

Six Letter Men Ready to Try for Berths on Nebraska Cage Team

Prospects Bright for Good Team

State University Hoopsters Are to Play Creighton Basketeers.

Lincoln, Nov. 7.—Six letter men ready to try for positions and a string of candidates of no mean ability, as the encouraging prospect which confronts Coach Owen Frank in his efforts to hold a championship Cornhusker basketball team. Last year Nebraska finished in a triple tie for third place. This year, acting on lessons learned in 1931-32, practice already has been inaugurated.

A large squad of basket players are working out every day in the armory. They are confining their work mostly to familiarizing themselves with the ball. The first contest of the 1932-33 season is scheduled to be played on January 5, when the Huskers clash with the Jayhawkers at Lawrence.

The six letter men who will be on deck to work for positions on the 1932 squad are Captain (Bill) Warren, center; "Spock" Carmon, John Spear and Paul Tipton, forwards; DeWitt Adams, Kohl and "Bob" Russell, guards. From the members of the freshmen squad of last year, Frank will have a wealth of material. He also will have Verne Lewellen, guard, and Lyle Holland, forward and captain of the Lincoln high school, Nebraska-Colored, champion team of 1929. Both were out of the game throughout the last season, because of injuries. Lewellen and Holland are cage artists of exceptional ability and their absence from the last year squad was sorely felt.

It is from the men of this class of 1925, however, that Frank looks for his biggest salvation. In them he will find speedy forwards, "airtight" guards and high jumping centers. Members of the last year freshmen squad who are expected to show up well are Perry Goodson, Scott DeWitt, Usher Klepper, Milo Tipton, Hobbs Johnson, Cozier Bennett, Lloyd Lerner, Voltz Bernard, Parks and Blaine. The feature men of this group are Usher and Klepper, diminutive forwards of the runner-up team in the Lincoln city league last year. What they expect and basket tossing ability. Klepper will not be eligible for varsity until the second semester, having entered the University last January.

The draft of Missouri valley conference games is not complete. The date of the Kansas game in Lincoln has been announced, tentatively, as February 12 or March 3. Definite dates on the Nebraska schedule follow:

- January 4—Kansas at Lawrence.
 - January 6—Kansas City at Manhattan.
 - January 16—Drake at Lincoln.
 - January 20—Oklahoma at Lincoln.
 - January 25—Missouri at Lincoln.
 - January 26—Drake at Des Moines.
 - January 28—Ames at Ames.
 - January 29—Grinnell at Grinnell.
 - February 2—Grinnell at Lincoln.
 - February 3—Ames at Lincoln.
 - February 3—Clinton at Clinton.
 - February 11—Kansas Aggies at Lincoln.
 - February 12—Washington at Lincoln.
 - February 14—Missouri at Columbia.
 - March 5—Washington at Lincoln.
- Creighton University of Omaha has years an applicant for establishing athletic relations with Nebraska, will meet the Huskers at Omaha either February 27 or March 3.

George Cook Loses

London, Nov. 6.—Thos. South of England defeated George Cook, the Australian heavyweight champion, in the fifteenth round of what was to have been a 20-round bout at the National Sporting club last night.

The Australian suffered severe punishment and was all but out when his seconds threw a towel into the ring in acknowledgment of defeat.

Charlie White Wins

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Charlie White of Chicago won the popular decision over Bobby Barrett of Clifton Heights, Pa., in an eight-round lightweight bout here last night. Considerable surprise was evidenced over the fact that Barrett made a good showing and stayed the full eight rounds. It was agreed that his ring work was

These six husky Midland college football players will be seen on the Creighton gridiron Saturday afternoon when Midland bucks up against Creighton university.

Frankie Schoell Begins Training for Bout Here Monday With Shade

The rugged Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, N. Y., arrived in Omaha yesterday to begin training for his 19-round bout here November 13, with Dave Shade, the earwinkle coast, who now operates out of the Leo P. Flynn punch dispensary on New York City.

Shade, who won over Jack Perry of Pittsburgh on a technical knockout at Boston last night, departed this morning for Omaha.

Shade is looking forward to Monday night's battle, for he hopes to erase the blemish on a record which the Buffalo welter put on it this spring by winning a decision over him at Buffalo.

Shade, who has fought in Omaha since his meeting with Schoell, declares he was robbed of the decision and expects to show the victory was a fluke.

Ak-Sar-Ben Still After Big Game
The Ak-Sar-Ben has not given up hopes of staging a post-season football game in Omaha.

