Accident to Mauretania Will Delay Sailing Date

Southampton, England, Oct. 4.—The steamer Mauretania arrived here at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, 24 hours late. The delay was caused by the liner's inability to use her fourth propeller, which reduced her speed to 20 knots. The liner's sailing for New York, scheduled for October 7, was cancelled today. She will be laid up for three weeks or longer.

Fighting Spirit Wins for Giants in Opening Game

With Score 2 to 0 in Favor of Yanks McGraw's Warriors in Batting Rally Score Three Runs.

(Continued From Page One) though evidently weakening, and the bombardment which followed was the result of that accident. In fielding a slow roller he slipped and fell, hurting the foot which has been crippled by a bone bruise and the pain evidently upset him, as he could not step right on the plate.

Forced to Change Form. When he strove to save the wounded foot, McGraw's coaches yelled at the umpire and the umpire forced him to stand so that his weight fell on the bad foot. Trying to save agony, he changed his motion and from that time on was wounded.

Nearly four hundred policemen battled the crowd, held back the surging swarms that strove to reach the field. A few minutes after 12 when the capacity of the reserved sections was exhausted and for blocks around the Polo grounds the streets were jammed, while every train brought new hopeful ones to be turned back. At least 15,000 persons were turned away and the late ticket holders had to battle to get through the cordon of police and the pressed back throngs until some turned away discouraged.

"Matty" Given Ovation. The first excitement came when Christy Mathewson, idol of the base ball world, entered the grounds upon which, for two generations of baseball, he reigned. The crowd stood and applauded and as he was recognized a wave of cheering followed him while his old friends flocked around to cheer him.

Both teams marched out to the monument in center field and placed a wreath on it. Then came the Eddie Grant, then, having gone through all the preliminaries of a New York show, the ball-players were permitted to get into action.

Nehf pitched a ball, then a strike to Witt and a foul followed. Witt lined a sharp fly to center and brought the first roar from the crowd. Groh grabbed Dugan's easy high bouncer and tossed him out and Ruth came up, amid a real outburst of applause. He took two swings, Nehf pitching fast and low to him. Then he ran up on a fast curve and struck out.

Giants Hit Bush. With one gone the National leaguers started at Bush, hitting his speed properly, just meeting the ball. Groh dropped a short single into left and Frisch cut a line single to the same spot, advancing Groh to second. A short passed ball gave Groh a start and he slid brilliantly into third, Frisch trailing him to second. Irish Meusel fouled out easily to Schang and in the pinch Young popped an easy one to Papp.

Two more down for the Yanks before they could dent Nehf's speed and fast breaking curve, then Schang tipped a meaningless single to left. Groh came near halting on the grouse by grabbing Ward's lumber in front of Frisch, but recovered and made the throw all right. Bush was using terrific speed and a side-swing fast ball that had the Giants fazed. Bushcroft set the crowd wild in the third, when turning his back to the field he coasted straight out into left and caught Bush's short fly, setting a momentum which was to carry the team out in the thirteenth when little Groh, who is the best speed hitter in the league, and who was scheduled to die in the seventh, snatched one of Bush's fast ones for a strike, which was wasted.

Babe Caught at Second. The Yanks seemed to have an opening in the fourth when Dugan started with a single. Bush fanned him out, with the count three and ten, played his card and ran with Papp, who swung the third strike at Bush and led to his death at second in the first double play of the series.

Kelly singled in the Giants' fourth, but two were out and Meusel popped softly to Ward. Ross Young's miraculous catch saved Nehf in the fifth when he seemed to be wobbling. Meusel had singled and been sacrificed down when Ward drew a pass and with one out, Scott slashed a hard low liner to right.

It seemed so certain a hit that the runners were racing around the bases when Young, by a sliding dive forward, snatched the ball just above the ground and tossed it back to Frisch, completed the double play that wrecked the rally.

Spillman Looks at Tax Receipt

Finds Democrats Spent His Money, But Fails to Find Rascals.

