

Liquor Issue Is Live Topic for Next Congress

Leaders of Both "Wets and "Drys" Claim Victory in Elections — Some Changes Certain.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The political complexion of the next congress has been definitely established, interest turned yesterday on the probable lineup on the question of modification of the prohibition enforcement laws. Both the "drys" and "wets" were claiming a victory as a result of Tuesday's elections.

For the Anti-Saloon league, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel, said the "wets" would not have as many votes by three at least as before and that their strength in the house would not exceed 104, or 75 less than a majority. On the other hand, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, through G. C. Hinckley, its general secretary, claimed a gain of 80 "liberals" voted in the house, which, it was asserted, would give actual control of that body to the modificationists.

Plan "Wet" Laws.

"The pronounced increase in the 'wet' membership," said Mr. Hinckley's statement, "renders highly probable the passage of liberal legislation in the next session of congress that will strike the first blow at the more stringent provisions of the Volstead act."

"Involved in this view, is a consideration of the change of leadership of the powerful committees in the house. The defeat of Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota removed the author of the objectionable prohibition act from the chairmanship of the house judiciary committee, giving the place over to Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, an avowed 'wet'."

"The passing of Wendell leaves the majority leadership on the floor either to Representative Longworth of Ohio or Representative Mann of Illinois, both re-elected and both having been endorsed by the association because of their attitude on the prohibition issue."

Mr. Hinckley said the house leadership would be in the hands of a "liberal" and that this might be expected to influence materially the vote on any future "liberal" legislation.

Also, he was of the opinion that the result in Tuesday's election would have its effect on members who hitherto have refrained from voting on the enforcement question.

Mr. Wheeler, in his statement, declared that the claims of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment of a gain of 80 votes in the next house was "like the fool on a glass of beer—nothing substantial at all."

Secs Little Gain.

"In the house," said Mr. Wheeler, "their total strength in the past for any year or light wine amendment or similar weakening amendment to the national prohibition act was not more than 133. The last reports we have from the states, with a few districts out, show that they will never muster 10 votes for any such amendment. Their vote will probably be much less than that."

"The only real test of sentiment on the 2.75 per cent beer issue this year was in Ohio, where the proposal was defeated by more than 150,000. In Illinois, the organized 'dry' forces did not vote either way on the beer proposal."

"The defeat of the codes in Massachusetts and California is no loss because we never had any enforcement codes in those states."

Williamson County Sheriff Leads Ticket in Election

Marion, Ill., Nov. 10.—Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois mine workers' union, issued a statement commenting on the overwhelming victory for the Sheriff Marvin Thaxton, who was elected county treasurer by a majority far exceeding that of the other republican candidates. The sheriff had been criticized for his attitude before and during the troublesome days last June.

"The people of Williamson county," said Farrington, "have rendered a verdict in favor of a fair trial for every miner indicted in connection with the Herrin mine killings."

Uncle Sam Says

Poultry Trap Nests.

Many persons who keep a small backyard flock of poultry, are wasting large quantities of grain and valuable space by keeping poor producers and drones. To avoid these losses, an uncertain process without a trap nest and the expense of trap nests for a small flock seems needless.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has issued this booklet which contains illustrations and a description of the humane trap nests which are used on the government poultry farms. Readers of The Bee may obtain a copy of this booklet free by addressing the Division of Publications, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., asking for "P. B. 632."

20 Midshipmen Battle for Lives on Subchaser

Cheers From Spectators Greet Students When They Beach Boat After Heroic Fight With Fire.

Annapolis, Nov. 10.—Twenty midshipmen from the United States Naval academy narrowly escaped death, when in a heroic battle against fire, they fought their way up the Chesapeake bay on a subchaser. It was a battle that will long live in the memories of those who stood on the shore and watched the fight imperiling the academy students until the subchaser was finally beached on the shore of the naval experimental station.

The midshipmen started out early in the afternoon for a seamanship drill on one of the subchasers, which have been tied up at the academy wharf since the armistice. The bay was rough and the small boats tossed about as the midshipmen were put through their exercises.

When two miles off shore, the engine backfired. Before the men realized what had happened, the forward part of the vessel was enveloped in flames. The midshipmen took their stations at the hose lines and formed bucket brigades as the flames spread. The subchaser's bow was turned toward the shore. It was then that the battle began. A stiff breeze augmented the danger.

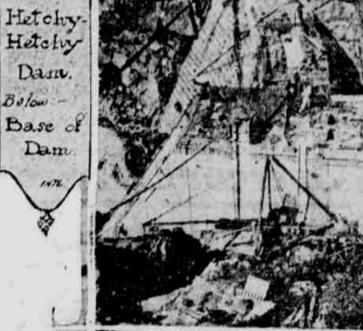

Heroically the midshipmen fought every foot of the way. On the wharves at Annapolis, a crowd gathered, attracted by the smoke. Light craft set out from the academy and nearby points to offer assistance.

