

Silence Period to Mark Armistice Day in England

30,000,000 Flanders Poppies Ordered—Death of Father Vaughan Recalls Picturesque Life.

London, Nov. 4.—(By A. P.)—Armistice day, or Remembrance day, November 11, will again be observed by a two-minute silence and by the wearing of Flanders' poppies. The demand last year for poppies was so great that the 5,000,000 supplied were not nearly enough for the people anxious to wear them. However, 105,000 pounds sterling was raised for benevolent purposes by the sale of the limited supply and this year, the authorities in charge of the scheme are leaving nothing to chance and have arranged for 30,000,000 of these emblems.

Was Picturesque Figure.
The death of Father Bernard Vaughan, brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, has removed one of the most picturesque figures of the English clergy, Catholic or Protestant. Father Vaughan was a member of one of the oldest Catholic families in England. Under the influence of his mother, six of her sons became priests. They include a cardinal and two bishops. Five daughters became nuns.

For many years Father Vaughan was a commanding figure in the English Catholic church. His eloquence kept audiences spellbound, while his utterances gave the newspapers an unlimited copy. He entered the Jesuit order in 1866, his ability coming under the notice of Pope Leo XIII, and he was transferred to London in 1901. He first worked among the lower classes and soon became known throughout the kingdom as "an aristocrat servant of the poor." Later he assumed charge of a fashionable church in Berkeley square in 1906, where he delivered his famous sermons on "The Sins of Society," which created the widest comment.

These sermons denounced modern dress tendencies. Father Vaughan declared that "women used to dress for dinner, now they undress." He attacked birth control, asserting: "The nation is traveling towards the cemetery," and "there are more pedgogues in London than children," and "A woman tells me she expects to meet her pet dog in the next world, she didn't say where."

Destruction in Ireland.
That castles, family mansions and other property of landed gentry in the 26 counties of South Ireland have been destroyed during the past three years amounting in value to about 50,000,000 pounds sterling, with 400,000 persons made homeless or refugees to the United States, England or other countries, is the statement made in the reports of the Irish compensation payments bureau.

The two claims are divided into two parts—10,000,000 pounds for the pretruce period, January, 1919, to July, 1921, and approximately 40,000,000 pounds for the posttruce period up to the present.

It is asserted in the statement that there has been a bolshevist movement

Tough Job Killing Russian Lice; Pests Thrive on Bug Powder, Says A. R. A. Worker

Moscow, Russia, August.—(By Mail.)

—What's that dangerous looking weapon you've got in your hand?" asked the inquisitive newcomer to Russia.

"That? Oh, that's an anti-lice gun," explained the young American relief administration worker, who was setting out on a trip into the Volga valley to inspect child-feeding programs.

"Good, do you have to fight 'em like that?"

"I'll say you do; why they thrive on the ammunition we shoot in these guns."

"Sato?"

"Sure. This kerosene oil lotion is better than that. You rub it on your body. The smell infuriates the cotes. They lose their temper, bust a blood vessel and die. Easy, one-handed!"

"You can't kid me."

"One day one of our docs caught a fat louse. He covered him with bug powder. The louse swam through it as if it were surf. Then he squirted some of this kerosene stuff on him. It knocked him out quicker'n some of that bootleg they peddle in the states."

Carries Stove.

"Sato?"

"Sure as I'm standing here."

"Gosh! Tough, ain't they?"

"I'll say they are."

"What's in that big package?"

"Stove."

"Stove?"

"Yep. How do you suppose I'm more intense in destructiveness than that in Russia four years ago, with the peasantry covered, impotent and hungry; that the destruction has been worse in the counties of Cork, Tipperary, Clare, Kings and Galway, especially Galway, where hardly a single mansion or prosperous farmhouse is left standing, and that this campaign is employed as the only method to get rid of the gentry and their families."

Auto Wrecks Landmark.

Leytonstone, Eng., Nov. 4.—An ancient stone placed here by the Romans and a landmark for centuries has fallen before progress. A wild motor car driver upset the stone which the centuries had failed to displace.

Cow's Tail Knocks Out Eye.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Nov. 4.—A swish of the cow's tail while he was engaged in milking the bovine cut out the eye of Walter Trembley, herdman, employed on the Woodford farm.

United States May Enter World Court If Changes Made

Harding Administration Has Favorable Leaning Toward Justice Body Created by League.

By GRAFTON WILCOX.

Omaha Bee Local Wire.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Recent disclosures that readjustments of the machinery of the international court of justice, operating at the Hague, are being negotiated with a view to making it possible for the United States to be represented officially on the court, does not imply change of view by the Harding administration toward the league of nations.

The international court of justice operates under auspices of the league of nations, and though the Washington administration thinks well of it as it is now constituted, it would not sanction official participation in the work of the court by the United States unless this government had the right of nomination in the process of selecting the personnel of the court. In other words the United States is not disposed to support anyone who has not been nominated by this government as its representative.

