Autumn Blouses

Jacquette and overblouses are quite the newest in a season of new things—and combine with their modishness the ability to turn a skirt and blouse into a costume.

The Jacquette blouses fashioned of matelasse crepe or of satin tucked or quilted in color are best worn with the Costume skirt of self or of contrasting material.

Crepe de chine and satin overblouses are elaborately embroidered in vivid colorings or in suit shades. Prices are moderate.

Autumn's Footwear

There is no question about the vogue for satin, although there is a preference for the brocade, quarter. Patent leather with high French or straight Spanish heels continue to be worn for both street and dress—

Pair, $8.00 to $12.50

Street Oxfords

As the season progresses street oxfords come into prominence. There are the usual all black and brown styles, but combinations such as patent with tan suede and patent with gig saddle, with low, military and Cuban heels—

$8.50 to $11.00

Evening Slippers

The sheer ecstasy of feminine loveliness that permeated the court of Louis XIV finds expression in the delicacy of evening slippers. Silver cloth, made wishbone colonial one-strap style with high French heels are priced—

Pair, $12.50

Apparel for Girls

Apparel designed especially to become younger girls may be found in great variety at our Girls' Shop.

School dresses and party frocks: Twills, serges and the new Sky Drift in styles smart and youthful; velvets quaintly cross-stitched and cantons embroidered with beads and with metal threads; pale-tinted taffetas.

Heavy school coats are warmly lined and made of heather, polo, herringbone and pebbled chevot. Fur collared dress coats, are fashioned on soft lines of Shawsheen and suede cloth. Sizes 6 to 12.

Hats of Velvet

are to play a most important role in millinery modes for Autumn. Paris doesn't seem to mind whether the hats we wear are large or small, if only they are of velvet; so our collection embodies every favored shape and style—in velvet. The colors are true and deep—black and every Autumn shade.

Girls' Hats

Delightful styles, quaint or jaunty, that softly frame small faces. There are so many hats of finest materials that every little girl may find her very own hat.

Autumn Exposition

FASHION, with fickle fancy, has turned her back upon careless and carefree modes, showing favor only to studied grace and dignity. Frivolity is in discard—the Mode has grown up.

Not for many seasons have styles so well expressed the gracious charm of lovely women.

It is as though the Renaissance of Costume in every land had contributed its best by way of inspiration. From out of the styles of age-old artistry has crept this season's mode, as it has been interpreted to meet the requirements of today's most admirably costumed women.

Do you get the merest hint, the littlest mind's eye glimpse of what awaits you here? The new shades the season sponsors, the new fabrics, the new and subtly changing silhouette—all these in apparel that reflects careful shopping—models adapted to the conservative styling of Burgess-Nash patrons—models of a quality in keeping with the standards of this institution—marked at prices entirely within moderation.

We cordially invite you to be our guest during this Exposition, and to see how readily you can assemble a wardrobe of smart costumes which you will wear with pleasure, and in which you will be distinctively appareled for every occasion.

Dresses of Charm

Very new in the season's mode are slim, clinging gowns of canton and crepe-back satin, the ultra plainness of which is relieved by graceful draping; Lizard crepe in line soft and supple attaches a single metal ornament for adornment; chiffon velvets are quaint with basque and circular skirts. Priced as low as $25.00 and up to $150.00.

Smart Wool Frocks

A frock that does not demand a wrap is particularly interesting at this time of the year.

Coat effects and long slender lines—admirable cuts for street wear. A silken tassel, and Egyptian girdle, or half a sleeve, enliven the severity of black or or midnight blue. Moderate at $19.75 to $95.

Coats and Wraps

The coats and wraps present a combination of luxury and utility that is almost irresistible. It may be their velvety pile fabrics, their graceful slender lines, their lavish use of fur, or perhaps the combination of all that makes them lovelier than ever you have known them.

Fashioned of Geroña, Preciosa, Marvella, Marova and Panvelain and priced moderately at $79.50 to $250.00.

The New Tailleurs

The one costume in which a woman may feel correctly attired in all places and at any hour.

Warm and wintry duvetyns with soft loose lines are generally three-quarter length and collared in fur—$125 to $195.

Tricotines and twills, long straight-coated models that reach below the knee, are priced at $35 to $85.

Simple, yet adroitly tailored models of mannish mixtures prove ever serviceable, especially for business—$45 to $85.

Newest Hosiery

Since shoes persist in being of two shades, hosiery must exactly match one tone. The smartest of these are lovely silk hose clocked in contrasting color. But whichever hose one chooses she will delight in the excellent weight and even weave.

Pair, $1.00 to $9.50.

Wool Hosiery

Smart as soon as it may be worn with comfort. The lighter weight silk and wool mixtures are woven in practically every shade this season, while heathers and clocked models vie for favor with the novelty ribbed hosiery in Derby, Richelieu and open-ribbed weaves.

Pair, 98c to $5.50

Evening Hose

That trailing skirts may not eclipse the silken ankle, jet beads are embroidered in intricate design.

Sheer net and chiffon in silver and gold match slippers that glisten and gleam.

Pair, $3.50 and $5.00

Silks and Woolens

A pretty woman is at her best in silks; a plain woman derives grace and charm from their softness. Among the favored crepes are

Marinette Crepe, Yard, $2.95

This 40-inch crepe, in a weight heavier than crepe de chine, is exclusive with Burgess-Nash company. Lingerie, street and evening shades.

Burnasco Crepe, Yard, $2.95

Knitted crepe of 36-inch width in orinot, muffin, liberty, jade and other new shades.

Crepe de Chine, Yard, $1.69

Of excellent quality for frocks, blouses and lingerie. 39-inch width; all shades.

Chiffon Velvet, Yard, $4.95

It is not so much the new silhouette as the rich fabrics that so well adapt themselves to the plainness of the mode. Heavy and lustrous is this chiffon velvet in black and street shades.

Coatings, Yard, $3.95 to $9.50

Exquisitely soft and warm are Veldrome, Chantilly, Camaline, Krimmer, plaid back and reversible coatings.
