

Latter Day Saints Break Filibuster on "Revelation"

Conference at Independence Will Consider "Personal Message From Creator" at Today's Session.

Independence, Mo., Oct. 11.—(Special Telegram)—The efforts by which the obstructionists at the general conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in session at this place, have prevented action by the body upon the purported revelation presented by President Frederick Madison Smith on the first day of business were frustrated yesterday by a motion to set aside all intervening resolutions before the body and consider the main issue.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat often too much red meat and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets. If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

CALORIES Emphasis used to be placed solely upon the caloric value of foods. Now, it is known that vitamins—quality is equally essential to adequate nourishment. Scott's Emulsion has particular value as an energy-building food and tonic. It is also rich in vitamins—substances so important in building up the body and promoting beneficial progress.

Former Crown Prince Regrets He Cannot Aid Reconstruction

Henry L. Mencken, Critic and Essayist, Visits Son of Ex-Kaiser in Exile—Finds He Holds Mature Ideas.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11.—Regret that he cannot go back to Germany to aid in rebuilding his country is the principal emotion of the crown prince in exile at Wieringen, Holland, according to an authorized interview with him, printed this morning by the Baltimore Sun. The called interview, which is copyrighted by that paper, was given to Henry L. Mencken, the critic and essayist, who has been in Central Europe for several months.

Mr. Mencken comments on the bearing of the island which is entirely cut off from the mainland for weeks during the winter. His narrative proceeds: "But this deadly isolation has failed to make any noticeable impression on the spirit or frame of mind of the prince. There are touches of gray in his sandy hair, but he still is as erect as a drill sergeant and as quick in speech and movement. Very tall, slim and like, and now smooth shaven, he looks much like a big boy."

Idea Aids Mature. "But certainly there is nothing immature about his ideas. Among all the Germans I have talked to during the past six weeks, ranging from high officials to newspaper editors and from university professors to business men, I can recall none whose views of past and present events are so free of illusion. He discusses the war objectively and with great shrewdness, and accepts his present position uncomplainingly. It is uncomfortable but so is every other German position."

"Germany," he said, "faces stupendous tasks and almost intolerable burdens, and it is naturally hard for any German to stand by without taking a hand. I sincerely wish I could be more actively employed, but certainly have no desire to complicate the present situation by raising factional questions. It would be absurd, of course, to say dynamic considerations do not interest me, but they assuredly take second place in my thoughts. In six days as these, I am, first of all, a German citizen and soldier. As my duty is precisely that of every other good German—a subordinate personal fortune and even personal opinions to the common good."

"I asked the prince if he would vote, supposing himself at home. He answered: 'I don't know. I expect to vote.' 'Certainly,' he answered, 'my wife always votes. Why shouldn't I? Watchful Major Muehler even feared I would ask him how he would vote, but the prince himself saved the situation.' 'I refuse to answer,' he said with a smile. 'The ballot is secret by law and I always try to obey the law.' 'The prince takes a philosophical view of the extravagant tales of him circulated in America during the war. For example, the stories of wholesale burglaries in France, which collect such fables with humorous interest and was apparently deluged with several I contributed from the archives of the Creel press bureau."

"Such nonsensical libels," he said, "do not annoy me half as much as their authors probably think. Abuse of that sort goes with the trade and is copyrighted by that paper, was given to Henry L. Mencken, the critic and essayist, who has been in Central Europe for several months."

Speculation Defended by J. Ogden Armour

Mr. Armour says that if anything along that line was said it could be attributed to the fact that Mr. Benkert at that time had been with the company a few months and through a desire to show those foreigners what an important firm he worked for, may have said something very foolish.
