

R. B. Howell Raps Stand of Bankers

Warns Voters of Danger in Following Advice of Morgan to Cancel Allied War Debt.

Questions for Opponent

By F. C. POWELL. Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee. ... Action taken at the national bankers convention Tuesday at New York in favor of the proposal of J. P. Morgan & Co.'s representative that the people of America cancel the $11,000,000,000 European debt assumed by R. B. Howell, candidate for United States senator, to still greater efforts in imposing upon the people of Nebraska the danger of ultimate cancellation of the debt.

"It makes my blood boil," Mr. Howell said, "to hear of J. P. Morgan & Co. who have loaned billions to Europe and received its money back, proposing now that the people let their money go without repayment. You bet J. P. Morgan received bonds for every penny he loaned. To offset this powerful propaganda for cancellation there must be developed an aroused public sentiment against R. B. Howell, candidate for United States senator, to still greater efforts in imposing upon the people of Nebraska the danger of ultimate cancellation of the debt.

Yet, my distinguished opponent is trying to lull the people of Nebraska to sleep suggesting cancellation of a debt which is a dead issue because the present congress in establishing a re-funding commission to get negotiable bonds from the debtor nations. Bonds that Secretary McAdoo didn't get when he let them have the money. ... "Will he tell the people why he and his democratic colleagues allowed Secretary McAdoo to violate the law authorizing the loan and directing the secretary to get bonds therefor, which the secretary never did, and to this day we have nothing except the I. O. U. of debtor nations?"

Randall Favors Explaining. Charles H. Randall, candidate for governor, accompanied the party as far as Pierce. From there he went to Norfolk to attend a meeting of republican county central chairman from the Third congressional district. Congressman Robert E. Evans will be present at the meeting and there was genuine regret expressed that Mr. Howell could not attend. It was agreed that Mr. Howell should continue to fill speaking dates scheduled the remainder of the party and Mr. Randall will join the party again at Wausau tomorrow morning.

At all times Mr. Howell and Mr. Randall outlined the entire state ticket. Especially was the subjugated appreciation at Pierce, the home of O. S. Spillman, candidate for attorney general. "Well sure give Spillman a big margin in Pierce county," C. W. Brand, editor of the Pierce County Herald, said.

"This county also is near the home of Mr. Randall, and on every corner one hears from people who know Mr. Spillman and Mr. Randall nothing but words of praise for their character and ability. At Pierce the party was met by H. H. Muffy, chairman of the county central committee. ... Speeches were delivered today at Lindsay, Humphrey, Madison, Pierce, Plainview and Creighton. Dr. J. H. Tolkin met the party at Lindsay. At Humphrey, one of the trustees of the party was visited. Dr. Ryan and Judge E. C. Helm had charge of the party.

At Madison plans for a luncheon were discussed because of absence of the woman who was to serve it. W. J. Dowling, chairman of the Third congressional committee, and A. H. Ward, secretary of the committee, looked after the welfare of the visitors. Mr. Howell is looking forward with anticipation to a return to the Fifth district later in the month when the congressmen are to be elected. He will address the people at Hastings. There addressed a big republican rally at Indianola last week. Later the Howell party was met again by Congressman Andrews, who rode with Tom Curtis to the border of the district.

At Lincoln. A crowd of over 200 waited past the dinner hour at 245 West for the arrival of the Howell party. He reached the city shortly after 6. About 750 persons, who had come to town for the address, were faced to listen to Mr. Howell's address. ... ## President Urges Bankers to Lead People to Thrift

Says Members Must Show Citizens Ways to Save Expenditures and Ways of Economy.

New York, Oct. 4.—In a message to the American Bankers' association, in convention here, President Harding today urged that its members "must lead in recommending our people to save expenditures, to ways of economy and thrift, to the consideration of municipal and national problems in that connection which builds the temple of confidence."

