

Railway Clerks Protest Against Armed Guards

Ask Conference With Harding on Monday—Leaders Threaten to Call All Workers Out.

Cincinnati, Aug. 6.—(By A. P.)—A conference to "prevent further count of defective equipment and armed guards in shops and yards," is asked in a telegram sent to President Harding by E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Station and Express Employees.

Mr. Fitzgerald, in making the telegram public through the Associated Press, stated he had instructed J. J. Forrester, national legislative counsel of the brotherhood in Washington, to arrange a conference with the president Monday to lay before him all the details of the situation. "Unless armed guards are withdrawn from railroad shops and yards," Mr. Fitzgerald said in a statement issued with the telegram, "we will be compelled to advise our members not to strike to remain away from their usual places of employment until their safety can be assured."

Ft. Sill Horse Makes Best Time in Long Race

Colorado Springs, Aug. 6.—The time for the five days' endurance ride made by Jerry, Capt. W. C. Lattimore's horse, from Fort Sill, Okla., proved to be 37 minutes faster than that hung up by Crabbett, winner of the New York endurance test for the 300-mile distance. Jerry's time was 47 hours 8 minutes, while that of Crabbett was 47 hours, 45 minutes.

University of Oklahoma Puts Ban on Klan Activities

Norman, Okla., Aug. 6.—A special meeting of the board of regents of the University of Oklahoma has been called for early next week by H. L. Muldrow of Norman, president, he announced. Mr. Muldrow declined to say what the purpose of the meeting would be, but issued a signed statement in which he referred to alleged connection of Dr. Edwin DeBarry, president of the university, with the Ku Klux Klan and declared that activity on the part of any employee of the university in connection with such an organization was in direct violation of the policy of the university.

Reorganization of Mail Service Opposed by Gompers

Washington, Aug. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, after a series of conferences with representatives of organizations of workers in the railway mail service, announced that he had forwarded protests to President Harding and the chairman of the senate and house postoffice committees against action of the Postoffice department in "curtailing and reorganizing the railway mail service."

Body of Senator Crow Laid to Rest at Uniontown, Pa.

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 6.—United States Senator William E. Crow was buried in Oak Grove cemetery here after impressive funeral ceremonies. United States senators, congressmen and state officials were in attendance. A detail of state police patrolled the national pipe, near Senator Crow's home, where services were conducted by Dr. William Hamilton Spencer.

Corns Go Blue-jay to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plasters. The action is the same.

Pain Stops Instantly

Compare This Price New Tires, Ford size $5.95 At the Sprague Factory, 18th and Cumings

BRINGING UP FATHER

Marriage of Barry Wicklow

By RUBY M. AYRES Copyright, 1922.

(Continued from Saturday.) But Hazel wiped some tears away now as she looked down at Hulbert's sweet-scented roses. They had taken her back so acutely to the summer and Cleave farm. Just such red roses grew on the walls of the old farm and poked their scented heads in at the window of the little room where she had slept for so many happy years.

"All serene?" Delia demanded at the door. She twisted and turned for Hazel's inspection. She was wearing a wonderful garment of shot green and gold, with a tippet of the same colors in her hair. "Is this skirt too long, do you think?" she queried anxiously. Hazel thought it was not long enough, but she did not like to say so.

"You look lovely," she said. Delia beamed. "And you don't look half so bad," she answered contentedly. "Whoever would have thought my old black frock would turn out like that? Hazel, I'd give a fiver if that Barry Wicklow of yours could walk in tonight and see you and me having supper with Laurie and Greaves! It'd be worth a fiver to see his face; I suppose he's never seen you in evening togs, eh?"

"I've never had any before." "Well, you ought to get plenty after tonight," Delia said bluntly. "There's the bell, now smile and look pleasant." But Hazel merely looked terribly nervous when the door opened, and Hulbert was announced; she shook hands with him and tried to thank him for the roses, but he cut her short. "Pooh! That's nothing! Glad you're wearing them; I'll send you some more tomorrow." He held her hand rather unnecessarily long; when presently they went down to his car he rather pointedly addressed his conversation to her.

