

Women of Ninth Ward Addressed by Candidates

No Apology Needed for Republican Administration, Says Chairman—Women to Make Canvass.

Women of the republican committee organization in the Ninth ward were addressed yesterday afternoon in the Burkhardt-Nash auditorium by C. L. Saunders, George R. Dymally, and C. E. Dymally, legislative candidates, whose districts extend into the Ninth ward. O. E. Engler, county chairman, also spoke. Mrs. L. M. Lord is chairman of the Ninth ward committee.

Mr. Saunders, candidate in the Fifth senatorial district, stated that he has been listening to women all his life and now he realized his ambition of being able to do the talking while the women listened.

"The republican party has been a party of progress," said Mr. Saunders. "It has been a party of constructive ideas. The democratic, in attacking the code budget in this state, have not told all the facts. They do not explain the real economies that the code has accomplished."

"We do not have to apologize for the republican administration," asserted County Chairman Engler. "The history of the democratic party is that we have always suffered on account of their mistakes. All we need to do is to read the history of the democratic party and compare it with the history of the republican party."

"The women precinct workers of the Ninth ward will make a house-to-house canvass to obtain 100 per cent registration."

COSTLY STORE HABITS.

The people who work in stores will be interested in a study being made in twenty-five large mercantile establishments located in six cities. This study is now in its third year, and it is to extend over a five year period. The sickness rate among people who work in stores is high. The fault is not with the store building. As a rule, the ventilation is not what it should be, and a fair proportion of the employees do not get enough sunlight; but, other than this, the sanitary conditions are reasonably good. Of course, the parts of the store occupied by the public and viewed by the customers are better than the parts behind the scenes, but in the latter zones the sanitation is not conducive to disease.

Since the reason for the high sickness rate is not with the environment it must be with the people themselves. Dr. Emmons, who makes a progress report, lays the responsibility on the rather bad health habits of the employees. Their health opportunities, and their health intelligence.

In an analysis of sickness during March, 1922, in a store with 3,500 employees, it was found that nearly 10 per cent was due to acute respiratory disorders. Of course, March is the season for such disorders, but it is noticeable a survey made in any other month would have shown coryza, coughs, and sore throats leading the list.

Plainly, clerks in stores, like other people, have not learned how to keep from catching cold and how to keep from passing along this type of infection.

Second on the list was acute digestive disorders. No details are given, but it is presumed constipation and its attendant disorders is grouped here and constitutes the most important cause for the visit to the health department.

Constipation is nothing more than a bad habit. The habit of taking purgatives and laxatives, the habit of irregularity, of disregarding impulses, and wrong food habits—all these are the important causes of constipation. Its only satisfactory cure lies in change of habits.

The third in the list of causes of sickness is the genito-urinary group. I presume menstrual disorders is a member of this group. Difficult and painful menstruation can be overcome as a rule, by proper habits, by simple procedures, easily carried out, and by better mental attitudes.

Dental troubles rank sixth on Dr. Emmons' list.

The need of mental hygiene is noted by Dr. Emmons. Especially do the executives and administrative officers need to learn the waste of worry, fear, insomnia, and other bad mental habits.

Fruit Diet is Weakening.

C. C. C. writes: "I will kindly tell me if there is any danger in eating too much fruit? I practically live on it, and seem to be healthy in every way."

"Also, in a warm climate, do you think it necessary to have meat every day?"

REPLY.
1. No. While there is no danger, it is inadvisable to live solely on fruit. Those tropical people who eat fruit almost exclusively are big belled and weak.

2. No.
"When Cousin Marry," E. D. L. writes: "I fully concur with Mrs. R. E.'s ideas. I knew a man who married his first cousin. He had six boys."

"One had a head as big as a water pail; two had arms which they could not use; one had a nose of his lower limb; one had a leg which was ten or twelve inches shorter than the other and hung like a rope."

"The only one who was perfectly normal was a paperhanger. He was the eldest. He was sitting at our table eating dinner, and he went stone deaf."

"I knew a girl who married her own uncle. The children were all deformed. The first two children walk like they were drunk."

"There is a law prohibiting the marriage of cousins in some states, and I think it is proper."

"Aldermanic" Flappers.
Mrs. E. R. writes: "I. Doesn't the habit of going unconcealed cause the stomach to become fat and large?"

"I have always had a flat stomach. For the last two years I have attended gymnasium and since that time have lost off my corsets on 'kym' days and this summer more frequently."

"My stomach has grown fat and prominent. My sister, also a 'gym' fan, is likewise acquiring an unbecoming 'front.'"

"I notice so many young girls with the same prominent feature, owing to the vogue of going unconcealed. My sister and I are both past 40, so possibly ours is an accumulation which belongs to our age. I can't say I admire it."

"What does a rather persistent indigestion indicate at my age?"

1. It may. If the abdominal walls are flabby, they are apt to pouch. Likewise, if there is no pressure on that region, and fat is being laid down, it is apt to be laid down there. I see some men with aldermanic fronts. However, some fat ladies develop such in spite of corsets.

2. Usually, constipation.

Bishop of India Scores America for Indifference

"We Are Interested in Selves Rather Than Others," Missionary Declares in Talk Here.

Bishop Frederick Fisher of the Methodist church in India flayed American Methodists for their indifference to the needs of Indian millions, at a luncheon in the Hotel Rome yesterday noon. Three hundred men and women, many of them from surrounding cities, were present.

"I find America changed somehow since my last trip home," said the bishop. "Something is wrong. We are interested in ourselves rather than in others."

"You talk of financial depression here. I see none. You are the richest nation on earth. Rome at the pinnacle of her power didn't have as much wealth as one American state has today."

"In the country from which I come the average wage is 1 cent a day. In that land, 60,000,000 persons go to bed hungry every night. They sweep away manure to find stray grains of wheat underneath and they eat them greedily."

"In that land today the harvest is ripe for mission. And the Methodist church is cutting our appropriation 30 per cent. That means to blast us. Yet I don't see the bishops and preachers at the altar weeping and praying because of this terrible thing."

The bishop told of whole communities turning to Methodism and of the turning of Hindu temples into Methodist chapels. He told of the tremendous work to be done in a land where 70 babies out of every 100 born die before they reach the age of 2 years.

He is on a tour of the United States to raise funds for Methodist missions in India.

Judge Denies Petition to Reopen Drug Store

Federal Judge Woodruff yesterday denied the petition of Pete Rooney to reopen his drug store at Twenty-fourth and Hamilton streets, closed for a year for violation of the prohibition law.

Three "dry" sleuths were ready to testify against Rooney, but the judge deemed it unnecessary to hear their evidence.

Injunction suit to close the Vogue cabaret in the Millard hotel, also was begun yesterday by George Keyser, assistant U. S. attorney. Charles Moore, proprietor, was arrested Thursday for illegal sale and maintaining a nuisance.

Common Sense

Are You Looking for the Perfect Friend?

Sometimes you wish you might have one friend in whom you could find no fault, and because you do not know such a person, you do not try to make friends.

Acquaintances—yes, you have many, but you never go any farther with them.

And so you are missing one of the most beautiful things in life—real, true friendship.

But why should you expect any person is going to measure up to your standard of perfection?

You cannot find such a person, you are not even satisfied with yourself—you know that you are not perfect, so why look for perfection in others.

Instead of your critical analysis of everyone with whom you come in contact, why not warm up a little more and be friendly.

The friendly spirit you show is bound to attract other friendly spirits. There is a give and take about friendship.

Every person needs at least one friendly soul with whom to be free, and with whom to dare to be free and natural.

Are you really such to anyone else? Your own attitude determines your friends.