The message addressed to Thomas E. McAdams, president of the Bankers' association, follows: "Public affairs and personal careers seem to have combined to render impossible, once more, my acceptance of the invitation to the annual gathering of the American Bankers association. My regrets are the more poignant because I hope to be able to say some few things to your members on this occasion."

"I have so many times expressed my admiration and appreciation of the part which the banking interests played during and following the war, that I do not need to remind you of my sentiments in this regard. Rather, I wish to appeal to your great organization in behalf of my conviction that another, a more exclusive, and perhaps a more different opportunity of service is today presented to you."

"To the patriotism, steadfastness and right-thinking of its financial leaders, the country owes very much in connection with financing the war, later in restoring stability, confidence and security throughout our economic structure. The banking community has always co-operated splendidly in dealing with these problems."

"I today our country, the world, all human kind, are demanding that the co-operation be extended to wider realms; to those social, moral, ethical problems which are crying for understanding attention. They cannot be denied; they grow increasingly insistent. They call for an application of the same spirit of wise and willing co-operation which is the very basis of the bank."

"I have often thought of the bank as first among modern institutions of social unification. On the basis of a complete confidence in its integrity and aims, it aggregates together in vast available masses the scattered bits of credit and resources which otherwise would be unavailable for great undertakings and make possible huge producing organizations which characterize the modern industrial community."

"We have come to times which require a new aggregation of the social sense, the ethical ideal, the moral inspirations and the best intelligence in order to promote the true welfare of men individually and in communities. This I have come to regard as the most pressing requirement of our day and to its accomplishment I invite and to its assistance of our day find most useful if to want to place yet greater burdens. To full share in these obligations I am now urgently inviting you. By experience, conduct."

Fighting Spirit Wins for Giants

With Score 2 to 0 in F. Yanks in Eighth. Warriors Tied at 2-2.

Huge Crowd Sees Battle

By HUGH FULLERTON. Omaha Bee Local Wire. ... Fighting spirit, captured the opening struggle, 3 to 2. ... The Giants hit and played against Bush almost exactly as they were hoped to do, but the Yankess failed to make good against Nehf. McGraw had gambled hard and staked the entire series on this first game. If he won he figured his team to have almost an even chance to capture the series in the weak pitching staff. If he lost with Nehf it was all over, but the shouting.

His National league advisers urged him to take a chance with Jannard and save Nehf for a game he could win, but the little general refused and used Nehf. Nehf pitched for a letter that he was doped to do it. True, he was saved twice by marvelous catches and does not get credit for the victory, which belongs to Ryan, former Holy Cross star who, when hope seemed dead, stepped in and stopped the Yankess.

Victory Deserved. The breaks all favored the Giants and the Giant luck, triumphed in the end, but the victory was deserved, for when beaten the Giants staged one of their famous rushing attacks, and swept Bush out of the game, driven by the sheer fury of the attack. It is true, too, that the direction of their hits, even in that first attack, was lucky, for when Scott played neat second base they hit between him and third and when he played the other way they hit over second.

True, also, that Young's catch saved Nehf heavy punishment and provided for his thrill of the day. The Yankess' luck in hitting into double plays was bad for them, but part of the game. They were outplayed and outgunned, the Giants showing superior generalship and more speed. Bush pitched a magnificent game until the seventh when a lucky hit almost sent him to bed, but he was saved.

Harding Birthplace Purchased for Home. Mount Gilead, O., Oct. 4.—That President Harding expects to return to the scene of his birth and boyhood days on his retirement from the White House became a possibility yesterday when French Crow, postmaster at Marion, O., and personal friend of the president, announced that he had purchased the old Harding homestead in North Bloomfield township, Morrow county.

Mr. Crow was quoted as saying the president intends to restore the house in which he was born and where he lived with his father and mother until he went to Marion to seek his fortune. The building for a number of years has been used as a storehouse.

The homestead, consisting of 246 acres, has been in possession of Harry Erickson, who resided on the farm.

