

Officers on Both Sides of Border Hunt Revolt Chief

Capt. Valverde Thought to Have Escaped to El Paso; Prisoners to Face Military Trial.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 2.—Federal authorities on both sides of the border last night were searching for Capt. Feliciano Valverde, leader of the revolt of the 43d regiment in Juarez Saturday morning, which was smashed by Gen. Mendez, Mexican commander.

Belief that he had escaped to El Paso, where it is said he has friends and relatives, was strengthened when three horses taken from the regimental stable by Capt. Valverde, were found at 11 yesterday morning, one of the horses was identified as that ridden by the captain during the battle.

Ninety-nine soldier prisoners will be taken to Chihuahua City for trial by a military court, Gen. Martinez, commander of the northern military zone, announced. While the general would not hear a statement as to what the finding probably would be, court martial of rebel forces often results in execution.

Juarez was restored to its old de vivre last night. Streets were crowded, while cafes and saloons did a rushing business. Save for gossip on the street, there was no indication that a portion of the garrison had been defeated in a two-hour battle about the customs house.

The number of dead was reported as follows yesterday:

- Seven rebels, three executed prisoners, two fiscal guards, one private of the second regiment of mounted gendarmes and one civilian. At Liberty hospital there were five wounded rebels, one loyal soldier and four civilians. Three officers wounded in the battle were in El Paso hospitals while several soldiers, fiscal guards and civilians slightly hurt were at their homes and had not been listed.

"The situation is quiet and I probably will leave for the north," said Gen. Martinez. "Troops which I brought to Juarez with me will remain here until further arrangements are made."

RADIO Crystal Detects at Long Distance

Operator Reports Receiving 8,000-Mile Message on Mineral Receiving Set.

For all around reception, it is doubtful that any crystal will give better results than may be had from galena. Merely procuring a piece of galena and putting it in your set, however, will not do. It is necessary to procure a large-sized piece and break it up into smaller pieces, testing each piece. It may be necessary for you to try a great many pieces before you find one which is truly sensitive, but the task is entirely worth while.

A very good method of testing crystals is to have a double detector stand or two detectors which may be thrown into the same receiving circuit at will; one is used with any crystal and the other is used as the test stand by placing various crystals in it. As soon as one crystal is found which gives satisfactory results it may be used as the standard and others may be compared to it. In making the comparison, some single transmitting station should be picked out and the strength of its signals used as the determining factor.

Care of Set.

The crystal is the heart of the crystal receiving set and some of the sets which have been thrown back on the hands of their manufacturers by dissatisfied purchasers would have given satisfactory results if a little more care had been exercised in selecting the crystals with which they were equipped.

It comes more or less as a shock to most new radio enthusiasts to learn that the commercial operators on shipboard have received signals with crystal sets, without any amplification whatever, over distances in excess of 8,000 miles. One operator, in making a trip from New York to San Francisco by way of the Straits of Magellan, received press dispatches from the old Telefonken station, located at St. Louis, L. I., nearly every night of his voyage. Another operator, on a trip from an east coast port, through the Panama canal, to Corral, Chile, which is some 200 miles south of Valparaiso, received press, weather reports, and time signals from the United States naval station at Arlington over his entire trip with the exception of four days, and those four days were spent in the Torrid zone where the static was extremely severe.

The widespread extension of the use of the radio telephone is beginning to affect the mining industry in some quarters of the country to such a degree that the supplying of crystals of certain ores has become a small industry in itself.

These mineral crystals are used as detectors that transform the pulsating electrical vibrations received by the antenna into those that can be converted into sound waves by the telephone receiver. The bright cubical crystals of galena, a natural compound of sulphur and lead, is a favorite detector, and pyrite or chalcopyrite—the first a combination in chemical form of sulphur and iron, and the other sulphur, iron and copper—are also used.