Election Change Required.
Changes that would be required in the machinery, it is assumed here, must be in the present method of nomination and election which would permit the United States to have a voice in naming its representative although not a member of the league of nations. John Bassett Moore, an American member of the court, was named by the league and not by this government and officially has no support from the United States.

The international court has been in existence about a year. Its organization was authorized under the covenant of the league of nations (Versailles treaty), article XIV.

Two plans for American participation have thus far been suggested, and both are said to have found sympathy at the hands of the members of the league. The first of these provided for approval by the United States of the protocol establishing the permanent court, without any acceptance of the league of nations as such. The second provided for representation of the United States on the council of the league for purposes of nominating judges. Just how the matter will be worked out remains to be seen.

Hughes Explains Position.
The attitude of Secretary Hughes toward the international court is shown in a recent speech in which he said:

"I may at this point take occasion to say that we favor and always have favored, an international court of justice for the delegation according to judicial standards of justifiable international disputes. I believe that suitable arrangements can be made for the participation by this government in the election of judges of the international court which has been set up, so that this government may give its formal support to that court as an independent tribunal of international justice. I don't mean, of course, to imply any criticism whatever of the present judges or to say aught in derogation of the confidence and esteem in which the eminent American citizen who sits upon that court is held. I simply mean that to support an institution you must have proper provision for a voice in its constitution and I think that provision to this end can be made."

Son Slain by Father.
Paris, Nov. 4.—To save his two daughters from mistreatment at the hands of their brother, M. Victor Perle shot and killed his son.

After his act, the father, who is 72, gave himself up to the police, saying he regretted his crime, but that his son's continued misconduct merited the death penalty.

Omaha Furniture Man Opens Own Store Here

W. J. Claire.

W. J. Claire, for the past 12 years connected with one of Omaha's largest furniture stores, is opening a new furniture store at 1508 Howard street. Mr. Claire says his store will carry a complete line of furniture, rugs and stoves. He is an active member in the Concord and Prettville Mile clubs. With Mr. Claire will be associated A. L. Dunwell, also a well known Omaha furniture man.

Women Admitted to Bar.
Cincinnati, O., Nov. 4.—Two young women were among the class of 15 attorneys who were admitted to practice at the federal bar in Cincinnati recently by Judge John W. Peck.

They are Lorraine E. Cain, who has acted as city solicitor for the village of St. Bernard for some time, and Regina B. Closs.

Big Baptist Tent Revival to Close

Evangelist "Bob" Lewis to Conduct Three Meetings on Last Day.

The big tent revival under the auspices of the Trinity Baptist church in the tabernacle at Twenty-fourth and H streets, will close Sunday with three big meetings.

Sunday morning at 11, Evangelist "Bob" Lewis will preach in the church building on "Your Neighbor's Heart as God Sees It." At 2:30 in the afternoon, he will speak in the tent on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." At the closing service in the tent he will tell what is "The Biggest Business of Life."

The chorus choir will sing at all three of these services and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will give special numbers. Hundreds of men and women, boys and girls have been converted at these meetings, and cards have been signed expressing preference for 25 different churches in every section of Omaha. The boys' and girls' Sunshine chorus was made up of children from all parts of the city and was a great success.

It Pays to Advertise.
Freetown, Africa, Nov. 4.—"Jam advertising" has penetrated even into the innermost regions of Africa.

Allimamy Bungle, the "sympathetic undertaker," is the best African exponent of "jazz advertising." He has placarded the countryside with the following message:

"Young man, time is short. Eternity is at hand. He is dead! Are you ready? Eat good food, drink good grog, be praying for a happy death and a decent burial!"

Allimamy has secured wealth by being the "sympathetic undertaker," and he travels over the country in an expensive and luxurious rickshaw equipped with a fire engine bell to announce his arrival.

A. H. Vayo & Company

2036 Farnam Street, Omaha

Announced as New Haynes Distributors

THROUGH an official announcement of The Haynes Automobile Company, Kokomo, Indiana, A. H. Vayo & Company, become distributors for Haynes character cars in Omaha and the adjacent territory. A. H. Vayo & Company will maintain their salesrooms at 2036 Farnam Street.

The acquisition of the selling rights for the popular and desirable Haynes character cars is considered a significant business triumph for A. H. Vayo & Company, as well as a tribute to the inventors, designers and builders of America's first mechanically successful automobile.

Haynes patrons in Omaha and throughout the surrounding territory, who have already placed their approval on these high-grade cars of character, will more keenly appreciate and value the commodious new headquarters of the Haynes.

A. H. Vayo & Company, through the company officials, extend to all owners, users and lovers of fine motor cars, a cordial and hospitable invitation to visit their salesrooms and to familiarize themselves with the perfected mechanism of the famous Haynes-built six cylinder 55 and 75 motors.

In their 1923 presentation these character cars stand forth as an engineering achievement that has been made possible only by an unparalleled record of twenty-nine years of successful automobile manufacturing.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.