Reactionary Legislation Is Predicted by Gumpers. Washington, Oct. 4.—Declaring it is to be pertinent to a principle he has taken to a party, President Gumpers of the American Federation of Labor, in a formal statement tonight, predicted that no important reactionary legislation would be enacted by the next congress because of the labor's activities. The federation head asserted that "labor has stung the reactionists in congress effectively" by its opposition to "Trotsky reaction," and announced it would continue to take that stand through the present campaign and election.

Mr. Gumpers warned "reactionary politicians" that "labor has a difficult, progressive organization in every state in the union," and was working to "reverse congress from the bondage of 'Trotsky reaction'."

'Nation Needs Laws Gained at the Knees of Our Mothers'

First Woman Senator, "Grand Old Woman of Georgia," Declares "We Must Have More Thought of the Simple, Sweet Virtues of Life."

Waterville, Ga., Oct. 4.—(By A. P.) "A woman who has lived to be 87 and still retains her optimism over the outlook for human control in America cannot help but realize that it is not so much of laws to govern men and women as it is a question of enforcement. This was the statement of Mrs. W. H. Felton, who has become the first woman senator, as she declared at her home here today that she is succeeding the late Senator Thomas A. Watson without excusing herself over such questions as the tariff, bonus, and the fast disappearing "diamond type of girl."

"Good laws and good law makers," she continued, "we already have. I shall not strive to win glory in statesmanship. If only I can aid in making men and women live cleaner, sweeter and more wholesome lives, I shall be well satisfied."

Old-Fashioned Mother. Mrs. Felton reminds one of the old-fashioned mother portrayed on the American stage of today. Her hair is as white as snow and her face wrinkled, but, despite her age, she is very active. She possesses a magnetic personality. Although retiring in her manner, "the grand old woman of Georgia," as she is known through the south, talks as fluently as she writes, and does not hesitate to express her views on important issues.

"I am not interested in the fast disappearing flapper type of girl," she smiled as she removed her gold-rimmed glasses, "but I am interested in the modern young woman. The light of a new day is growing brighter for her."

Tar and Feathers Applied by Mob to Bartley Men

Runaway Wedding and Alleged Insults to School Girls Lead to Early Morning Attack.

Bartley, Neb., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—Leonard Noel, 35, and his companion, Al Jennings, a Bartley resident, were tarred and feathered and ordered out of town under threat of hanging if they returned by a mob of citizens who broke into town jail, where the men were confined.

Noel had been arrested a second time after eloping to North Platte three weeks ago with Velma Spe, 16, and was jailed with Jennings. They were said to have made insulting remarks to high school girls at noon, when Noel appeared at the school and demanded an interview with a sister of his "bride."

It was about 2 in the morning that an infuriated mob surrounded the jail, broke the padlocks, and called for the two men to come out. They threatened to burn the jail if they refused to appear. Finally the pair came out and their clothes were stripped from them. They were doused with warm tar, over which the mob applied feathers. The men were then told to get out of town.

Noel had been working at Bartley about two weeks. At North Platte, when he obtained the marriage license, he and the girl are said to have told the clerk that she was 19 and her parents were dead.

When Theodore Roosevelt left Omaha last night he carried with him a Bible, the gift of Mrs. W. R. McAdoo. "I wish I had a bible," was Col. Roosevelt's answer at the Hotel Fontenelle late yesterday afternoon when a member of the local committee asked if there was anything to which the committee could attend. "I wish I had a Bible" was Col. Roosevelt's answer. "I wish I had a Bible," he added, "I quote the Bible quite a bit. I suppose I got the habit when I taught a Sunday school class. And I like to quote it exactly. But I want the unvarnished English language as at the most beautiful stage of its development."

Further discussion developed the fact that Col. Roosevelt, a member of the Dutch Reformed church, was married to a Presbyterian by a Baptist minister, assisted by a Methodist minister, by use of the Episcopal service.
