

Thriving Cities Hear Addresses by C. H. Randall

Businesslike Talk Makes Impression on Successful Businessmen and Farmers—Special Meeting Held.

By A. R. GROH. Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee. Aurora, Neb., Oct. 19. (Special Telegram)—Three thriving cities, connected by a splendid dirt highway bearing the name of the Rev. J. J. Seward, today gave enthusiastic greetings to Charles H. Randall, republican candidate for governor.

Before the imposing dome of the courthouse at Seward had risen out of the plain and the party had gazed in awe the splendid brick-paved streets of this city and up to the courthouse.

Senator Randall studied the country with skilled eyes and commented upon it. "I never saw better kept farms than these around Seward," he remarked. "The improvements, the fields and the fences show that they are farmed by real farmers. I understand the people around Seward are mostly of German stock and they are the best farmers you can find, and they are all good citizens."

Large Crowd Assembles.

Mr. Randall also called attention to the fine edifice of St. John Evangelical Lutheran church as an example of taste and piety. It is one of the finest churches in the state. J. H. Gieseler, chairman of the county central committee, met the party and, though he had had less than 24 hours notice of the meeting, an audience quickly filled the large assembly room in the courthouse to overflowing.

Among those present were Mayor J. A. Swanson, C. H. Riegert, Herman Beckman, state representative, and Rev. C. H. Becker, pastor of St. John Lutheran church.

"It was at least twice as large an audience as the one W. J. Bryan spoke to in the same town last Saturday," Mr. Gieseler said. "The people of German stock here are laughing at letters they are receiving pointing to Senator Hatcher's resolution recently being framed to remove black troops from the Rhine. They are opposed to Hatcher almost to a man."

Mr. Randall's address here and at the other stops, were concise, calm statements of fact, whose eloquence lay in their convincing truth. "If you discharge all your statehouse fields and clerks, close up the supreme court and cut the 34 district judges from the payroll, you have just 2 cents out of your tax dollar," he said, meeting the absurd promise of candidate Charles Bryan regarding tax reductions.

"Regardless of whom you elect governor, taxes will come down."

Efficiency in Government.

"I stand for an efficient administration of the state's business, and if I am elected, that one-fifth of your tax dollar which goes to the state will be radically reduced."

He told in all of his four addresses today of how the emergency tariff bill kept Canadian wheat, Chinese eggs, vegetable oils and meats from flooding the country and demoralizing the farmers' markets, and how the revival of the War Finance corporation caused an immediate recovery in the price of corn from 20 cents to 15 cents. C. H. Randall, former senator, introduced the speakers to an audience of 300 which gathered in the courtroom in York at 120. Prominent in the audience were Mrs. C. A. McCloud, wife of the former state chairman; Col. John Lett, M. M. Wildman and S. A. Myers.

The party dined in this beautiful city with its picturesque, park-like Lincoln avenue, its modern large Lutheran hospital, its miles of paved avenues lined with large trees, its business blocks and homes. The number of farmers and laboring men and women in Senator Randall's audience was noteworthy, and with enthusiasm they pressed forward to shake hands with him. Randall impresses anyone with his plainness.

His straight looking, honest gray eyes bore witness to all men and women of his straightness of the day, 34 years ago, when he came to Nebraska with a span of mules and a plow and started "skinning prairie" at 32 years of age. Combined with this, people are surprised when he speaks with the vast fund of information on all subjects concerning the government, of the state and the needs of its people, particularly the agricultural people.

Holds Special Meeting.

T. L. Anderson, county chairman, introduced Senator Randall at Stromsburg. J. D. Edwards, 32, oldest Minn. son in Nebraska, was also a listener. The meeting was held on a street corner where 150 men and women gathered, most of whom shook hands with Mr. Randall and assured him of success.

War Debt Live Issue, Says Candidate Howell

(Continued From Page One.) It will be largely due to two reasons: The first is the misconduct of the Wilson administration in leaving the country in a state of chaos. The second is because of the conditions in Europe which are apparently growing worse, instead of better. What is the cause of this tendency of Europe to go from bad to worse? It is the Versailles treaty. The British premier, Lord George, constantly accuses this fact. The American economists and financiers seem to be almost unanimous in this view, and the great French bankers, although caused by the political situation in France, also admit the impossibility of many of the treaty's provisions. One President Wilson's share in responsibility for this state of affairs is inconceivable.

Responsibility Shifts.

"President Wilson went to the conference in Paris with one idea—his league covenant. He sacrificed everything else for his idea. The American people in standing upon President Wilson at the peace conference reported that the amount they would could pay was $12,000,000,000.

Responsibility Shifts.

"President Wilson went to the conference in Paris with one idea—his league covenant. He sacrificed everything else for his idea. The American people in standing upon President Wilson at the peace conference reported that the amount they would could pay was $12,000,000,000.

This was a disinterested study, as the United States was asking no indemnity. The sum would have rebuilt the ruins in France and Belgium, but it does not include a sum for pensions, the inclusion of which our experts opposed both as a matter of possibility and as a question of right. But Lord George had made a political campaign in England just previously, in which he promised to make Germany pay all the costs of the war, both pensions and reconstruction, and as a result of the interested support of France, Italy and Belgium, the German reparations were raised to $12,000,000,000 which, together with payments in kind and restorations, brought the total up to some $36,000,000,000. President Wilson finally agreed to the Versailles treaty, including these reparations, which, together with other economic and military burdens, has resulted in Europe apparently going from bad to worse, instead of recovering.

Senator Says He'll Vote Against Beer

Kearney, Neb., Oct. 19.—United States Senator G. M. Hitchcock, democrat, seeking reelection November 7, today told the "Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Incorporated," that he would vote against any amendment that would weaken the Volstead prohibition enforcement act.

In a telegram addressed to the association's headquarters at Washington, the senator said:

"In various newspapers I notice announcements that your association endorses me for reelection as United States senator. If you are doing this in the belief that my election would aid in ending the Volstead act you are mistaken. I shall vote against any amendment that would weaken the act, and particularly any that would permit the sale of wine and beer. I have made this pledge publicly to the people of Nebraska."
