

High Freight Rates Burden on Farmer. Wallace Asserts

Cabinet Member Approves Demand in West for Reduction of Transportation Rates.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(Special Telegram)—The stamp of administration approval was placed yesterday on the demand coming from the west for a reduction in freight rates on farm products. It was voiced by Secretary Wallace in a speech delivered by him at Davenport and officially made public here by the republican national committee. It comes when the roads are growing under a heavy burden of business which they are unable to handle because of deership equipment and congestion everywhere. The effect which the congestion is having is expressed by Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who, in a statement at Duluth, said: "The elevators at Buffalo are filled to capacity. The four main trunk lines between Buffalo and New York, the Erie, the West Shore, the Lackawanna and the Lehigh Valley, have placed embargoes on shipments."

Burden on Farmers.

Mr. Barnes says the farmers in western Canada are losing approximately $2,275,000 a week due to the congestion and the situation in the United States, he says, is as bad. This is regardless of the high freight charges which, as Secretary Wallace says, might be justified on corn selling for $1.75, but which, when applied to corn selling for 50 cents, spell ruin.

"One of the heavy burdens which the farmer has been forced to carry when he was least able to carry it," Mr. Wallace said, "has been the large increase in freight rates. In 1920, the freight rates on many of the more important farm crops were almost double what they were before the war. These increased rates not only imposed a grievous financial burden, but in many cases narrowed the market for crops which were not worth enough to carry the freight rate to distant markets. As the same time, the increased rates on the things the farmer had to buy added to his cost of living and the cost of production by just that much."

Places Blame on Democrats.

Secretary Wallace places the blame for this situation upon the previous democratic administration. He pointed out that no provision was made for adjusting the rates to the price obtained. "Good business administration," he says, "would have provided for railroad income during these prosperous times large enough to meet the government contract and would thus have saved hundreds of millions which the government afterward had to pay. Also it should have made possible a prompt reduction in rates when the prices of farm products made it necessary."

"A hopeful sign which points towards the possibility of reductions in railroad rates is the gradual reduction in wages and contribute to the total operating cost. Apparently the railroads are making steady progress in the reduction of these costs, and should, therefore, be able soon to make substantial reductions in freight rates on farm products."

Governors Bailey and Young of the federal reserve banks at Kansas City and Minneapolis, respectively, both reported here today that the return of prosperity is being delayed by the high freight rates.

Dr. Constance J. Klecan Goes to "Long Rest"

Developed Mining Industry in Colorado—Was Elderest Son of Meyer Guggenheim.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 10.—(By A. P.)—Dr. Constance J. Klecan, distinguished scholar, physician and pathologist, had left today for the "long rest," she spoke in a note yesterday to her friend here, Dr. Marie Equi. In her office yesterday, Dr. Equi received in the mail from Dr. Klecan, this letter:

"Dear Marie: I am worn out and so am going for a long, long rest. You can have my books. Good bye, Constance."

Dr. Equi rushed to the office of her companion and colleague, several blocks away. Dr. Klecan lay unconscious on a divan. Three hours later, she died. She had taken poison.

Elmer Poston, alleged to have attacked an attack on Miss Helma Hayes, 19, a maid in the home of Poston's father, Dr. L. L. Poston, 362 Hyde avenue, Council Bluffs, was found guilty as charged after the jury hearing the case had deliberated an hour and 10 minutes. His counsel will file a motion for a new trial. It was announced last night. Poston is still at liberty under bond of $3,000.

Isaac Guggenheim, Copper Magnate, Dies in England

Developed Mining Industry in Colorado—Was Elderest Son of Meyer Guggenheim.

Southampton, Oct. 10.—(By A. P.)—Isaac Guggenheim, American capitalist and copper magnate, died here suddenly today. After an examination the doctor certified that death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage. No inquest will be made and the body will be sent to America on the steamer Acquitania, which sails October 14. Mr. Guggenheim came here in his motor car from London yesterday to meet Henry W. Marsh, who arrived on the Aquitania. Both stayed at the principal hotel. Just before retiring Mr. Guggenheim complained of pains in the chest which he attributed to indigestion. This morning he was found disposed to take breakfast and a physician was sent for but Mr. Guggenheim died before the doctor arrived. For some time Mr. Guggenheim had not been in the best of health and it is understood he had a slight stroke a short time ago but had been able to get about and had arranged to return to New York next Saturday. Mrs. Guggenheim and her daughter will arrive this afternoon.

Isaac Guggenheim, member of the widely known family of that name, was prominently associated with the development of the mining industry in Colorado, as well as in Mexico and in

THE COUGH CURE, THE GOOD IT WILL DO.

