

WOMAN'S PAGE-MAGAZINE FEATURES

SOCIETY

WITH a cloudless sky overhead and a tang of fall in the air, Ak-Sar-Ben opened its fall fashions Tuesday afternoon. Numerous devotees of the turf were gathered for this first glimpse of the horses and their drivers, although excitement did not run as high as it will later in the week, when favorites have come into their places with the audience.

Red is easily the most popular color this fall, and the grandstand was bright with red hats, sweaters, scarfs and gowns. Summer sport clothes were still in evidence, interspersed with the more somber shades of autumn.

An animated group of subscribers in one of the boxes were the Misses Virginia Pearce, Miriam Wiley, Dorothy Davidson and Virginia Carlyle, who were chaperoned by Mrs. Fred Pearce and Mrs. Jay Foster. Miss Carlyle wore a smart tweed suit with varicolored scarf, Miss Pearce was in a blue sweater and white sport skirt and Miss Wiley and Miss Davidson wore tan sweaters and hats and fur chokers.

Mrs. Pearce wore a dark canton crepe gown with a tangerine velvet hat covered with worsted flowers in harmonizing shades. Her earrings were of the new lapis shade and she wore beads to match. Mrs. Foster had on a dark blue crepe with sand velvet hat faced in black on strictly tailored lines.

To a box with Dick Stewart, Sam Carlyle and Russell McGuire, Miss Frederika Nash, who was wearing the popular combination of sweater and choker with a hat of bright vermilion.

Mrs. George Brandeis and Mrs. V. L. Lewis, who were in the Brandeis box, were smartly gowned in black and white.

Neighbors at Mrs. James Dalsman, Mrs. James Hanley and Mrs. W. C. McKnight. Mrs. Dalsman looked smart in blue canton crepe with collar of Irish lace, and with her blue tulle hat she wore a wide mesh white veil. Mrs. McKnight wore a blue tailored suit with stone marten picker and brown leather toque. Mrs. Hanley appeared in a heavy crepe cape trimmed with Persian lamb's wool.

DuBois Miller.
The marriage of Mrs. Emily Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rader, to William DuBois, son of Mrs. Anna DuBois of Council Bluffs, Ia., will take place Thursday at high noon at the home of Rev. A. S. Buell.

The bride will wear her traveling suit of new brown broadcloth, with fur to match.

Following an eastern trip Mr. DuBois and his bride will be at home in Omaha, after October 1.

Maxwell Boyle.
Miss Max Boyle, daughter of Mrs. Mary Boyle, became the bride of William Maxwell Tuesday morning at St. Philomena church, the Rev. James Stenson officiating. Miss Margaret Boyle, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and John McGrath

Crippled Children Need Coal and Clothes for Winter.

The crippled children of Omaha have moved into their new quarters, the Hattie B. Monroe home for convalescents, at 224 North Sixty-sixth street, and furniture, rows and chickens have been donated by friends of the Society for the Relief of the Disabled, but the children still need clothes, according to Mrs. Myles Standish, chairman of publicity. Anything in the clothing line that will fit boys and girls from 3 to 16 years of age will do. And, coal stoves or no, the home cannot run without fuel. Any amount down to a bushel basket full will be most acceptable. Clothes and coal should both be delivered to the home.

For Miss Hayes.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott entertained at bridge Tuesday evening in honor of their guest, Mrs. Frances Hayes, of Jefferson City, Mo.

Those present were the Messrs. Hayes, and Mesdames Charles Neal, S. R. Kerkowick, Arthur Loomis, Miss Rachel Metcalfe and the Messrs. Edmund Booth, Edward Pettis and Edward Phelps.

Harvest Home Party.
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Belden entertained at dinner last evening at Happy Hollow at the Harvest Home dinner-dance, when their guests were the Messrs. and Mesdames E. R. Hume, Frank Clark, Irving A. Medlar, Byron Hastings and the Messrs. Beth and Devo Clark.

For Mrs. Williams.
Mrs. A. L. Williams of Keok, Conn., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Irving Henniken, for two months, was honor guest at luncheon Wednesday, when Mrs. Myles Standish was hostess. Covers were placed for six.

Picnic.
The Kensington of Banner Mountain lodge No. 111, F. A. U., gave a picnic at Elmwood park Saturday evening. Mrs. Hostetter was in charge. Sixty-five were present.

Party Postponed.
The girls' team of the Degree of Honor, who had planned a card party for Thursday at the home of Mrs. M. M. Merrill, had postponed the affair till the last week in September.

