Grand Island Jail Inmates Escape; One Returns

Grand Island, Neb., Nov. 2.—(Special.)—Joe Wilson and Arthur Montgomery, local prisoners in the county jail, effected their escape from Jail Wickett by going through an open door to an outside wharf. Both were being held in jail here pending notification from the penitentiary officials that there is room in that institution to which they have been sentenced for indeterminate periods on the charge of the theft of Harry Mack's automobile. Wilson voluntarily returned within a few hours after obtaining his freedom, explaining that he realized that he had made a mistake and revealing the manner in which the men had escaped from the jail.

The "Dry" and "Wet" Election Arguments

If the "wets" cut down the present overwhelming "dry" majority in Congress they say they will be satisfied and while they have endorsed 202 candidates for the House and Senate, their prediction is that they will increase the number of "wets" in Congress "by 70 or 75 over the present number." In the meantime the "drys" have been equally active, and the welkins throughout the land have been ringing with eloquence for and against alcohol.
