

Norris Exposes Record Colleague Made in Senate

Cheers Echo and Re-Echo as Republican Senator Asks Election of Howell to Aid Him.

"Give us Howell in the senate to aid the people's fight," senator G. W. Norris urged the voters of Omaha in concluding his address at the auditorium Thursday night.

Cheers echoed back and forth as he made his appeal for reinforcements for the group of forward-looking senators, most of whom have come from the middle west.

Senator Norris has gone over the record of his colleague from Nebraska, Senator Hitchcock, showing that in each crisis where the welfare of the common people was at stake Hitchcock had failed. He had shown Hitchcock's repeated votes against measures to tax war profiteers and lighten the burden on the common people. He had shown Hitchcock walking out of the senate as his vote was needed to assist the irrigation farmers of western Nebraska. He had shown him voting with Penrose and with the southern democratic bloc. He had told, too, of his own fight against overwhelming odds for bills to lighten the burden of taxation on the ordinary citizen.

"I have no ill will, no feeling against anyone," he said. "I am warning you to reject Hitchcock as a duty I owe to the people who have been so kind to me in times when I have been cruelly misrepresented. I wish to go out of public life at peace with my conscience, and I could not do so if I had not told you of the false service done Nebraska by its democratic senator.

Wants People's Man.

"There is only one way for you to approve the fight I have made. What we want in the senate is some addition to the number of men who have the people's welfare at heart. We have been whipped by special privilege. There are too many senators who are run by wealth."

Again cheers arose as Norris declared that Bryan had been right in former years when he denounced Hitchcock as a western man with eastern ideas.

"We want Howell added to our number. There are many who will help us in congress, and we need help to protect your interests."

The main floor of the building was filled, many stood and most of the balcony seats were taken. The audience was conservatively estimated at 5,000. Dan Deadman's band played while the crowd was getting seated.

Many county officials, business and professional men and women were among those on the platform.

The crowd was enthusiastic with the feeling of republican victory in the air. When Charles H. Randall, candidate for governor, the first speaker, was introduced, the audience cheered for some time and gave him a rising ovation. The same was done later in honor of United States Senator Norris.

Spillman Also Speaks.

O. S. Spillman, candidate for attorney general, made a few remarks between the speech of Mr. Randall and the arrival of Senator Norris, who was introduced by E. A. Benson.

The whole meeting moved with republican efficiency. O. E. Enger, republican county chairman, presided. He introduced Senator Randall as "a man who will fill the gubernatorial chair with dignity and efficiency, a man of sound business judgment, integrity and lofty principles, a plain man of the people."

Assuring the crowd that there was no feeling of partisan enmity in what he had to say, and revealing the fact that he had entered the campaign in defiance of the advice of his physician, Senator Norris made clear the emergency that faced the men and women of Nebraska in next Tuesday's election.

"Only One Way to Vote."

"If you believe in the great common people, if you have faith in humanity, there is only one way to vote," he declared. "Ninety-nine out of every 100 democrats believe Hitchcock would represent some eastern state better than Nebraska, and that he would be more at home in New York than in Omaha, but we are not yet able to let our conscience guide our vote. Politics ought to be next to religion. It is the science of government, affecting the life of every human being, and of the children yet unborn.

"If the men and women voters of this state elect Hitchcock to stay at home, they will have removed one of the main spokes in the wheel of special privilege. He has been there a long time, and is correct when he claims to have built up a great deal of influence. That is one of the best reasons for defeating him. Always he is on the wrong side. His vote goes against the people of his home state and in favor of Wall street. I have been traveling over the state telling the people about what I have seen as I sat in Washington."

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking laxatives, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets open the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, liver and bowels are performing their natural functions. They give relief from all stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, do-nothing feeling, an ambition of energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for laxatives.

The Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They on the work without griping, cramps or pain. Take one or two at bedtime, for quick relief. Buy what you like. The best plan.

with Hitchcock during the last 20 years. In the morning World-Herald I notice an attempt to reply to my charges by saying that Hitchcock's votes against taxes on war profiteers were way back in 1917, and that they were only emergency measures. So was the war an emergency, and conscription. Does he think the people should not be told of what happened in 1917?

"He had just been re-elected to the senate then, and was sure of holding his seat for the full term. Anyone can vote right part of the time when election time approaches, but it is difficult for any man to always vote wrong."

He then told of his efforts to tax war profits and of Hitchcock's opposition. "While the men and women of America were sacrificing to win the war, the profiteers were swarming in Washington," he said. "The extravagance with which the public money was turned over to them was almost criminal. Our war costs were almost double what they should have been if the Wilson administration had been capable. The government had taken the best blood of the land to fight on foreign soil. It had conscripted the sons, brothers and husbands, and a little group, there in congress decided that it should conscript wealth also. Large incomes, we believed, should pay a larger per cent of taxation to relieve the common people."

"Hitchcock Voted No."

"Hitchcock voted against every one of the amendments that would have thus adjusted the burden of paying for the war. He and those who voted with him have mortgaged unborn generations to pay the interest and principal of this gigantic bonded debt and replace the money that escaped taxation."

"I know the viewpoint of the man, I don't mean to say that he is dishonest, but he has looked through golden spectacles all his life. If the people knew just how big his income was, they would understand where his heart is. With amendment after amendment to tax war profits and swollen incomes more heavily, other senators joined our group, but never Hitchcock. These profits escaped them, and they can now never be reached. The burden they should have borne has been shouldered upon you and me. Every dollar of liberty bonds must be paid for by the sweat of some human being. Yet if the tax bills that Hitchcock opposed had passed, $1,000,000,000 or $5,000,000,000 would have been taken out of war time profits. Add to that the other billions that our officials gave away to any nation that would so much as declare war against Germany, and our national debt could have been cut in half."

Is Protector of Wealth.

"If the people of Nebraska want a man whose nature is to protect wealth, that's his business. But I want the people to know the truth. In his paper he has frequently denounced the repeal of the excess profits law. Yet I voted against this repeal, and he voted for it. On October 23, 1921, Hitchcock voted for the amendment repealing the excess profits law. On final passage of the measure, Hitchcock was registered as not voting. He has a wonderful record of not voting."

Senator Norris referred to the failure of Hitchcock to vote on 60 per cent of the tariff schedules. Yet Hitchcock was present to vote in favor of the Zach-Cummins law he showed. And when a bill to impose higher postage on newspapers was up, Hitchcock was also present to fight it. Norris revealed also that the Washington correspondent of the senator's newspaper is carried on the federal pay roll.

The audience listened intently throughout Senator Norris' speech, which contained a great many figures and other material scarcely of a nature lending themselves to oratory. When he closed with his contrast of the public record of R. B. Howell, the republican candidate for United States senator, against Hitchcock, the applause was tremendous.

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 3.—(Special Telegram)—"Applaud once in a while, boys," appealed Louis Lightner of Columbus, who was toastmaster at a banquet of 3,000 democrats of the Third district here last night.

"It is a triumph of organization," said Senator Hitchcock, who was one of the speakers. The meeting had been advertised for several weeks, and the crowd was assembled by promises of a band, good orchestra, fine dinner and "other things."
