A completely beautiful wedding is not merely a combination of wonderful flowers, beautiful clothes, smoothness of detail, delicious food. These, though all necessary, are external attributes. The spirit or soul of it, must have something besides, and that "something" is in the behavior of the bride and groom.

If a bride chooses to be married in traveling dress, she has no bride's maid, though she often has a maid of honor. A "traveling" dress is either a "tailor made," if she is going directly on a boat or train, or morning or afternoon dress—whatever she would "wear away" after big wedding.