The British imperial government plans to connect Great Britain with South Africa via Cairo and Nairobi, by a series of short-range stations. The South African station of this chain is to have a range of from 2,500 to 2,600 miles. The present radio equipment of four days, and those four days were spent in the Torrid zone where the static was extremely severe.

Spanish-American War Hero Dies at Home of Daughter

Man Who Commanded Oregon on Famous Voyage to Key West Expires in California.

Long Beach, Cal., Oct. 2.—Head Admiral Charles E. Clark, who, when a captain, commanded the battleship Oregon on its famous voyage from San Francisco to Key West and later in the battle of Santiago, July 3, 1898, in the Spanish-American war, died at the home of his daughter here late today. He was 79 years old.

Admiral Clark, who retired from active service in 1905, and later came from Washington, D. C., to reside with his daughter, Mrs. Charles P. Hughes, wife of the present commander of the Seventh battle division of the Pacific fleet, had been in apparently excellent health up to 10 days ago, when he suffered an attack of heart trouble. This grew gradually worse until death overcame him. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hughes were with him when he died.

Funeral services for the famous naval officer will be simple and attended only by intimate friends of the family. They will be held at the Hughes' residence here at 2 P. M. today afternoon. Admiral E. W. Eberlee, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and other high officers will attend.

Lightning Hits Oil Tanks; Damage Placed at $250,000

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Lightning early last night struck two 55,000 barrel tanks at the Union Oil company's tank farm at Otum, 15 miles from here, on San Pablo bay and set them afire. One contained crude oil and the other refined product. The damage several hours later was estimated at $250,000.

The bolt came during the first thunder storm in this region in many months. One section of the roof of one tank, a piece of heavy metal 29 by 29 feet, was thrown 50 feet. Employees at the tank farm devoted themselves solely to keeping other tanks from taking fire. They were assisted by a west wind which blew the flames from the main plant at the farm, distant some 400 feet from the burning tanks.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—(By A. P.)—Approximately 100 representatives of bituminous operators and miners from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and West Virginia will meet here on Monday to consider matters pertaining to the coal industry which have been subdued since the mine strike ended, and to make arrangements for a conference next January when miners' wages for the coal year beginning April 1, 1923, are to be formulated. Another purpose of the conference will be to initiate an investigation of the industry concurrently with that to be carried on by the fact finding commission to be appointed by President Harding.

The conference also may recommend representative union officials and operators for places on the president's coal commission.

Parson-Aviator Can't Pay Alimony

Flyer Seeks to Have Judge Cut Monthly Assessment in Half.

"I love aviation, judge, I am staying in it in the interests of the science of flying," declared Andy Nielsen, "parson-aviator," in District Judge Goss' court, where he was seeking to have the temporary alimony of his wife, Emma, reduced from $150 to $75 a month.

"Don't you make enough money to pay $150 a month for the support of your family?" asked the judge.

"No, there isn't much money in flying. I am sacrificing myself because I love it."

The wife's attorney showed that Nielsen has paid an average of only $43 a month ever since the order for $150 was entered.

The judge took the case under advisement. Nielsen tried to talk to his two children as he went out but they politely avoided him.

County Hospital Nurses Walk Out

Staff Delivers Ultimatum and Then Quits Following Dispute.

The entire staff of trained nurses at the Douglas county hospital "quit" Sunday night as a climax to a dispute between them and Superintendent Dan Westergart.

"We called their bluff," said Mr. Westergart. "They delivered their ultimatum Saturday, but it didn't get them anything. Their places are already taken by a new staff of trained nurses."

Miss Grace Bradley, head nurse, Elizabeth Winsell, Lucy McNeal, Ophelia Kerk-berg and Mary Husman are the five nurses who are out. Miss Bradley's position pays $150 and board a month.

The walkout is said to have followed a dispute over authority.

Davis Asked for Opinion on Referendum Ballots

Lincoln, Oct. 2.—An official opinion was asked of Attorney General Clarence A. Davis by Secretary of State Darins M. Amsherry as to whether separate ballots will be required for the referendum laws to be voted upon at the general election in November.

