

Striking Shopmen Meet Setbacks in Injunction Case

Motions of Union Attorneys Denied—Hearing to Make Order Permanent Will Start Thursday.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Attorneys for the striking shopmen met two setbacks before Judge Wilkerson in their legal fight against the strike injunction secured by Atty. Gen. Daugherty.

Atty. Richberg moved that the government be compelled to furnish a bill of particulars, giving the details of the offenses charged against the strikers. This was denied by the court, on the ground that to furnish such information would limit the action of the government in prosecuting the action to make the injunction permanent.

Atty. Richberg then brought up his motion to have three circuit judges review the legality of the temporary injunction. Judge Wilkerson said that in the absence of a formal request from the attorney general for such a certificate of judges, he was not in the power of the court to do so. The court would be asked to have the evidence in support of a permanent injunction referred to a master in chancery for hearing.

Next Thursday, October 12, was set as the date for a start on the hearing on the permanent injunction and it is expected Atty. Gen. Daugherty will be present.

Suppression of Book Discussed by Authors

The alleged suppression by the Japanese government of the novel "Kimono," news of which comes at a time when censorship is an active issue in this country, both with respect to plays and books, has been the topic of lively discussion in literary circles.

George Creel, head of the recently formed committee of authors and dramatists to combat government censorship, said:

"Knowing Japan, it stands to reason that the suppression was not based on any delicate consideration for public morals."

Too Many Good Times at Sing Sing Blamed for Wave of Crime

Freeport, L. I., Oct. 7.—That too much tennis, football and baseball at Sing Sing makes "crime too inviting" was the belief expressed by Dr. Perry Lichtenstein, chief physician of the Tombs prison, New York city, in a speech at the Ellis club here last night. Dr. Lichtenstein also asserted that prohibition had increased the use of drugs 100 per cent.

The speaker thinks there is too much resemblance to a country club. "There is no more crime," he said, "than there was in the days of the country club. I have seen cases in which a man sentenced to the Ellis reformatorium, referred to as Sing Sing, and lost his citizenship because of the good times he knew while there."

14 Women Seek Seats in Congress

Four as Senators

Six of the Candidates Are Democrats, Four Republicans—Four of Them Are Pennsylvanians.

By GEORGE F. AUBIER.

Washington Correspondent The Omaha Bee, Oct. 7.—(Special Telegram)—There are 14 women candidates for congress this fall, the largest number since the passage of the Nineteenth Amendment. Four seek the senate and 10 seek to become members of congress. One, Mrs. Felton of Georgia, has already been named United States senator by Governor Hardwick to succeed the late Senator Wilson. Six of the candidates are Democrats, four Republicans, three prohibitionists and one socialist.

The Nonpartisan league has a candidate for congress but has a candidate for governor in the person of Alice Lorraine Daly of South Dakota. The candidates are: Mrs. Helen Murphy, socialist; Julia R. Hazard, prohibitionist; Jane E. Leonard, democrat. Still others are Mrs. Adeline Otero, Warren, New Mexico, republican, and Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, North Carolina, republican.

Huge Liquor Cache Found by Dry Agents

New York, Oct. 7.—In the cellar of a factory near the East river, an completely entombed by walls of brick and cement and the 40 thieves, there was discovered last night, prohibition agents claim, one of the richest stores of contraband liquor yet seized.

Approximately 400 cases of champagne, whiskey and alcohol, bootlegged quantities, were found in the cellar. In the cache, they said, were 150 barrels of champagne, 150 barrels and 2,000 cases of whiskey, and about 500 five-gallon cans of alcohol.

She Powders Her Nose as Mail Ship Reaches Hangar

Miss Lillian Galtin and Harry G. Smith upon their arrival in Omaha Saturday morning.

"Wait a minute till I powder my face," exclaimed Miss Lillian Galtin from the front cockpit of a mail plane that Pilot Harry G. Smith had just brought to a stop on the air mail field at 10:57 Saturday morning after a flight from North Platte.

Then Mayor Davidson stepped up and greeted the young woman in the name of Omaha.

"Here is my card," she said as she drew forth a pair of tiny white shoes with tassels. "What a glorious day, and up there among the clouds it is still more glorious. I love it."

The young woman is the guest of the United States at New York and on en route to Detroit bearing John L. Eaton, Kenneth Langer, Paul P. Scott and Claire K. Vane, all flyers on the mountain division, and A. C. Nelson, superintendent of the western division.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Washington, Oct. 4.—(Special Telegram)—John T. Adams, of Iowa, chairman of the Republican National committee, has just issued the Republican campaign textbook for the 1932 congressional campaign. It is much smaller than the one issued last year, but it is more complete. It contains a full account of the campaign of 1928, and a full account of the campaign of 1932.

There are many changes have taken place in Washington since the adjournment of the first session of the Sixty-fourth congress. One of these is the attitude of the republicans toward the "movie" cameras. This was recalled last Friday when the first regular session of the Sixty-seventh congress adjourned, because of the similarity of settings. As President Harding left the capitol, after signing the bill, a "movie" camera was turned on him. Someone remarked that republican candidates were overlooking a bet when they failed to get in the pictures with him.

On another September day, in 1916, the eighth to be exact, President Wilson left the capitol with the movie men shooting him from every angle. But a suspicious old democratic politician, the late Senator "Gumshoe" Bill Stone, of Missouri, was not overlooking any bets. Senator Reed, then as now, was a close friend of Wilson's. He was not a "movie" man, and he needed all the help he could get from the administration. So he left the capitol he went down the grand flight of marble steps leading down to the plaza, from the senate wing. One side was Senator Reed, beaming with pleasure, on the other was Senator Stone, smiling with satisfaction. And Mr. Wilson was a happy expression.

"Good luck to you," said Mr. Wilson to Mr. Reed, as he entered his waiting automobile. "We'll expect you out in Missouri," responded Mr. Reed.

But that was before the league of nations was conceived. Missourians for whose consumption the "movies" were taken, would probably stand behind the screen and see the picture flashed on the screen some night, now that Mr. Wilson has denounced Mr. Reed as a "mildred."