Saturday Bridge.
Miss Elizabeth Elliott will entertain at bridge Saturday afternoon at Happy Hollow.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Heusman announce the birth of a son at Nicholas Senn hospital on Tuesday.

Miss Betty Galt, who has been spending the summer with friends on Long Island, returned the first of this week.

Miss Virginia Carlisle returned Monday from St. Louis, where she has been visiting her grandmother for 10 days.

Master Billy Scott, son of Dr. Waldo Scott of Chillicothe, Mo., who has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Scott, returned to his home Monday.

Lieut. and Mrs. Alfred Gruentler and Mrs. C. M. Gruentler left Tuesday for a visit with relatives in Columbus and Flatie Center.

Miss Winifred Smith is expected home Friday from a summer in the east. She has just been visiting a school friend in Philadelphia.

Miss Fena Mahoney, who is at Long Beach, Cal., spent last weekend as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watles at their beautiful place in Hollywood.

Mrs. M. Wright of Los Angeles is the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. Ziegman, and Mr. Ziegman. They will visit in Omaha for several weeks before returning home.

Edmund Booth left last evening for Cleveland, where he will visit W. H. Bemis, who was his classmate at Dartmouth. Mr. Booth is enroute to Boston, where he will study in Harvard university this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wyman are leaving September 29 for Washington, D. C., where they will spend the fall months. Their daughter, Miss Margaret Wyman, will enter DeWitt Ferry this month.

Miss Esther Newman has as her home guests the Misses Mildred and Dorothy Brown, who are playing at the Orphanum this week. Miss Newman and the Misses Brown were classmates at Columbia university in New York.

Mrs. J. M. Lowe and Mrs. C. C. Howe leave Friday to motor to Winnebago, Neb., over Sunday. When they return they will be accompanied by Mrs. Howe's niece, Mrs. Eileen Harris, and her daughter, Marjorie, who will remain for a week as her guests.

Miss Blanche Deuel and Miss Marion Hamilton Share Bridal Honors.
Among the sunny affairs that are being given for Miss Blanche Deuel and Miss Marion Hamilton, whose weddings will take place October 4, are an afternoon bridge given Saturday, September 23, by Miss Emily Keller at her home. On Friday, September 29, Harry Koch and Dr. Robert Schroek will give a dinner and theater party, and on the 30th Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton, jr., will entertain at the Country club at dinner in their honor.

Thursday evening of this week Miss Deuel and Dr. Sage will be honored at a dinner and bridge given by Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Durkee, when the Messrs. E. P. Boyer, W. R. Wood and Donald Owen and Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Bartsch will also be present. September 20 Dr. George Roehler will give an "After the Parade Supper" at the Athletic club in honor of Miss Deuel and Dr. Sage and they will again be honor guests when Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rees entertain at dinner at their home Saturday, September 23.

Miss Elinor Burkley will entertain at dinner the last of the month in honor of Miss Hamilton and her fiance, George Hamilton of Washington, D. C.

Alpha Beta Club.
The members of the Alpha Beta club were entertained at the home of Mabel Elmqvist on last Saturday evening. Decorations were in lavender and white. Those present included:

- Misses—Annette, Various, Alice, Leon, Helen, W. J. Miller, Florence, Marjorie, Winnie, Helen, Mabel, Elmqvist, Dorothy, DeWitt.
- Mesdames—Robert, Nelson, J. O. Kinnison.

Living Room Suite Given Away Kroehler Davenport Week by Union Outfitting Co.
Kroehler Exhibition Brings Low Prices; Shows How to Have Extra Bed.

An extra bedroom without extra rent is possible if you have a "Kroehler" Davenport in the home and Thursday at the Union Outfitting Co., his feature and other conveniences of the Kroehler are being demonstrated.

Friday, September 15th, at the close of the Demonstration, a handsome Living Room Duffit comprising a three-piece "Kroehler" Bed Davenport, Suite, a Floor Lamp and 8-3x10-6 Rug with 45 other articles will be given away.

Advertisement:
Just Apply This Paste and Hairs Will Vanish

(Household Secret.)
The judicious use of a delicate paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered substance with some water, then apply to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. Wash the paste off, remove the skin washes every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain attends the use of the delatone and it will not hurt the most sensitive skin, but to insure results see that you get real delatone.

SOULS for SALE

By RUPERT HUGHES.

(Continued From Yesterday.)
SYNOPSIS.
The story opens in the church of the Harvest Home. Elwood is in the little town of Fairport. Doctor Stedman had never seen a meeting picture, but he knew the world was going to crack and rain and in his sermon this Sunday night he said the time was near, the time of the soul's sale.

