WOMEN IN NEBRASKA HOMES.
One phase of the editorial writing contest must have attracted the attention of all who followed it.

The home is the foundation of America's greatness, the sheet anchor of our national security; the family is the unit of our great community; and the mother is the mainstay of the home and the family.

That is the difference between taxation and just mere talk. The republicans are dealing with concrete facts, endeavoring to give the state good government, and to keep the cost down to a minimum.

GLIDERS AND THE INEVITABLE.
When Germany was limited as to the power of engines that might be used in air ships the expected came to pass.

OUR BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE.
Man still dies, not exclusively as Death said to the poet when discussing Dr. Hornbrook, "from loss of blood or lack of breath," but from a variety of ailments or accidents, many of them preventable.

SOVIETS AND SUGAR BEETS.
Nebraskans have already had some explanation of conditions in Russia in terms of agriculture. Making allowance for the effects of drought, which have been experienced in this state, the result of mismanagement of farms under komisar control was shown in the terrible famine, only now relieved by the activity of the United States.

acre, and the total of sugar produced was but 49,374 long tons. A more eloquent or emphatic indictment of the soviet system could scarcely be framed.

TAXATION AND JUST MERE TALK.
The plank in the republican state platform dealing with the subject of taxation is clear, and sincere. It reads:

Here is a definite pledge, and that it has foundation in fact is evinced by the action of a republican administration that already has cut the state levy by 33 1-3 per cent.

At Polk, on Tuesday, Mr. C. W. Bryan asserted that if he were elected he would further reduce state taxation by 20 per cent.

That time-honored and amiable practice of robbing the dead and poring the wounded after a battle, an earthquake or such tragic occurrence had a marked relationship to the activities of the busy person who takes advantage of any public calamity to bring excessive profits from the people's misfortunes.

Another Wife's Views.
Omaha, Aug. 28.—To the Editor of The Omaha Bee:—My husband happens that only occasionally I manage to procure a copy of your paper, and in those copies I have observed the same attitude you assume in freshly published submitted letters of striking and striving shopmen's wives.

Do Away With Gold.
Omaha, Aug. 28.—To the Editor of The Omaha Bee:—As an objector to the gold standard monetary system, I desire to reply to your editorial "Over the Gold Standard" wherein you state "if the objectors to the monetary unit were to examine the situation and familiarize themselves with what has taken place it is possible they might not insist on the move they now propose."
