

Consulate to Stay Closed Pending Full Investigation

U. S. Government Not Convinced of Misconduct on Part of Officers as Charged by British.

Washington, Sept. 1.—(By A. P.)—The Washington government is not convinced that there was any misconduct on the part of its two consular officers at New Castle, England, who recently were deprived of their authority by British officials, and until a proper investigation has been made no steps are to be taken to reopen the New Castle consulate.

The action of the British authorities in cancelling the exequatur of the two American agents, it was pointed out today, automatically resulted in the closing of the consulate, and if inconvenience to British subjects has resulted, responsibility for it does not rest upon Washington. For the present no other consular officers are available for the New Castle post, it is declared, and in any case this government is immediately interested in having the doubt which has been cast upon its representatives cleared away, one way or the other. Officials here will not discuss the incident in detail, but it is apparent that cancellation of the exequatur came as a surprise, in view of the fact that the action was taken before the State department had completed its investigation into the British charges that the New Castle consul and vice consul had improperly influenced travelers to patronize vessels of the United States shipping board in discrimination of British ships.

It was learned that President Harding has interested himself in the case, and while he recognizes that additional evidence may be produced as the investigations continue, he believes nothing has developed to the present time to reflect discredit on the two men. State department officials said there was no information in their possession upon which disciplinary action against the consuls would be justified.

First representations received in Washington from the British foreign office, containing affidavits alleging that the New Castle consulate officers had exercised improper authority in persuading travelers to use American ships, it was authoritatively said, were answered with a request that the exequatur held by the consuls should not be cancelled until an investigation by this government could be made. The evidence submitted did not satisfy officials here, it was said, that the charges had been substantiated and they asked for time to make an investigation before final action was taken by them. Ambassador Harvey has been fully advised of the situation as it is viewed by officials here. He also has been informed that the policy of this government would be to keep the consulate closed at least until the investigation being made is concluded and the government is able to select new officers to take over the New Castle post. Any request by Great Britain for reopening of the consulate, meanwhile, will be answered in this light.

Coroner's Jury Holds Death of Two in Wreck Accident

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Sept. 2.—(By A. P.)—A verdict of accident was returned by a coroner's jury late last night, following the inquest into the death of the two men known to have been killed in a wreck of fast train No. 815 of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad near Wittenberg 35 miles north of here, when part of the train crashed through a bridge.

About 50 passengers are reported to have been injured, some seriously. The two known to have been killed are: J. P. Warmath of Gibson City, Tenn.

S. M. Yeatts of Hayti, Mo., son of a railroad conductor of the Frisco. Earlier reports indicated four had been killed, among them a woman. This was thought to be due, however, to a duplication in checking the names of the dead and injured.

House Hunting?

Read the list of desirable houses, apartments and housekeeping suites—rooms also—that are offered for rent in the "Want" Ad Columns of The Omaha Bee.

Bear in mind, too, that Omaha Bee rental advertisements are dependable and authentic. Whenever a house or apartment is reported rented, the advertisement is cancelled immediately. In this manner the rental lists in The Omaha Bee are revised completely—new ones added; rented ones removed—twice each day, morning and evening.

In case you do not succeed by this plan, insert an advertisement of your own in the "Wanted to Rent" column. Instead of trudging about the city, wearing out your patience, energy and shoe leather, let an Omaha Bee "Want" Ad find a home for you.