Lincoln, Oct. 4.—O. S. Spillman, republican nominee for attorney general, in an address before a large gathering at College View, exposed the attempt by democratic politicians and propagandists to lay the blame for deflation upon the republican party. He said that the deflation order went out many months before President Harding was inaugurated.

Then there came that deflation which was mentioned in the republican platform. The republican platform said intelligent deflation. Had the democrats followed that platform, the danger would not have been thrust into the nation's side.

"We have passed through a silk shirt period—during that inflation, when they said go on, and we spent money like water. When deflation came, we had to pay. And who is to blame?"

In speaking of taxes, Mr. Spillman took up the democratic battle cry of "look at your tax receipt and turn the rascals out."

"After I had located something like 51 per cent of my tax there in my home county, I looked to see who should be turned out. I found that the mayor was a democrat, also most of the councilmen and that a majority of the members of the school board were democrats. They are all good men—not rascals. Then it occurred to me that I had petitioned for a new school building, for paving and for electric lights. I saw very clearly that there were no rascals to turn out for the things that cost money, must quit buying so much, quit calling for so much and quit out expenditures to the bone until we get our bearings again."

The republican party is asking that you stay with it until it completes the task of cleaning up the debris after eight years of democratic rule. Paralysis is leaving us. Prosperity is coming. The sun will shine again."

Power Line Right-of-Way Is Refused Western Towns

Lincoln, Oct. 4.—(Special)—The villages of Maxwell and Brady lost out in supreme court on their appeal from a decision of the railway commission to the effect that they cannot occupy the Lincoln highway to North Platte with their power transmission line. The court affirmed the case without an opinion.

The Union Pacific complained that the high tension wires would be apt to cut the telegraph wires of a highway company that it would interfere with the proper use of its wires.

The applicants rested their case on the claim that mere occupancy of a highway cannot be used to keep others from using it.

Friend of Lincoln, 89, Asks Divorce From Frivolous Mate, 70

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Frances Lowe Corbit, who was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln, is 89 and linked to a gay Lothario of 70, a more irresponsible and still sowing his wild oats, and she asks that she be granted a divorce.

She says she became the wife of Elwood P. Corbit in an "intellectual marriage," but soon discovered that her frivolous mate was after her money chiefly. She has an estate of $100,000 and charges him with conspiracy to defraud her.

But there are other charges. Corbit had five other wives and he still boasts, according to the bill filed, of his amours and conquests, in all of which his wife's money was of great assistance. Her insanity and Corbit's attitude considered notorious in 1915, when he was sued for breach of promise by Mrs. Rose E. Ford, who alleged he married Mrs. Corbit when he was engaged to her.

In her bill Mrs. Corbit says her husband still loves Mrs. Ford and communicates with her by telephone and letter daily.

Artillery Loosed on Democrats

Candidate for Congress Tells College View Audience of Bryan Epidemic.

Lincoln, Oct. 4.—R. H. Thorpe, veteran political campaigner, said in a speech at College View: "Either Gilbert Hitchcock has sold his birthright for a mess of pottage of the Bryans have sold theirs. After 25 years of enmity, we see this glorious spectacle, Hitchcock taken down to the Bryan pool and immersed in the Holy water."

Mr. Thorpe, who is the republican nominee in the first district for congress to fill the unexpired term of Congressman Reavis, opened all the valves in reviewing the history of what he termed the Bryan epidemic.

"We've eradicated the epidemic as a nation-wide disease," he said. "Now it's up to you to eradicate it locally. The first epidemic of Bryanism was in 1896, when W. J. carried a tin pail and a butcher knife."

He said that each year, the Bryans manufacture a new paramount issue. "Two years ago at the Lincoln city auditorium, he handed out some of his sugar coated pills which are worse than quinine. I heard him tell the story of how for 25 years he had fought Gilbert Hitchcock and the brewers. It was grand the way he told it to an intelligent people. He pictured Hitchcock as being entrenched back of the liquor interests."

"Had Senator Hitchcock been the deciding factor, not a woman would have the right of suffrage today. When day after day, it needed but one vote, Hitchcock would not cast that vote. The women of Nebraska are not to be deceived."