This cure is founded on auto-suggestion. The person who wishes to cure himself repeats "day by day in every way, I am getting better and better." This is repeated about a set number of times each day. There is some variation in the technique, but not much. For instance, the emphasis is shifted among the words in the formula, or it is repeated mentally, but not aloud, or even whispered, or adult repeats the formula, stroking the affected parts as the words are said or thought; or the formula is varied, as for instance, "Going, going, gone" for the relief of pain or "Calm" for nervousness. The individual is to use his imagination. He is to guard against that degree of concentration or willing, which may lead to counter-suggestion. The method is very simple, requires the services of no kind of a healer, and can be applied by a person on himself after reading some simple book of instructions. Brooks' book covers the matter of instruction in applying the method in less than forty small pages. I spent a half hour yesterday in talking with Mr. H. B. Rankin, an office associate of Abraham Lincoln for several years. On the way home I read about half of Mr. Rankin's book of recollections of Abraham Lincoln. I had read Coue within twenty-four hours. Mr. Rankin told me of Lincoln's periods of depression, and, on the other hand, of his periods in which his efforts had satisfied himself. I got the idea from talking with Mr. Rankin and reading his book that Mr. Lincoln was particularly amenable to auto-suggestion. I think the Coue method would have been of service to him in controlling the moods which occasionally possessed him until he had passed his fiftieth year. Mr. Rankin fixes the item at about the time of the Cooper institute speech. I am sure Coue has the cardinal remedy for insomnia. His remedy beats medicine out of a bottle by a mile and then a neck. So many people cannot sleep because of fear that they cannot sleep. They get wrought up trying hard to sleep. The Coue method leads them away from the chrysalis on the one side and does not bump them onto the scylla on the other. I think, too, it should work in dipsomania or alcohol addition, provided the weak wants to cure himself and is willing to make the effort. I am sure it will be of great value in breaking off the tobacco habit, if the party using it is genuinely desirous of quitting. I have no hesitation in believing that it cured the woman who never got up till midday and who never left the friends, as related by J. C. the man who had had constipation, as related by H.; and the neurasthenic, as related by G.—all in Brooks' book. I am sure it would cure a long list of similar complaints, and it cured all the people who have sent complaints to me which help a few million of our fellow citizens. I am sure that the method is incomparable for some forms of impotence. That a very large majority of those that have that trouble could be cured by following the Coue method. It is good for fears, phobias, and worries, bands across the head, terrible depression, and lack of self-control. I am equally certain it will not cure short-sightedness, varicose veins, vertigo, ulcers, prolapse of the uterus, tuberculosis of the leg, bunions, club-foot, nor will it elongate a short leg— all of which are claimed in the book before me.

May Be Mucous Colitis.

Mrs. W. H. B. writes: "I have been suffering with my stomach for two years. Have had doctor after doctor. X-ray pictures made and have been drinking Glens springs water all the summer, but nothing has done me any good. Sometimes when I take a course the stuff that comes from me looks like the stuff that is scraped from hog entrails. If there is anything you can tell me to do to relieve the pain and how to get rid of such stuff, I would appreciate it. Taking active medicine doesn't seem to do any good, unless it is that. I haven't had the right kind yet."

REPLY.

My guess is that you have mucous colitis and that your stomach is all right. Curing mucous colitis is no easy job, but have your physician try it if on investigation this guess proves correct. Some have written me that over-coming chronic constipation by eating bran as a bread and as a cereal and vegetables and fruit, have effected cures. Others have written that that diet makes them worse.

Woman Named Mayor.

Dayton, Fla., Oct. 10.—Dr. Josie M. Rogers was named by her fellow city commissioners as mayor of Dayton, the first woman to hold the office. Mrs. Rogers was elected to the city commission several months ago when this city adopted the commission city manager form of government.

Mrs. Roberts was "DEAD TIRED"

She had risen at 5.30—prepared breakfast—dressed the children for school—bathed the youngest baby—purchased the meats and vegetables—sorted the laundry—paid the grocery man and the ice man—given the house "a thorough going over"—and prepared luncheon. And dinner was still to come!

It wasn't an unusual day for Mrs. Roberts. By no means! It was just a sample of her daily routine—the routine of nine out of ten housewives. No wonder she was "dead tired."

Suddenly Mrs. Roberts stopped and took a long, deep breath. From "next door" came that clean, crisp, appetizing aroma that stirs the appetite and spells "C-o-f-f-ee" in any language. It was irresistible. Pretty soon the Coffee Pot was singing its friendly little song in the Roberts household, too.

That evening, when Mr. Roberts came home, he noted the difference in his wife. She had a better appetite for dinner—she seemed less tired than usual—more cheerful.

"I feel better, too," she said. "I believe it's because I sat down for a little while this afternoon and drank a cup of Coffee. You don't know how good it tasted. I'm going to drink a cup every afternoon from now on."

COFFEE

-the universal drink

Have you ever tried a mid-afternoon cup of Coffee? You'll be surprised at the way it lifts you—how much better you feel the rest of the day. There's nothing better on a busy day than a steaming cup of Coffee.