Delia did not mind; she had a little scheme maturing in her brain as she sat silent in the corner of Hulbert's luxurious car. "Supposing this little cousin of hers 'caught on'—as she called it! Delia's hopes soared high; after all, it was entirely due to her that Hulbert and Greaves had ever met Hazel; it would be worth their while to stump up. Delia knew her own limitations, she knew that nothing very alluring in the way of fame lay in wait for her; therefore, she was determined to make hay while the sun shone in any other direction.

Hazel had told her nothing of Barry's last visit, she imagined that he was still in his own reverie because of the fact that she had let him down so badly; if he ever found out she meant to tell him that a tinner a week had been no good to her, and that he ought to have known it. When the car stopped she slipped a friendly hand through Hazel's arm. She said she was dying of hunger; she told Hulbert she hoped he had seen to it that the champagne was iced.

"And where is Jimmy Greaves?" she asked. "We're meeting him inside," Hulbert answered. An attentive waiter conducted them to a reserved table. Hazel looked round her with wide eyes. She had never seen such a room in all her life; the many lights and the masses of flowers aided her. She stood quite still till Delia touched her hand.

"Sit down, child! There's no extra charge." She obeyed rather helplessly; she found herself next to Hulbert, with an empty chair on the other side. Delia was drawing off her gloves and chattering away about the supper. She repeated that she was dying of hunger; she asked Hulbert if he had ordered greasers. "Good evening!" said a voice. Hazel looked up, startled, to find Norman Wicklow beside her.

The color rushed to her cheeks; she could find no words. He took the empty chair beside her. Delia hailed him rapturously. "Were you been hiding all this time?" she asked. She leaned her elbows on the table and looked at him with bright eyes. "And how's the ankle? We heard all about it." "It's near well," Norman answered. He looked rather agitated. The sight of Hazel had set his pulses racing and brought back his loss to him with a fresh sense of desolation. "What are you doing here?" he asked.

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife" (Copyright 1922)

What Lillian Told Midge About Joe's mysterious friends? I repeated Lillian's words mechanically. Indeed, for a second or two I did not grasp what she meant. The knowledge that she had recognized Harry Underwood after all the care I had taken to keep her from it, together with the startling revelation, made a combination upsetting to me.

"You, Harry! Why, I thought—" She stopped. "I'm at a loose end," he told her, hurriedly. "Will you let me take you out somewhere to supper?" He waited impatiently for her reply. "Well—I should like to come. Will you let my wife be with you?" Barry scowled into the receiver. "No, my wife will not be with me," he said, savagely.

He heard her say "Oh!" with soft amazement, and wondered what she was thinking. Anyhow, it did not matter; he fixed up the time and meeting place before she could change her mind and rang off. He hoped savagely that Hazel would see him. He hoped Agnes would be well turned out. He had often heard it said that she was one of the best dressed women in London.

Director of Milwaukee Railway Dies in Chicago Chicago, Aug. 6.—Burton Hanson, general counsel and a director of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, died at the Presbyterian hospital here at 9:30 last night. Mr. Hanson underwent a minor operation July 24, and apparently was recovering, when he suffered a relapse. He had been connected with the St. Paul road for nearly 40 years, starting in as an attorney in Wisconsin.

Negro Lawyer Nominated for Justice in Missouri

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—Crittenden St. Louis, a negro lawyer, won the republican nomination for one of the justices of the peace in the primary Tuesday, the official count showed. In the event of his election he would be the first negro to hold a judicial office in Missouri.

ADVERTISMENT. DIABETES

A Digest is now in print epitomizing several hundred professional reports which give the results had in Diabetes under direct treatment that will be of immediate interest to everyone having Diabetes or having relatives who have. In most cases the sugar, polyuria and thirst are reported as beginning to moderate between the fifteenth and twenty-fifth days (frequently before). Write for free copy giving the treatment, rationale and epitomes of the results with details in many interesting and some extremely critical cases in which the sugar and symptoms were eliminated. Address RENAL DIGEST, 69 First Street, San Francisco, Calif. You may not see this notice again, hence, if interested, write today.

ADVERTISMENT. HAVE YOU A SWEETHEART?

Son, Daughter, Brother or Sister? If so, write us today to send you FREE the Allen's Foot-Ease Walking Doll. One Drug-gist writes: "These Foot-Ease Walking Dolls are a scream. Many people here are using them at banquets and festivals as table decorations, one doll to a cover. Send us another supply." The Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic, Healing Powder for tender, smarting, swollen feet, is the cleverest novelty of the season. Drop a Postal to Allen's Foot-Ease, Le Roy, N. Y., and get a Doll FREE.