This became known yesterday when Charlie Gardner and Charlie Trimble of Ak-Sar-Ben let it be known that they were angling for a game between either Iowa, Drake or the Texas university and Nebraska for December 9 at Creighton field.

Should Drake or Des Moines go through the season without a defeat in the Missouri Valley, the Nebraska alumni and Ak-Sar-Ben will attempt to bring the Bulldogs and Huskers together in Omaha.

If Drake is put out of the Valley running and Iowa refuses to play the Cornhuskers, then the Ak-Sar-Ben will go after the Texas university, the team which gave Centre a hard fight.

Bent Follow-Through.
When a player begins to slump off in his game and his score begins to mount, an analysis usually will reveal that the trouble is mostly with some one club. I have been out the last few days to practice up in anticipation of the western amateur championship in Kansas City this month and somewhat to my surprise I discovered that my midiron play was off. I had fallen into the habit of failing to carry the stroke clear through and making the clubhead do its share.

By putting the left elbow against the body you will obtain the best follow-through. This is what I call the "bent" follow-through. The player who stands with club and arms extended in one straight line after he has played is more attractive looking figure on the golf links, but his results will not compare with the player who is willing to sacrifice effect to distance by employing the bent follow-through.

In playing this shot I swing into the imaginary line of direction and give the ball the quickest wrist snap possible. This should be done with relaxed wrists and rhythmically, with perfect timing. When this snap is properly done it gives a throw to the clubhead that adds distance. To take a little chip of sod after you have hit the ball is the way a good golfer plays the shot. To do so steadies the flight of the ball in a surprising way.

There is another point which I find it a bit difficult to make clear with words, but stating it the best I can, it is this: You must find a middle ground between tenseness and relaxation. If you play with either too much of one or the other your shot will not measure up to your possibilities. I believe the finger grip is the best of all grips, and the only real tightness I experience in gripping my clubs for this shot is tightness of the fingers. In playing the full midiron I am always conscious of a good grip on my club.

Here is another little trick in the midiron shot which it is well to know. Do not bring the clubhead up too quickly on the back stroke. Take pains to bring it back along the ground a little ways before going up. This little wrinkle is a help in getting distance and control.

It is my opinion that iron shots should be practiced zealously, keeping uppermost in the mind the importance of accuracy. I feel this way because iron shots certainly offer the opportunity to some of the finest of golf play. When you and your midiron understand each other well enough so that you are ambitious to play for the hole and not be merely content with making the green then you will see what I mean by a first-class midiron shot and you will entrench over its possibilities.

Tech Prepares for Bluffs Game

Drummond Working on Aerial Attack for Saturday's Contest.

The Tech high camp is busy preparing for its coming game on Saturday with Council Bluffs at League park. The team came through its game with South last week without serious injuries, and is hard at work for this week's game.

The contest promises to be a good one for the Bluffs team is fairly strong this year. All of last year's men are back. Owens, one of the best high school backs in Iowa, is at full back. He is a dangerous man on offense, and on defense he is the best the Iowans have to offer. The team is being coached by Niggemeyer, one of the best players turned out last year in the Missouri Valley conference.

Drummond is putting his men through a stiff week's work. They defeated South 19-9, while Council Bluffs took the Southern into camp 19-7. The Tech team is strong at the passing game, and a new end, Short, is being developed to take the place of Zast, who is on the sick list.

The team had a good workout last night in scrimmages with the seconds. The line has been having some good workouts. Drummond is perfecting his passing game, and Monroe is hurrying the oval letter each day. He is also getting longer distance on his punts.

The second team is busy preparing for a game with an Iowa team the end of the week.

Paris Has First Athletic Club

Paris, Nov. 7.—At last Paris has an athletic club. True, there are numerous athletic clubs in Paris. They are all called sporting clubs, but the Sporting de France, which opened its doors this week, is a sporting club with an eye for sport.

The average French sportsman looks upon his sporting club as a place to get a good dinner or an excellent cocktail, but he hardly expects a gymnasium, and he would never dare to hope for a swimming pool. All these things this new organization has in its new building at No. 2 Rue de Valenciennes.

This club possesses the only rolling walker in Europe. Here one may walk or run for miles without leaving the building or even the spot he is on. Many Americans and English already have applied for membership, and the waiting list is growing daily.

"Bots" Brunner of Lafayette is close behind with 71, consisting of 10 touchdowns and 11 points after touchdown, while Wilson and Palm of Penn State are next with 61 and 55, respectively.