Cheers arose from those standing on the beach at the experimental station, when the midshipmen beached their boat. The boat was burned beyond repair, the flames eating away all the superstructure and part of the hull.

The total cost of the reservoir will be $9,000,000.

Comedy Writer in Serious Role

Broadway Producer Pleads for Unborn Baby of Wife and English Actor.

New York, Nov. 10.—Carl Carleton, producer of Broadway musical comedies, yesterday discarded his role as an aide to the prosecution of Pat Somerset, British actor, who is facing deportation on charges of moral turpitude, and asked clemency for the man whom he had charged with alienating the affections of his wife, Edith Day, the original "Irene."

Mr. Carleton in a letter to Commissioner of Immigration Tod asked permission to withdraw from the case and requested that the authorities be lenient toward Somerset.

"A phrase from the Bible — 'the pride of thine heart deceived thee' — has aided me in reaching this decision," he wrote. "My wife, Miss Day, and Mr. Somerset took the course they did because they loved each other. My pride has kept me from seeing in this light before."

"Regardless of my personal feelings, there is another life at stake, their child's," the letter continued. "Inasmuch as the parents intend to marry as soon as divorce proceedings are completed, I think I should do my part in simplifying matters for that child."

Mr. Carleton and Miss Day, whom he had chosen to star in the musical play "Irene," were married when the piece had become a success. He charged that, when Irene went to London, intimate relations between his wife and the British actor were established.

Bear Drags Out Body of Man.

Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—A trained bear, acting in a motion picture filmed in Griffith park, dashed out of a clump of bushes dragging the body of a man yesterday.

The police said the body was that of a Japanese and that he had committed suicide about 10 days, judging from conditions and articles found in the brush.

HEADACHES.

Some months ago Dr. Hughson gave his experience with the use of common table salt in curing some kinds of headache.

There are headaches and headaches, and what cures one may not be of any service in the next, even though the symptoms may appear identical. It is true there are pointers which indicate that one kind of headache is due to eye strain; another to pelvic trouble; a third to fatigue, and a fourth to constipation.

But at times all signs fail in headaches.

Hughson used tablets of salt coated with soda. The object of the coating was to release the salt for a concentrated solution in the upper reaches of the small intestines. The dose was usually 15 grains, but he gave almost an ounce to some cases. Two or three tablets were taken at a time and the dose was repeated about every five minutes until a total of 8 or 10 had been taken. They were washed down with the minimum amount of water.

Dr. T. J. Bessley thinks that the relief of headaches by this method is largely due to the laxative action of the salt. This causes him to report his method of overcoming some cases of chronic constipation, since constipation is so frequently the cause of headaches.

He gives his method in "Clinical Medicine," as follows.

Upon arising in the morning, the subject drinks one quart of lukewarm water to which seven and one-half grains of salt has been added. Breakfast is eaten, three-quarters of an hour after drinking the water flavored with salt. During this time, the subject takes some exercise and dresses. The probability is that there will be an impulse to have a bowel movement within a half hour after drinking the water. This impulse must be obeyed without delay. This prompt recognition of and obedience to the impulse is an essential part of the regimen which leads to cure.

"There may be a second impulse following the eating of breakfast and due to the taking of food into the stomach. This, too, must be obeyed."

This method is not the same as that in which a teaspoonful of salt, dissolved in water, is taken before breakfast. The larger dose of salt acts like any other saline purge and is open to the same objections.

All Ye Hunters—Listen.

A. O. P. writes: "I spend considerable time hunting and fishing, and have several friends who do likewise. We all encounter poison ivy and poison oak."

"I have found that attacks from either of these can be very promptly subdued by washing the infected parts once or twice with an undiluted sodium hypochlorite, approximating the strength of Dakin's solution or stronger, say up to coefficient 10.

"I find that upon the very first application all irritation stops and the pustules begin to dry up. In many instances one application is sufficient, but I have never known it to be necessary to use more than two applications."

"Where the case is very aggravated and the skin extremely sensitive, it might be advisable, after washing the parts, to wrap them in a very loose, gauze bandage—loose so as to admit air, because you probably know that when a hypochlorite is bound on tightly and the air excluded, the chemical action on the skin is entirely different, so that it has more the effect of a counter irritant than of a sedative.

"In fact, in the absence of a good mustard plaster, a pad saturated with sodium hypochlorite and tightly bound on will accomplish about the same purpose as a mustard plaster, though to a slightly less degree. If you have not tried a sodium hypochlorite wash for poison oak and will just bear this in mind for your first opportunity, you will perhaps be surprised and certainly pleased at the very prompt and pleasing results."

What "Blow Hard" Does.

A. F. writes: "If, when blowing the nose hard, pus is forced up into the inner ear, what happens then? Does it affect any of the sense organs? Does it go away by itself? If not, how can it be cured?"

REPLY.

It is apt to cause infection of the middle ear, otitis media, and, if not treated, abscess, deafness.
