

Cries of Women Rise in Mourning in War-Torn Area

Burning and Massacre at Alashheho and Panderma Might Well Furnish Inspiration for Dante's Inferno.

Smyrna, Oct. 1.—(Copyright, 1922.) Smyrna, Oct. 1.—(Copyright, 1922.)

From the mountains and valleys of western Anatolia, from the ruins of shattered huts and from what were strong cities there arises the same pitiful appeal, the cry of anguish that cannot be assuaged, the agony of spirit that cannot be healed.

Soldiers are weeping for their women folk, nursing hate against the foe. Wives and mothers are crying for husbands and children for need relatives. Hate ever has been the heritage of man's stupidity.

From the blackened Moslem fields, from mountain villages, far behind the Turkish lines, where nearly half a million of the people of Islam seek new homes, and from what were strong cities there arises the same pitiful appeal, the cry of anguish that cannot be assuaged, the agony of spirit that cannot be healed.

One woman, the time of birth upon her as she struggled toward the boat that was to take her away, passed, stooping, through a dock gate, carrying the newborn babe in her arms, two older children tugging at her skirts.

Two women, to seek to nurse their hour-old babies, saw their children placed at the breasts of a vigorous young mother who had been nursing her first born.

Appeal to Americans. A father, mother and daughter pass. The son, a youth of about 20, is held behind, despite the fact that he is very ill. The three cried as they said good-bye to him.

Capt. Powell, the American naval officer in charge of the American detachment passes. The girl pleads with him in broken English: "Save my brother, he is ill with pleurisy. Please, oh, please, save him."

Ahmed Emin Bey, graduate of the University of Columbia, an editor of a paper at Constantinople, goes with Capt. Powell to interview the Turkish officer in charge.

A doctor was called and saw the boy. The boy was returned to his family. He was a burden to them, but they all rejoiced at his return.

Children Trampled. But the crowd surges on. Again we are submerged in its agony. Children stumble and are trampled to death. The barriers are closed for a minute while another ship docks. A cry goes up from the mob, always ready to believe the worst, that the gate has been closed on the refugees forever.

Those in the crowd fight like beasts for a place at the gate. They are robbed of their reason by terror. In the midst of the milling crowd, a child goes to the floor. A Turkish soldier throws himself over the child to protect it from being crushed. Not once, alone, but many times this happened.

Toward the shore end of the pier, soldiers, off duty, are robbing the refugees, receiving bribes. Unseen, an officer approaches, striking right and left with the butt of his revolver he steps the pillars for a moment, but when he is gone it is resumed.

Bankers Cheer Allied War Debt Cancellation

Change in Schedule. The importance of the issue today caused President McAdams to upset the schedule of the convention so that a resolution adopted by the anti-branch men may be put to a vote tomorrow.

Resolved, by the American Bankers association that we view with alarm the establishment of branch banking in the United States and the attempt to permit and legalize branch banking; that we hereby express our disapproval of and opposition to branch banking in any form in our nation.

Resolved, that we regard branch banking or the establishment of additional offices by banks as detrimental to the best interests of the people of the United States. Branch banking is contrary to public policy and violates the basic principle of our government, as it concentrates the credits of the nation and the power of money into the hands of a few.

The Terrible Turk

Befezed Soldiers Politely Move to Allow British to Erect Barbed Wire—Give Tommies Horse Laugh at Night.

By Henry Wales. (Copyright, 1922.)

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—The armistice began Sunday, the Angora assembly empowering Mustafa Kemal Pasha to order the cessation of hostilities and the suspension of all military operations in the Dardanelles, Asia Minor and Thrace.

At Chank all danger of a Turkish surprise attack on the city is believed to be past since heavy British reinforcements have arrived, together with the emplacement of numerous batteries and miles of barbed wire entanglements and the arrival of additional bombing planes.

Funny stories about the opera bouffe war in the Dardanelles are heard. Yesterday morning a British wiring party next to Xerxes seat, facing the nurrows, found half a dozen Turks squatting where they intended to erect the entanglements.

"Excuse me, would you mind moving over a bit and let my men wire here," the English captain asked the Turk leader, who languishingly proffered a cigarette and withdrew his men.

Last night a company commander decided to reinforce the front before dawn while the Turks looked on, and then in the darkness withdrew his men to a comfortable bivouac half a mile in the rear. While the Tommies were stolidly walking back from the trenches one of them dropped his tin hat with an awful racket.

"Have the Turks fired on you?" I asked an aviator. "Shoot? Never. They wave their handkerchiefs and cheer me," he replied.

Compulsory Surgery Asked in Case of Injured Workman. Lincoln, Oct. 3.—(Special).—Commissioner Kennedy asked the supreme court today to rule whether he has the power to compel an injured workman who had been drawing compensation money to submit to an operation of a relatively simple nature that surgeons said would restore him to usefulness on penalty of stopping his income.

Jack Frost refused to obey, and the district court said he could not be compelled to submit. It gave him $9 a week for the remainder of his life. The United States Fidelity & Guaranty company, which carried the risk, appeared to protest against this judgment, asserting that it meant a total payment of $18,000 if Frost lived his normal span.

Bloodhounds followed the trail to the river bank where it is believed the robbers escaped in a boat.

Ship Subsidy Bill Defended by Speaker

Edward C. Plummer of the United States shipping board addressed the House yesterday in a defense of the pending ship subsidy bill.

"Foreign shipping interests are fighting the bill and down in Maine we learned long ago to find out what our competitors don't want us to do and then do it," he said.

District Judge W. G. Sears, republican nominee for congress, spoke on the domestic relations court.

"I am a convert to it myself," said the judge. "I used to twist my colleagues a little when they had the juvenile and domestic relations dockets. But I hadn't had it myself for 30 days before I knew it was the most important docket in the court."

