

Plan for Railway Peace Submitted to Union Leaders

Policy Committee of 90 Discusses Strike Settlement Proposal, but Refuses to Give Out Details.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—(By A. P.)—After an all-day session the policy committee of 90 and the international presidents of the striking railway shopcrafts adjourned to reconvene at 9 tomorrow morning to continue the discussions on the strike situation, according to B. M. Jewell, head of the strikers. At the conclusion of the session Mr. Jewell dictated a statement to newspapermen which he said would cover all points he cared to discuss.

"A proposition has been offered for consideration," said Mr. Jewell. "There was a general discussion of the proposition this afternoon."

Just what this proposition was, Mr. Jewell declined to announce. He said that it would not be made public until after adjournment of the final session of the union leaders and predicted that it would come late Tuesday.

Meeting Opens at 10.

Today's meeting was scheduled for 10 at the old Masonic Temple. Shortly after that hour, Mr. Jewell, W. H. Johnston of Washington, international president of the machinists and a number of policy committee members appeared.

With the arrival of the remainder of the executive members, Martin Ryan, head of the car men; Joseph Franklin, head of the boiler makers; J. P. Noonan, head of the electrical workers; James Burns of the sheet metal workers, and J. W. Klen, head of the blacksmiths, Mr. Jewell retired with them, and was in session until noon.

Jewell Leads Discussion.

At 1 the policy committee members went into session while the executive council resumed its deliberations. Within a few minutes the executive committee reported and then began a discussion of the "proposition," which policy committee members said was led by Mr. Jewell.

The meeting was secret, even delegates being subject to the closest scrutiny.

Early in the day Mr. Jewell told newspapermen that he had had statements prepared. He said that one of these would be released as soon as any definite action was decided on. This was taken to mean that the statements were prepared to cover either contingency, rejection or acceptance of the executive council's proposition.

Century-Old Bricks Offered for Nebraska's New Capitol

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 12.—It has been suggested to Governor McKelvie that a dozen or more of century-old bricks made in Nebraska nearly a century ago might find a prominent place in the new Nebraska capitol. A sample brick has been received by the governor from what was once known as Fort Atkinson, now the town of Calhoun in Washington county. The brick was a present from W. H. Wood. The fort was an army post established by General Atkinson in 1819 and abandoned in 1827. History records that the first time troops were there they made 17,000 bricks, and the yard is reported still visible west of the village park.

Pawnee Stops Paving.

Pawnee City, Neb., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Contrary to the original plan of the city council here, no more paving will be laid this fall. It was the intention to complete almost five miles before stopping, thereby furnishing all the city would need for many years.

Venezelos Expects Return to Power

Geneva, Sept. 11.—(By A. P.)—M. Venezelos, former premier of Greece, who is visiting at St. Moritz with his family, intends to go to Paris, probably on Tuesday, unless the developments in Greece meantime cause him to alter his plans. He is expected to confer with political and personal friends in the French capital regarding the situation in Athens.

Trustees Denounce Removal of Dr. Buckner

loyalty of this church to Dr. Buckner and pledge him the support of this church in any struggle he may make to re-establish himself as a minister of God in the Methodist church. "Be it further resolved, That we insist that the conference reconsider its action and place Dr. Buckner again on the roll of ministers, and that it again assign him to a responsible charge in this conference."

Pastor Issues Statement.

Rev. Mr. Buckner yesterday issued this statement in regard to his retirement:

"I have been retired by the Methodist conference because of the doctrines in which I believe and which have been discussed vigorously. I should greatly have preferred a trial under formal charges, with an opportunity to make a defense and before a jury of the conference charged with the responsibility of going into all the facts and rendering a verdict. I made a request for a trial to the committee on conference relations, stating that I could not accept their suggestion that I retire voluntarily.

Refused to Retire.

"I stated that in common justice I should be tried if my doctrines were believed by anyone to be out of harmony with the church and that I believed I could establish that my views were in complete harmony with the views now held by the leaders of our church. I made this same statement in substance to Bishop Stuntz and his cabinet when they suggested that they did not want a heresy trial in this conference with its attendant publicity and that this could be avoided if I would retire voluntarily. This I refused to do, believing that every man is entitled to an opportunity to defend himself and to abide by the verdict of a jury.

