SUNK WITHOUT A TRACE
Brother Charley Bryan's liquor plank is sunk without a trace by the legal opinion of Attorney General Daugherty...

It is probable, however, that the attorney general reached his conclusion without being influenced by the platform of the Nebraska democrats...

LOOKING OUT FOR HIMSELF
The undivided and loyal support that is being accorded by republican men and women to their entire list of candidates is a source of keen disappointment to certain democratic leaders.

One does not have to look very far among the factions that make up the democratic party to find plenty of evidence of lack of harmony there.

In the light of these facts it is interesting to read the circular letter that has been sent broadcast by Hitchcock's campaign manager, E. B. Gaddis...

"I am anxious to obtain the name of a republican in your town or township who is saying now or who will likely say later, that they intend to support Senator Hitchcock...

This letter, written on the stationery of the World-Herald, was sent out September 22. In spite of the fact that prompt reply was solicited, no returns have been printed...

There is a furtive look about this letter, as perhaps Brother Charley Bryan will notice. A way is being opened for a campaign of deception in every county.

Bryan's Opinion of Hitchcock

Charles W. Bryan, speaking in his paper, The Commoner, in May, 1920, had the following to say of Hitchcock, the present third-term candidate for the senate:

"While Senator Hitchcock and Mr. Mullen are publishing explanations and alibis as to what caused the political upheaval that put them in the discard, the moral element of the state is celebrating the annihilation of the most vicious and unscrupulous liquor combination that ever foisted itself upon a free people...

"Not so with Senator Hitchcock and his political manager, Mr. Mullen. Having secured political prominence in recent years with the aid of the liquor interests in Nebraska, and apparently being versed in no other kind of politics, they presented in Nebraska the program of the combined liquor interests of the United States which have combined to capture the democratic party and make it the machine through which the national brewery and distillery interests hope to modify, nullify or repeal national prohibition.

Go After the War Grafters
Nebraska Editors Comment on Suit Brought Against Airplane Company

Midwest Veteran
Frank B. O'Connell: At last the wheels of justice begin to turn. At last Uncle Sam has entered the courts to make right the wrongs of the war.

Central City Republican
Robert Rice: The government should push prosecution of war grafters, and have all those providing equipment directly necessary for winning the war...

Wilber Democrat
I am and always was for investigation of every fraud involving the government providing the right steps are taken and the grafters punished according to law.

Fairmont Chronicle
Lou W. Frazer: The federal government's action in filing suit against the Dayton Airplane company for over $2,000,000 on account of fraudulent contracts...

Guide Rock Signal
Harry Vaughn: The war profiteer is a greater menace to the nation than the pro-German. The one is loyal to his fatherland while the profiteer is loyal to no country.

Greeley Citizen
The government takes a step in the right direction in filing the suit. Where there is suspicion that the government has been defrauded...

Tariff: America or Europe?
The democratic senator from Massachusetts confined his remarks in Omaha, where he addressed a select (and possibly selected) assemblage, to telling how the tariff was going to increase the cost of all manufactured articles.

Without the tariff, the manufactured goods will come from Europe, or American factory costs will have to be reduced to the European basis.

Reports from colleges in all parts of the country indicate that the enrollment is as large this year as last.

Justice in America. Lyons, Neb.—To the Editor of The Bee: In your issue of October 2, in your editorial, "Promotion of African Ideals," you quote a committee of the American Bar association...

What does that mean to a man of honor? Is it something to be regarded as of no more importance than a mere scrap of paper?

After all is said and done, even if it were proven without a shadow of doubt, by evidence and not merely by beliefs that a woman's home had been "ruined," and that she had no part in the "ruin," is that ruin all patched up in the sight of God by the woman's killing a man...