ADVERTISMENT. CASTORIA

For Infants and Children IN USE FOR OVER 30 YEARS Always bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co.

Why Pay More? Ford size fresh Tires $5.95 At the Sprague Factory, 18th and Cumings

SEE WIGGS AND MAGGIE IN FULL PAGE OF COLORS IN THE SUNDAY BEE

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife" (Copyright 1922)

And then, as is ever her way, she shut off the emotional possibilities of the moment with a barrier of the practical. "Besides, our organization will see that she is well watched and guarded," she said. "Can you pack a steamer trunk for Katherine, being sure that every article of clothing you put in has no betraying mark of her real name?"

With an effort I put away the anxiety for my little friend which I know would haunt me until her safe return to us, and answered with confidence. "Of course I can and will. Shall I have an opportunity to see her and find out what she wishes to take, or must I guess at her selection?" "We can see her only once before she goes," she responded, and that will be a distinctly risky proceeding, although I have a plan which I think will work out without any danger of Joe's friends discovering her identity. But Katherine has thought of everything. Dr. Pettit brought me a memorandum from her, containing concise and practical directions for everything she wished done. I'll just turn it over to you now, and you can get busy on it after you've rested a bit."

Drawn for The Omaha Bee by McManus

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife" (Copyright 1922)

erine, she is not the woman to hesitate on that account. That there was a subtle rebuke for me in her answer I was well aware. I knew that she acquitted me of personal cowardice, but I was sure that she—subconsciously at least—resented my putting my fear for Katherine's safety before the patriotic flaming zeal for our enterprise which consumed her own soul.

And then, as is ever her way, she shut off the emotional possibilities of the moment with a barrier of the practical. "Besides, our organization will see that she is well watched and guarded," she said. "Can you pack a steamer trunk for Katherine, being sure that every article of clothing you put in has no betraying mark of her real name?"

SEE WIGGS AND MAGGIE IN FULL PAGE OF COLORS IN THE SUNDAY BEE

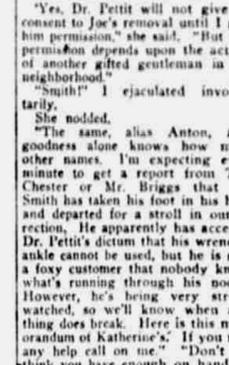

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife" (Copyright 1922)

erine, she is not the woman to hesitate on that account. That there was a subtle rebuke for me in her answer I was well aware. I knew that she acquitted me of personal cowardice, but I was sure that she—subconsciously at least—resented my putting my fear for Katherine's safety before the patriotic flaming zeal for our enterprise which consumed her own soul.

And then, as is ever her way, she shut off the emotional possibilities of the moment with a barrier of the practical. "Besides, our organization will see that she is well watched and guarded," she said. "Can you pack a steamer trunk for Katherine, being sure that every article of clothing you put in has no betraying mark of her real name?"

SEE WIGGS AND MAGGIE IN FULL PAGE OF COLORS IN THE SUNDAY BEE

My Marriage Problems

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife" (Copyright 1922)

erine, she is not the woman to hesitate on that account. That there was a subtle rebuke for me in her answer I was well aware. I knew that she acquitted me of personal cowardice, but I was sure that she—subconsciously at least—resented my putting my fear for Katherine's safety before the patriotic flaming zeal for our enterprise which consumed her own soul.

And then, as is ever her way, she shut off the emotional possibilities of the moment with a barrier of the practical. "Besides, our organization will see that she is well watched and guarded," she said. "Can you pack a steamer trunk for Katherine, being sure that every article of clothing you put in has no betraying mark of her real name?"

Advertisement for Occidental Building & Loan Association, featuring 6% Dividends Quarterly and Absolute Security. Includes text: 'Three Investment Tests: STRENGTH, SAFETY, SERVICE'.

Large advertisement for U.S. Royal Cord Tires, featuring a large image of a tire and text: 'July 29, 1922. ON July 29, 1922, the lowest prices ever quoted on U.S. Passenger Car Tires went into effect—Royal Cords included.' Includes a table of prices for various tire sizes and a list of dealers.