"I am just as loyal and devoted to Christ and His kingdom and the great Methodist church and the work in which it is engaged as I was before my forcible retirement. It is unfair to the church by the action of a small group. I am grieved to see, by a dispatch in the press, that members of my church at Aurora are indignant at the action of the conference and that many of them may withdraw from the church. I shall advise them to remain loyal and to continue their adherence to the church.

Lincoln Heart Balm Verdict

Appealed to Supreme Court
Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 12.—Notwithstanding the Lancaster county district court cut the $8,000 heart balm judgment obtained by Miss Gertrude Henoch against Isaac Stine, rich young Hebrew of Lincoln, to $4,000, the defendant appealed to the Nebraska supreme court.

It was brought out that the acquaintance was brought about through a matrimonial bureau. The girl came to Lincoln and lived at the home of Stine's parents while the court case was pending. It was alleged that Stine consented to marry her and gave her a wedding ring and a trousseau, but when he refused to carry out his promise she left the Stine home and went to the Y. W. C. A.

Howell, Randall and Simmons Speak on National Issues at Meeting of Voters at Kearney.

has demonstrated to make for efficiency and economy.

"I also stand on the republican platform as to doing away with every unnecessary official. The republican platform declares: 'We pledge the party to the elimination of all administrative duplications wherever it will assist in the reduction of the cost to government without impairing its efficiency.'"

Believes in Budget System.

"I believe in the budget system; that is I believe in applying business methods to the conduct of our state government. Through the use of the budget we can ascertain our state's needs; the legislature can make appropriations intelligently, and our money can thereby be expended so that a dollar in value is received for every dollar of the taxpayers' money which is expended. I am not in favor of going back to the old haphazard system of having the legislature appropriate money without any knowledge as to the purpose for which it is used."

Hope for Cancellation.

Mr. Howell pointed out that under the democratic national administration vast sums of money were loaned to foreign nations during the war on an unbusiness-like basis. He cited that J. P. Morgan & Co. loaned large sums to the same foreign nations, but that interest-bearing bonds were delivered before the money was paid. He said that the European nations had paid all interest on the Morgan bonds promptly, and the greater part of the principal.

Expenditures Reduced.

"The republican party took control of the government at a time when depression was at hand," Mr. Howell said. "The method is that the American people have escaped as they have. And the results achieved by the republican party in the last 15 months, during which time only has it had control of all branches of the government, is marvelous. In the reduction of the cost of government alone the results are significant. Expenditures of the government for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1920, were $15,365,000,000.

Democratic Juggling.

"After eight years of democratic rule, the United States emerged with $24,000,000,000 of debt. The democratic orators, of course, will hasten to tell you that this debt was not due to the democratic party, but to the war; and yet, in the same breath, they will charge the republican party with the depression and the business paralysis that has followed, hoping to have you forget that there had been a war—the most destructive war in all history.

Saving in Prohibition.

"In 1914 the retail liquor bill of this country was $2,400,000,000. It probably would have exceeded $3,000,000,000 now. This saving alone would pay off our national debt in eight years. The fact that such a tremendous sum is being diverted into other channels of business is largely responsible for the present mitigation of the national and economic ills that inevitably follow in the wake of war.

"This fact is recognized by the president of Austria, who recently urged prohibition in that country for a panacea for its economic ills. If prohibition persists here in the United States, that England must have been in Europe last fall, by more than one Englishman; although opposed to giving up their ale and Scotch.

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 11.—(By A. P.)—The Manchester Evening News today published an interview by its Dublin correspondent with Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, who appeared to the interviewer to be in good health and who discussed the military and political situation in Ireland freely.

The correspondent quotes Mr. De Valera as saying he is still opposed to the treaty with Great Britain in its present form, but as suggesting that some revision can be obtained if men of good will set themselves to the task.

Propagandists' Story.

"Last year these propagandists told us that the low prices of the farmers were receiving for their products were due to the impoverished condition of Europe, its terrible burden of debt and the interest thereon. Certainly Europe's ability to buy our products was not affected by the amount of interest or principal being paid on this $11,600,000,000 debt, for the simple reason that little was paid thereon. Business men are not unfamiliar with debtors who forget their obligations."
