Iowa-Yale Grid Contest Next Saturday

Fans Anticipate Hard Fight When Teams Coached by Brothers

By WALTER ECKERSALL.

ALTHOUGH a number of important football games will be played in all sections of the country on Saturday, the inter-sectional struggle between Iowa and Yale at New Haven will be followed with intense interest by every person connected with the popular college game.

Not only will this contest go a long way toward determining the caliber of football as played along the Atlantic seaboard and in the middle west, but it will bring together two eleven coaches by brothers who are among the best gridiron warriors ever developed at old Eli.

The Hawkeyes, which won not only undoubted championship of the Big Ten last season, but the western title as well, are coached by Howard Jones, who played end at Yale and pitched on the baseball team. Howard gave Iowa a team last fall which gave its followers the first opportunity to celebrate a championship since 1910.

Yale to Play Safe Game. Tad Jones, a great quarterback in his day at Yale, is developing the Blue eleven and indications are he will have it primed for a great effort next Saturday. In the games played thus far old Eli has shown improved strength in general play, but the supreme test will come on the weekend when Iowa will throw caution to the winds and try to defeat one of the best in the east.

The tactics employed by both eleven are what the close follower of the game will be interested in most. It is almost a certainty Yale will follow the old established custom of playing a safe game and will not take any chances until the ball is well into Iowa territory. Yale will employ the kicking game whenever the punt will be sent away before a fourth down is called.

Expect Hard Fought Battle. Yale cannot be said to have a pinch by any means. Old Eli will be called upon to combat a forward pass attack the like of which it never has met since this play was first used back in 1906. In fact, the result will depend on just how much damage forward pass does to the successful Hawkeyes. The Hawkeyes will go east with one of the most varied forward pass attacks ever given a western eleven. It has this attack because Coach Jones has the men who can execute it.

While weight is not such an important factor as it used to be, Yale will not have anything on Iowa. The Hawkeye line from tackle to tackle will average over 190 pounds. Of the five center men four are veterans, while Emmendinger, the new man at tackle, has played considerable football. Kinkaid, a veteran end, will be one of the flank players, while the other will be well taken care of by any of three candidates whom Jones is schooling.

New York "Comish" Raps Joey Lynch

New York, Oct. 7.—(Special)—Joe Lynch, the world's bantam champion, who pulled and stalled through 15 rounds against Jack Wolfe in Madison Square Garden a couple weeks ago will go unpunished.

'Babe' Ruth's Home Run Record Should Stand Forever, Says Scribe

By I. E. SANBORN. BABE RUTH'S record of 59 home runs in a season will stand unbroken forever, if the movement started by President Johnson of the American league to make four batters more uniform is adopted by the major leagues this coming winter.

The proposal to lengthen the distance from home plate required for a home run out of bounds will eliminate the present easy method of obtaining a jog around the circuit which stands as a record in any direction. But it is impossible to increase the size of the ball park, of course, but by changing the minimum distance required for a home run, there can be produced greater uniformity in the records of the batters.

Umpires are supposed to be numbskulls of all things survey on the ball field, but John Olson, Cleveland sandlot umpire, confesses that a girl batter had him down and out in the Neils Park Girls' Baseball league. When he called a second strike on her, she stepped from the batter's box, snatched the umpire's glasses, wiped them on her handkerchief and handed them to the surprised umpire.

"Here, take them," she said. "You need them worse than I do." And there was no comeback.

Simpson has not entered a meet since his graduation and he is working daily to get in trim once more. It will probably be the last chance to see the "king of hurdles" in action.

Missouri Tigers Rather Defeat Huskers Than Eat

Coaches Kelly and Garrity Working Hard With Their Eyes Turned Toward Nebraska Game.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 7.—Head Coach Tom Kelly has something to worry about, now that the yardlings nearly defeated the varsity squad in the first game of the season. The University of Missouri Tigers' showing during the four 15-minute quarters was enough to make anyone worry. Although the Tigers would rather beat Nebraska than any other team in the conference, Missourians admit the Cornhuskers look best. Although the game is some weeks away, a few bets placed in local stores give the Nebraska squad 25 points. Some bets are being handled that Missouri will not even score.

Old Tyus Cobb, who has been running through the rays of the baseball spotlight for nearly two decades, isn't going to permit the present season to pass without taking some record or at least trying one. George Siner was stopped from hitting consecutively in his 42d game and Cobb still holds the consecutive hitting mark of 42 straight contests. On the same afternoon Tyus was getting his 200th hit of the season. In spite of the fact that 15 runs were scored, and it was a heavy hitting game. At the close of the contest Umpire O'Day still had two clean balls in his pocket, not having thrown out a new one during the entire nine rounds. O'Day being the only umpire to use the ball in all the years he had been umpiring.
