

Peace in Europe Cause of Visit by Clemenceau

Former French Premier in Jovial Spirits on Eve of Departure for United States.

Paris, Nov. 9.—(By A. P.)—Former Premier Clemenceau, on the eve of his departure for the United States, declared the object of his trip would be "to create a state of mind in the United States which will permit in the future—

—I hope in the near future—negotiations between public leaders leading to understandings capable of producing results."

He added that he believed the peace of Europe was based upon friendly relations between America, England and France, and that his task would be to attempt to make the Americans fully aware of that fact.

Allows Humor Play. Clemenceau's statement was given to Marcel Hutin of the Edo de Paris, whose interview with the former premier attracted wide attention during the war. Before reaching the salient points of his utterances, however, Clemenceau allowed his humor considerable play.

He explained that he was going to stay at the home of Charles Dana Gibson, "an American painter of great talent, but whom I do not know at all."

"I had been previously arranged to come to stay with my good friend, Bernard Baruch, whom, with Colonel House, made the arrangements for my visit to America. Three days after my arrival I am to give my first lecture in the Metropolitan opera house."

Not Going to Sing. At this the interviewer allowed himself a broad smile whereupon Clemenceau said: "I see what you mean, but don't be uneasy—I am not going to sing."

"I certainly am going to speak in English," he went on. "If I spoke in French I would not be understood."

When Hutin remarked that this point had been overlooked at the Washington conference, the former premier said it was deplorable that no French delegate at Washington spoke English, when every other delegation included men capable of using the language.

"I shall speak to the American public as a man sure of being heard," he declared, "and I feel confident I shall be understood."

Ex-Soldiers to See Laying of Capitol Cornerstone. Representatives of the American Legion, Spanish War veterans and G. A. R. of Omaha leave on the 12:15 train Saturday morning for Lincoln, where they will be present at the laying of the cornerstone of the new state capitol. State commanders of the soldier organizations are expected to be present at the ceremony to deposit an emblem of their respective organizations in the cornerstone.

Prayer Each Day. It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto His name. O Most High, in the morning and Thy loving kindness in the morning and Thy faithful mercies every night. For Thy love, Thy heart made me run and through Thy word, I will triumph in the work of Thy hands. —Ps. 117:2.

Our loving Father in Heaven, we come to Thee as the good All-Father that cares for us here below, realizing our many wants, but "our God can supply all our needs according to His riches in glory by Jesus Christ." Teach us also, dear God, to realize fully our many infirmities. "Teach me to know how frail I am," and notwithstanding all, may we go to Thee as children to an earthly parent—trustfully, believingly, and in full confidence that Thou wilt lead our steps aright. Bless our children, loving Saviors, and as they grow up to manhood's and womanhood's stature, may they grow into the measure of the stature of the fullness of Jesus Christ. Prepare us today for all that Thou art, loving, thoughtful and helpful. Bless each one of us, and, what is far better, make us a blessing. For Jesus' sake we ask It, Amen.

East Omaha Village Ends Stormy Career

By a vote of 57 to 8, citizens of East Omaha, which has been incorporated less than two years, voted at the general election Tuesday to abolish the village. The political life of the village as an incorporated municipality has been brief and stormy.

One of the first troubles met by the young village was the discovery that there were plenty of laws on the statute books but no provision for their enforcement.

A. L. Thibault drew up and filed the petition asking that East Omaha be incorporated. He was the first village attorney. Other first officials included J. M. Sauter, chairman of the board of trustees; E. A. Schneider, Rufus Shagley, Roy McCabe, board of trustees; Fred Hansen, village clerk; Meador Martin, police judge and A. A. Schaefer, marshal.

Briggs Leads Curran in Unofficial Count. A recheck of the unofficial count given John E. Briggs, republican, a lead of 14 votes over W. J. Curran in the Fourth county commissioner district. The unofficial vote in Briggs, 21,672; Curran, 21,658.

A revised check of the unofficial vote between John J. Larkin and John Cavanaugh in the Third senatorial district gives Larkin a lead of 7,700. The totals are: Larkin, 3,422; Cavanaugh, 3,544. If the Larkin-Cavanaugh unofficial figures stand up in the official canvass the republicans will be given the complete Douglas county state senatorial delegation.

Election Commissioner W. D. McHugh, Jr. stated yesterday he did not believe the absentee vote of 300 would affect the results.

Two explanations were offered. One is the abnormal foreign exchange and the other the recovery of the country before passage of the Federal Reserve act from the after-the-war depression and attendant buyers' strike.

Were there to be any great depression in import trade it would be manifesting itself by this time, according to these officials. Instead of any such manifestation, they declare that try in increasing quantities as evidenced by the congestion in the exporters' stores at the port of New York.