His daughter, Remember Stedman, seated in the choir, wished he would be interested in her. He was in the church tower, Elwood Farnaby, a self-made young farmer, the most eminent drunkard. The Rev. Mr. Stedman had forbidden his daughter the company of young Farnaby, but the letters had been meeting secretly.

Remember's face turned deathly pale when Farnaby whispered to her the fact that he was employed as a fortune teller. She was an almost total abstainer from the vice of blame. When he found people sick or delirious or going insane he did not scold them for their recklessness in catching cold or catching fever or taking in the deils for reasons. He tried to restore them to comfort and the practice of his Love was endeme, and good fortune was more frequent than good conduct. He felt no call to insult the victims of bad luck in love. His answer to Men's greed for all the blame and all the punishment was a gentle reminder.

"It's not a question, my child, of your rights or his. It's a question of the rights of a future citizen."
Men wept and beat his clenched hands upon her brow and on the doctor's desk. He let her fight it, carrying no consolation fit to offer. He studied her as he had studied many another wretch tossing on a bed of coils and crazed with pains of body and mind. He saw how beautiful she was, how thrilling and how thrilled with that fire which builds, homes and burns them up, kindles romance and devastation.

He felt a little sympathy even for the unknown man, and imagined how helpless the wretch might have been to resist that incandescence in which Men was as helpless as he, since the flame cannot become ice by any power of its own.

The doctor reached out and clenched hands with Men in the fiercer throes of her regret, or laid a fatherly cross on her bowed head. "He must have told you he loved you," he said.

Men was not brilliant of mind, and she was subjected utterly to the coercion of discipline. She was like a flower grown in a pot on a shelf. Lacking strength to break it and go free, she would stay small and pretty and obscure. If something happened to break the pot and fling her out on the open soil she would make a desperate effort for her life, and if the soil were fertile she might grow to amazing heights and beauties; if the soil were sterile she would simply die. But she had nothing within her to fling her off the shelf.

So when Doctor Bretherick proposed a marriage he proposed something unthinkable at present, and, though that Elwood's job was gone, thinkable as far toward as the girl's easily lattered mind could touch.

Doctor Bretherick, who knew so much about a lively people, did not happen to know that Men and Elwood had been meeting secretly. So he did not take young Farnaby into consideration. He was a little surprised when Men refused to tell him the name of the man. He admired her wretchedly when he saw her trying to protect the fellow even from reproach.

"He's no more to blame than I am, and I have no right to ruin his life."
When Doctor Bretherick called the man a scoundrel she grew fierce in his defense.

Doctor Bretherick wasted no time on the expression of virtuous horror. He was an almost total abstainer from the vice of blame. When he found people sick or delirious or going insane he did not scold them for their recklessness in catching cold or catching fever or taking in the deils for reasons. He tried to restore them to comfort and the practice of his Love was endeme, and good fortune was more frequent than good conduct. He felt no call to insult the victims of bad luck in love. His answer to Men's greed for all the blame and all the punishment was a gentle reminder.

"It's not a question, my child, of your rights or his. It's a question of the rights of a future citizen."
Men wept and beat his clenched hands upon her brow and on the doctor's desk. He let her fight it, carrying no consolation fit to offer. He studied her as he had studied many another wretch tossing on a bed of coils and crazed with pains of body and mind. He saw how beautiful she was, how thrilling and how thrilled with that fire which builds, homes and burns them up, kindles romance and devastation.

He felt a little sympathy even for the unknown man, and imagined how helpless the wretch might have been to resist that incandescence in which Men was as helpless as he, since the flame cannot become ice by any power of its own.

The doctor reached out and clenched hands with Men in the fiercer throes of her regret, or laid a fatherly cross on her bowed head. "He must have told you he loved you," he said.

Men was not brilliant of mind, and she was subjected utterly to the coercion of discipline. She was like a flower grown in a pot on a shelf. Lacking strength to break it and go free, she would stay small and pretty and obscure. If something happened to break the pot and fling her out on the open soil she would make a desperate effort for her life, and if the soil were fertile she might grow to amazing heights and beauties; if the soil were sterile she would simply die. But she had nothing within her to fling her off the shelf.

So when Doctor Bretherick proposed a marriage he proposed something unthinkable at present, and, though that Elwood's job was gone, thinkable as far toward as the girl's easily lattered mind could touch.

Doctor Bretherick, who knew so much about a lively people, did not happen to know that Men and Elwood had been meeting secretly. So he did not take young Farnaby into consideration. He was a little surprised when Men refused to tell him the name of the man. He admired her wretchedly when he saw her trying to protect the fellow even from reproach.