A variance appears in the 1922 statutes in regard to the point. The section of the law in regard to ballots declares for separate ballots on referendum issues while the sample ballot illustrating the law shows the referendum issues to be a part of the same ballot as that containing the names of candidates.

Heretofore, according to Mr. Amsherry, ballots had been printed and elections had with referendum measures printed upon the same ballot as the candidate list.

Traffic Cop Weds Fair Speeder "to Reform Her"

Sioux City, Oct. 2.—Cupid rode on the radiator of Miss Fern Amelia Connor's high-powered automobile as she drove recklessly down Morningside boulevard, patrolled by Carl Nyberg, motorcycle "cop."

Miss Connor, who is a daughter of Arthur M. Connor, former Sioux City banker, eloped with the officer, who used to make motoring miserable for the dashing society but who is now his wife. The wedding was kept a secret until last night.

Nyberg said: "My wife used to drive over my head so fast that I had to stop and remonstrate with her so often that I just decided that I had better marry her and teach her how to drive the car right."

Feature Transactions on Livestock Exchange

One of the visitors at the stock yards Monday was John Lorimer, veteran cattle buyer of Kansas City. While here he is making his home with his brother-in-law, Homer Winder, head cattle buyer for the local Armour plant.

"If I had known that Omaha and the surrounding country had such a brilliant future 20 years ago I would have located here," said Mr. Lorimer. "The country around Omaha is like a garden with its thousands of beautiful farms."

Mr. Lorimer started in the livestock business in Kansas City in 1882, starting with trading stockers and feeders and filling orders for Chicago buyers. He expects to stay here several weeks.

A consignment of 85 head of top-notch finished cattle averaging 1,661 pounds was brought to the local market by George Luther of Wisner, who received $11.50 a hundred, the highest paid for full lots at the local yards this year.

Three carloads of fine grass fed Fulsed Angus steers were marketed at the stock yards by C. C. Foster of Max, who was accompanied by his eldest son, Joe.

"The shortage of cars to send live stock to market has interfered with the game," said Mr. Foster. "It took me three weeks to get cars enough to move by small shipment and many farmers are waiting to get cars in which to ship their cattle."

Armstrong's Linoleum

for Every Floor in the House

Beautiful Floors make more beautiful rooms

If you are building or remodeling your home, give thought to the decorative value of linoleum floors.

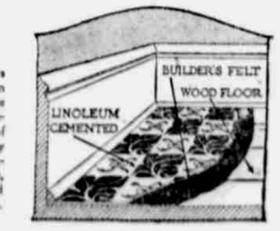

Write for our booklet, "Decorative Linoleum Floors." It contains twenty-four color-plates showing patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum in inlaid parquetry designs, carpet in-laid, Jaspés (two-tone), and marble tile in-laid. You can take this book to a store and show the merchant exactly what you want to see.

Modern linoleum makes a real floor. When the best quality of linoleum is properly laid, it makes a permanent floor with these advantages:

- Linoleum floors are the easiest of all floors to keep clean. They are quiet to the tread, warm to the touch, and can be kept looking new by occasional waxing and polishing. Grease and dirt do not rub into linoleum. With your rugs here and there, you have a floor that never needs refinishing and that is sure to be admired.
- Any good furniture or department store will gladly give you estimates on the cost of Armstrong's Linoleum put down in your home.
- Armstrong's Linoleum Rugs
- For people who live in apartments or who have houses on short leases and consequently do not wish to install permanent linoleum floors, Armstrong's Linoleum is also made in the form of bordered rugs. Thirty attractive patterns in four sizes from 6 x 9 feet to 9 x 12 feet.

How to Lay Linoleum on Wood Floors

IN summer the moisture in the air causes wood floors to expand. In winter they dry out and contract when the heat is turned on, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.