Import Revenue Is Unprecedented

New Tariff Measure Expected to Increase Duties $100,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 9.—(By A. P.)—A federal revenue of approximately $44,000,000 this fiscal year from import taxes, or about $100,000,000 more than ever before in the nation's history, was forecast by customs officials. This is on the basis of returns under the new tariff act for a month and a half of its operation and the almost unprecedented income which immediately preceded the enactment of the Fordney-McCumber statute, when there were heavy withdrawals from bonded warehouses and a rush of imports so as to avoid the higher duties carried in the new law.

The actual revenue for the first month of the operation of the protective measure was $40,853,206, or at the rate of nearly $500,000,000 a year. Officials said this was the first time customs receipts had reached $40,000,000 in the month after enactment of a new tariff. They expected some recession from this monthly total, but said there was little or no indication of the slump in imports which usually occurred during the first six months or year after imposition of protective rates.

Two explanations were offered. One is the abnormal foreign exchange and the other the recovery of the country before passage of the Fordney-McCumber act from the after-the-war depression and attendant buyers' strike.

Were there to be any great depression in import trade it would be manifesting itself by this time, according to these officials. Instead of any such manifestation, they declare that try in increasing quantities as evidenced by the congestion in the exporters' stores at the port of New York.

CANCER OF THE BREAST.

One of the best known varieties of cancer is that which is commonly known as cancer of the breast. The reason is that cancer of the breast is the most common form of cancer in the female sex in this country.

A few years ago a woman investigator in Massachusetts found a mother in her laboratory suffering from cancer of the breast. She bred this mouse and got from it a strain of mice very subject to breast cancer, which strain has been used by scores of laboratories for cancer studies.

As a rule, breast cancer gets worse during pregnancy and maternity, because of the increase in quantity of blood which goes to the mammary gland during those periods. In spite of this, this ancestral mouse in Massachusetts started a strain which has already contributed greatly to human welfare, and, in time, may prove to have been a greater benefactor to the human race than many of the world heroes.

A lowered resistance of the mammary gland is inherited. The offspring of a mother who had cancer of the breast are more than average prone to develop cancer of the breast and at about the same age that the disease was in evidence in the mother.

The average age at which cancer of the breast develops is less than the average age at which other forms of cancer develop.

When cancer of the breast recurs after removal, it is much more liable to appear in the bones than is the case with other cancers. The amount of blood going to the part is a factor in the rate of growth and the seriousness of cancer. Therefore, cancer of the breast in a pregnant woman or in a woman nursing a child is apt to progress rapidly.

On the other hand, cancer in the breast of a very old person, one whose tissues are shriveling up, or in a very badly nourished person, generally grows slowly and may spontaneously stop growing or disappear.

Although cancer of the breast is located outside the ribs and, therefore, on the outside of the body, properly speaking, and is quite accessible as compared with cancers of the internal organs, it is not as curable by X-rays as some of the deeper cancers. Cancer of the breast promptly diagnosed and promptly operated on is curable. Even though such people are of strains which are subject to breast cancer, they live for many years.

X-rays and radium are of great service when used in connection with operation. The diagnosis of cancer of the breast must be made on the appearance of gland and its feel and the changes in it occurring while it is being watched. The diagnosis must be made before pain develops.

Drink Plenty of Water. E. A. G. writes: "I have been reducing via calories and have lost considerable. I am quite active, doing all the work for three in a seven-room house, washing and ironing. Play some golf and swim some. My bowels previous to reducing moved normally every day without assistance."

"Now, it seems, there is no movement for two or three days—due to less quantity of food (300 calories daily) consumed. No amount of fruit or roughage seems to make any difference."

"Exercising with my other work three or so much that I am not able to do all I should around the house. I have no endurance, apparently."

"Should I let nature take its course or should I force an evacuation daily?"

REPLY. Keep up the use of roughage. Supplement with a tablespoon of agar three times a day. Drink plenty of water.

Hay Fever Temperatures. S. A. C. writes: "For the last two and one-half weeks I have had fever, usually 99 or 99.5 degrees. My heart also seems to beat faster than it should at times. I sneeze a good deal. My lips itch and I have a little nervous trouble, too. I have deep circles under my eyes also."

"I am quite sure I have hay fever. Please tell me if I have fever brings fever. Do you think I have the symptoms of hay fever?"

REPLY. A temperature as high as 99.5 is not unusual in hay fever.

Girl is Hysterical. Mrs. T. writes: "My daughter cries at every little thing. If I tell her to be quiet she cries. She has cried on and off every single day for two weeks. Some one told me it is nervousness—but she is far from nervous, though she lost nine pounds in the last month. She is 15."

REPLY. Your daughter is hysterical. You must train her in emotional control. Had you started earlier the job would have been easier.