Common Sense

Are You Prepared for What You Want to Do?
You are issuing a lot about not being able to go ahead and do some of the things your ambitions would lead you to undertake.

You do not see an opening for your talents, and so you sit back and worry and whine about not having opportunities.

It is the place in which you live that is at fault, or possibly, you attribute your inability to get a certain job to personal animosity among your acquaintances.

But did you ever know any one who could do a thing better than any one else who had to take a back seat for a year or six?
Certainly not!
The great thing is to prepare yourself.

Be so full of your subject that it is bound to bubble over wherever you go.

If you also listen find anything good and true in what you say, and you get them interested when they are among others they are bound to talk about it.

It is first a question of whether you are prepared to fill the place to-day, tonight it need be. If not, the sooner you get down to study the better.

Parents' Problems
How can children best be taught a spirit of co-operation?
By instilling them to co-operate. Team games are a real help in this matter. Membership in clubs is helpful. Best of all is to see the mother and father co-operating with the neighbors in all sorts of helpful enterprises.

Jolly Seniors.
The Jolly Seniors will give an Old Times dance at DuBois hall, Twenty-fourth and Ames avenue, Thursday evening.

Child-birth
Valuable Illustrated Book Sent Free.
How thousands of women, by the simple method of an eminent physician, have avoided unnecessary suffering through many months and up to the moment Baby has arrived, is fully explained in the remarkable book, "Motherhood and the Baby." Tells also what to do before and after baby comes, probable date of birth, baby's cries, and about "Mother's Friend," used by three generations of mothers, and sold in all drug stores everywhere. "Mother's Friend" is applied externally, is safe, free from narcotics, permits easier natural readjustment of muscles and nerves during pregnancy and child-birth. Start using it today. Mrs. E. H. Karger, Dayton, Ohio, says: "It quiled me through." Send for book today, to Bradford Regulator Co., 215 E. Adams, C. "Mother's Friend" is sold at all drug stores.

MRS. ZANDER cleaned Uncle Sam. The politicians are going to clean Andy Gump. We clean men's two or three-piece suits for $1.50.
DRESHER BROS.
2217 Farnam Street AT lantic 0345

The Store of Thomas Kilpatrick Co.
Established in 1870.

A first showing of Uncommon Wearing Apparel

NOT AN "OPENING" in the strict sense, but merely an announcement of our preparedness. To those who desire a delightful glimpse of the achievements of Fashion and her Interpretations of AUTUMN

We extend a most cordial welcome. You are invited to look or to buy, as your fancy dictates. In either capacity you are equally welcome. Our happiness is to successfully serve.

A SHOWING OF:

Suits . Coats . Frocks . Gowns . Fabrics . Furs
Caps . Blouses . Millinery
Lingerie . Corsets
AND OTHER NECESSARY ACCESSORIES

Stout Wear (42½ to 56½)
For the stout or near stout women who have heretofore had difficulty in procuring garments that give a much desired slenderized effect, the offering is complete.

Children & Juniors
The outfitting of girls who are going away to school is a daily delight with us—and to them. Nor are the younger sisters forgotten—even tiniest tots are remembered.

Choice Fabrics
Of silk and wools, distinctive as to quality and style, chosen by experts of the demands of fashion. Materials combed from the markets of America and Europe. Woolsens for Coats, Suits and Wraps. Silks for Dresses, Blouses and Undergarments.

Ak-Sar-Ben Visitors
Will find in all sections of this store unaccommodating salespeople who tell the truth about our merchandise. Every fact of the organization is for your use and guidance. May we extend a most hearty welcome?

THE BRANDEIS STORE

Men's Two Trouser Suits

In New Fall Styles

Two Pants MEAN Double Wear

Models for Men and Young Men

A large and complete showing of snappy new fall models for men and young men. Authoritative styles suited to every individual requirement are included in a wide selection of patterns. There are suits of high grade Worsteds, Cassimeres, Cheviots, Serges and Flannels in new patterns; Pencil Stripes, Heavy Stripes, Solid Colors and good looking Mixtures. All are carefully tailored in sport models, semi-conservative and conservative models; all sizes for men of all builds.

Priced at 30⁰⁰ 35⁰⁰ 40⁰⁰

Gaberdine Top Coats
For men and young men; this is the season when the gaberdine topcoat is almost indispensable. It can be used as a dress topcoat or as a raincoat. Its trim tailored lines and good quality material make it serviceable and practical for all occasions. Our selection of fine tailored gaberdine topcoats in the new raglan models and in the newest fall shades merits your consideration.

Priced From 20.00 to 30.00

Fourth Floor

