

T. DeWitt Cuyler, Rail Executives' Head, Found Dead

Dies Suddenly of Apoplexy in Berth of Private Car at Philadelphia—Apparently Well Yesterday.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and chairman of the railroad executives' association, was found dead today in the private car of President Rea of the Pennsylvania, in Broad street station. Mr. Cuyler was in Rochester, N. Y., yesterday and was apparently in good health.

The private car arrived at Broad street station early today and was placed on a side track. According to instructions, a porter called Mr. Cuyler at 8 a. m. He received no response and becoming alarmed summoned an attendant and a physician. The doctor pronounced Mr. Cuyler dead. Death was due to a heart attack. He had been dead a little more than an hour, according to the physician.

Stand Against Senility.
Mr. Cuyler was a lawyer, but most of his time was taken up with railroad and financial affairs. He came prominently before the country in the recent railroad strike by virtue of his position as chairman of the railway executives and took a firm stand against some of the demands of the strikers, especially those relating to seniority.

Mr. Cuyler was born in Philadelphia.

and was 68 years old. He was the son of the late Theodore Cuyler, at one time general counsel of the Pennsylvania railroad. He was graduated from Yale university in 1874 and was admitted to the bar in Philadelphia in 1876. He engaged in the general practice of law, making corporation law a specialty. He was counsel for many large financial and railroad corporations in Pennsylvania and other states. He was engaged in many of the most complicated and important railroad reorganizations of the past 25 years.

Elected Director.
Mr. Cuyler was elected a director of the Pennsylvania railroad in 1899. He also was a director of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the Santa Fe system. He was also represented on the directors of many local organizations and financial institutions.

Mr. Cuyler took an interest in military matters. He enlisted in the national guard of Pennsylvania in 1874, rose to the rank of judge advocate general of the state and was on the retired roll of officers with the rank of colonel.

Mr. Cuyler also was interested in music and was a director of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York and of a similar organization in Philadelphia. Apoplexy was the exact cause of death.

When Mr. Cuyler's death became known a guard of railroad detectives was thrown about the car which was later removed from the train shed. Mr. Cuyler's death came as a great shock to all the officials of the company. So far as known he had not complained of illness. He left here Tuesday for Rochester, where he worked on a "consultative" public policy toward the railroads.

To Name Successor.
New York, Nov. 2.—A successor to T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, who was found dead in a private car today in Philadelphia, will be chosen at the next regular meeting of the association on November 5, it was announced here today.

In the meantime Justice Alfred P. Thomas, secretary and vice chairman of the association, will be acting chairman.

Former Preacher Guilty of Murder

Man Directed "by Hand of God" Sentenced to Life in Prison.

Statesboro, Ga., Nov. 2.—Elliott Patrick, former Methodist preacher, was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the killing of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mamie Lee Dixon, last June. The jury returned a verdict last night with a recommendation for mercy. The verdict automatically carries a sentence of life imprisonment.

The case went to the jury at 2 yesterday morning. Satisfaction with the verdict and sentence was expressed by Patrick as he was led from the courtroom by Sheriff Joe Tillman, to begin his term of life imprisonment.

"I will not appeal," he said, "I am well satisfied with the verdict."

Patrick was placed on trial Monday for the confessed slaying of his mother-in-law, who was found dead in an automobile on the road between Clito and Dover, June 15. His wife was also in the machine, suffering from wounds from which she died within a short time.

Patrick was arrested a few hours after the crime was discovered. He was taken to the Richmond county jail at Augusta because of fear of violence. There he stated that he had been directed "by the hand of God" to commit the crime.

Appearing before the jury in his own defense at the trial, Patrick began his testimony by offering prayer in which he asked that the jury join, and followed with a brief sermon from the text, "Thou shalt not commit adultery." In his speech to the jury, he condemned modern tendencies and dress of women.

Newcastle Case Settled.
London, Nov. 2.—(By A. P.)—The case of the American consulate at Newcastle has been settled in principle. It is understood in diplomatic circles here, but the opinion is expressed that the United States will decline an apology in connection with the charges of discrimination against their shipping, which led to the closing of the consulate last summer.

Thrace Becomes Deserted Country as Greeks Leave

Bulk of Greek Military and Civil Population Already Gone—Roads Blocked With Refugees.

Saloniki, Nov. 2.—(By A. P.)—When the Turks enter eastern Thrace they will find an orderly country, but one which is virtually unoccupied, as the great bulk of the Greek military and civil population has left. Those remaining are mostly Turkish refugees.

Gen. Nider, the Greek commander in chief, declares that the last Greek will be out of the province by November 15. The entire evacuation has been carried out expeditiously and there have been few cases of disorder or incendiarism. Thousands of tons of grain have been abandoned owing to lack of transport.

The only animate things about the deserted villages now are the faithful dogs waiting patiently for the masters who will never return. Unable to obtain food or water in what now resembles a no man's land, they die while guarding the farm houses.

The correspondent has just completed a 10 days' survey of Thrace and Macedonia by automobile, the trip extending from the gates of Constantinople to the historic plains of Drama, and from the ancient ramparts of Adrianople to the bleak shores of the Aegean.

Refugees Without Food.
The 20-mile stream of humanity, cattle and vehicles continues its weary trek westward into the desolate uplands of Macedonia. Some of the refugees have been walking barefoot over the rugged, stony roads for 19 days. Their prepared food supplies have given out and they are subsisting upon raw, cabbage and cracked corn.

The mothers and children are suffering untold misery. One hears the old cry: "Come into Macedonia and help us," but there is no help except from that devoted group of Americans identified with the Near East relief.

Hundreds of calves drop by the roadside, too weak to keep up with the human caravan of misery. They are joined by horses, mules and dogs, whose carcasses impart a grim aspect to the great moving drama of sorrow.

Torrential rains are adding greatly to the suffering. There is no fuel, no drinking water and no shelter. The refugees are covered with vermin. There is no soap nor any disinfectants with which sanitary measures can be taken.

Many of the women are to become mothers and children are born by the roadside without medical attention. The death rate among the children is distressingly high.

Many of the refugees are survivors of the great fire in Smyrna and are clad only in nightgowns. Others are refugees for the fourth time and are grimly called "professional refugees," the wares of the last 12 years having driven them from country to country.

Along the railroad line are countless other fugitives. The Greek government has suspended regular passenger traffic in order to expedite the movement, and all available box-cars are loaded to capacity with the evicted populations of a thousand towns and villages.

Old men, women and feeble children soon succumb to the rigors of hunger and exposure and their bodies remain for days in those cars with the living.

Boy, 14, Charged With Murdering Aged Man

Rhinehart, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Elmer Washburn, 74, last night was held in the Rhinehart county jail at Montrose, Pa., charged with the murder of Cyrus Payne, 75, recluse, whose body was found Sunday in his cabin at Brunsville. State troopers who questioned the boy, said he had made a complete confession and led them to a woodshed where he had hidden $2,400 taken from the home of the murdered man. The troopers also found a bag containing $62 in gold and some old coins in the cache.

To Blame Constantine.
Athens, Nov. 2.—(By A. P.)—Former King Constantine will be charged with the responsibility for the recent disaster to Greek forces in Asia Minor and will be given an opportunity to come to Greece to prove his innocence, according to the newspaper Vima. It seems certain, however, that Constantine will not return to Greece.
