sioux City sheriff held the machine for $50 reward and $45 expenses, which the detectives refused to pay. Rohrer refused to leave the state without extradition.

Pzsanowski said last night he would take the matter up with Ben Gibson, Iowa attorney general, and the county attorney at Sioux City.

Policeman Charged With Making "Grudge" Assault. James Banks filed with the city clerk charges against Prophet H. Jenkins, policeman, alleging that at 2 a. m., July 23, he was assaulted in front of the Bell restaurant, 2120 North Twenty-fourth street.

Banks alleges the officer was motivated by dislike.

Giant Gas Well Holds Up Automobile and Railroad Traffic

Bristow, Okl., Aug. 5.—A giant gas well here estimated to be making 30,000,000 feet an hour and spraying barrels of oil hourly, is holding up all traffic over the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad between Tulsa and Oklahoma City. The well is but 159 feet from the railway tracks and has filled the valley for more than a mile around with gas. Railway officials fear the operation of trains would ignite the gas and cause a disastrous fire.

A large force of men is at work to shut in the well. Motor traffic is tied up in many towns because of the danger which would be incurred in the firing of the motor's exhaust.

The giant well is on the Wild Cat territory more than a mile northwest of the present continental pool, and came in Thursday night.