A Queer World

A Girl Has a Legal Right to Paint Her Lips, Even If Her Husband Is a Preacher—The Turk Fireman Doesn't Worry.

They Can If They Want To. Cincinnati, Oct. 3.—Pretty Susan F. Flowers, a girl wife, was granted a decree of divorce from her aged preacher husband, the Rev. Jefferson Flowers, formerly a prominent figure in the Ohio Methodist Episcopal denomination as pastor of the fashionable York street church here, on her defense that a wife has the legal right to powder her cheeks and paint her lips if she thinks she can add to her charms by so doing, whether she is the wife of a preacher or not.

The wife admitted in her petition that she had angered her husband also by donning short skirts, wearing bright colored hose and stylish fur wear.

Much Ado About Nothing. London, Oct. 3.—(By A. P.)—The Russian note of protest against a blockade of the Dardanelles has caused some surprise in official quarters, as the British government has been of blockade and strongly doubts whether there is any justification for protest. It is considered possible, however, that the allied commanders for military considerations, may have adopted measures of a blockade character in the Dardanelles.

The Turk Smoke Eater. (Copyright, 1922.) Constantinople, Oct. 3.—One thing the Turks want the allies to leave in Constantinople when the time comes for their evacuation—the British fire engines. Nearly daily the British army fire department saves the city from destruction by fire, the motor apparatus quenching the incipient conflagrations before they become properly started.

The Turks do not possess fire fighting means. A group of barefoot youths in pants and red shirts, carrying a little two candle power hand pump loping down the street and crossing a low monotone dirge is the fire signal, and they are the Turk smoke eaters enroute to the scene of the blaze.

Since the premises on fire are regarded as Allah's desire for the buildings to burn, the youths do not pay much attention to the fire and they concentrate chiefly in picking up rare valuable souvenirs.

Obstinate. Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Johanna Ryan has sent her 10th day in jail here for refusing to sign her name to certain papers that would effect a settlement of community property between herself and the husband from whom she obtained a divorce in July.

Mrs. Ryan today reiterated her determination not to sign the papers and Judge E. M. Card, who ordered her to attend her signature, said he would negotiate with her no further but would permit her to remain in her cell until she had changed her mind.

Farmer's Car Stolen. Beatrice, Neb., Oct. 3.—(Special).—A car owned by Theodore Hasenour, a farmer living near Piekrell, was stolen from in front of the Mennonite church here and was found on the highway three miles northeast of Beatrice by Sheriff Emery, having been stripped of tires.

Engineers Clear Road Inspector

Committee Report Recommends Few Specific Improvements.

A committee of the American Society of Civil Engineers, called in following the controversy over the Bauer and Johnson paving at Ninth and Pacific streets, made its recommendations yesterday. They were accepted by the county commissioners.

The engineers recommend that more care be taken in inspection work, but on the whole clear William Campen, whose inspectors drew fire when the joint good roads committee sought to force the contractors to lay another two inches of concrete on the base of the paving at a cost of $15,000 before it is surfaced with bitulith.

A few specific improvements are recommended by the engineers' committee, but no general improvements which would involve great expense.

The committee consisted of George W. Bates, William Grant and Homer V. Knouse.

A dispute over the surfacing now threatens to result in court action. Bauer and Johnson want to lay the bitulith surface without the supervision of Warren brother, who control the bitulith patent. County commissioners insist that the provision of the contract which calls for this supervision be observed. It is said Bauer and Johnson would save $30,000 by laying the paving themselves.

Church of All Nations Pastor Makes Talk Here

Dr. E. E. Helm, pastor of the Church of All Nations, Boston, addressed the annual meeting of the Omaha City mission at the mission headquarters, Twelfth and Pacific streets, Monday night.

Dr. Helm, a national authority on the "good will industry," urged establishment of such an activity in Omaha. Under the plan, the mission would collect old clothing from homes, make it over into wearable garments and sell it. The industry would give employment to needy persons, their wages to be paid from sale of the garments.

Dr. Helm stated that there now are 22 such organizations functioning in cities of this country.

Merchant Marine Needed by Shippers, Says Plummer. Establishment of the United States merchant marine on a permanent basis so that American business may reap its share of foreign trade and commerce before foreign shipping interests get a hold on oceanic traffic was the gist of an address made yesterday by E. C. Plummer of Washington, a commissioner of the U. S. shipping board, before the Lions club in Hotel Fontaine. Members of the foreign trade and commerce committee of the Chamber of Commerce will hear Mr. Plummer Thursday noon in the club rooms.

Iowa G. O. P. Meet Raps Brookhart

200 Republicans Pledge Support to Democratic Candidate.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 3.—Resolutions were passed at a meeting of 200 Iowa republicans here this afternoon denouncing Smith W. Brookhart, republican candidate for United States senator, and pledging support to Clyde L. Herring, democratic candidate.

Plans for a state-wide campaign among republicans, to hold the candidacy of Col. Brookhart, who was nominated over a field of five other candidates at the June primary, were perfected.

An executive committee composed of leaders in the 11 congressional districts of the state was appointed with power to organize precinct committees for the purpose of bringing about the defeat of Col. Brookhart. W. H. Powell, editor of the Ottumwa Courier, was named chairman of this committee.

Col. Brookhart was denounced in practically every one of the score or more speeches made at today's meeting as a radical with socialistic sympathies.

Herring was not mentioned by name in the resolution but was referred to as "the only candidate for United States senator who is opposing socialism."

Shell Rock, Ia., Oct. 3.—Smith W. Brookhart, republican candidate for United States senator, in a speech here, declared that the bolters' convention in Des Moines represented no one but themselves and invited them to do their worst.
