

Dill of Washington Only 38; Will Be Youngest Senator

Successful Candidate Is Bachelor—Only Democrat to Win His State's Vote Since Populist Wave.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 10.—Charles Dill, democrat, of Spokane, whose election to the United States senate is indicated by returns in which Charles Heiber, republican state chairman, does not expect "any material change," will be the youngest member when he takes his seat March 4, it is said here.

democratic senator in the history of the state, was put in by a fusion of populists and democrats in the legislature in 1917.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Release of all foreign vessels seized outside the American three mile limit with liquor aboard where there is no evidence of communication with the shore by means of the vessel's own boats, was ordered today by Secretary Mellon.

French "Tiger" Sails for America to Talk on League

Georges Clemenceau, 81-Year-Old Statesman, Keen for Adventure in U. S.

Paris, Nov. 10.—(By A. P.)—Georges Clemenceau sails away for America tomorrow, happy in the spirit of adventure. Today, he was gay—interested and interested—keen to be off, considering his great age—he was 81 last September—the eagerness with which the "Tiger" of France anticipates the experiences that are soon to come to him in the United States, is quite itching to those who see him and talk with him.

"I never was much of a chap for the past," Clemenceau remarked to the correspondent, who inquired about the former premier's earlier visits to the United States. This is not his first trip to America, as is commonly supposed, but his third.

Not First Visit.

"My father, who was called by Napoleon III, thought it would be a good thing for me to go to America and I went," Clemenceau said. "I had been following events of your civil war and my sympathies were with the north. Almost immediately after my arrival, however, I went to Richmond. There I met a good many southern people and soon found out how delightful, how simply charming they were."

Clemenceau paused a moment and then with a gesture, went on.

"Shortly before my arrival, Grant had taken the city and I saw for the first time what war and bombardment meant. Then I went to Washington and later, out west as far as Chicago and from there to Buffalo and after a while to Boston.

In conversation Clemenceau seldom alludes to his subsequent experiences in America, first as a young gentleman of leisure, reading extensively for two years in the libraries of New York, and then as a teacher in a girls' school in Connecticut. It was during his days as an instructor at the girls' school that Clemenceau met the young woman who became his wife.

At this time she was under age and her guardian refused to give his consent to a civil marriage only, insisting on the church's benediction. Clemenceau stoutly declined to recognize the church as essential to a wedding. So he went back home unmarried. This was in 1889. He had spent four years in America. The next year he crossed the Atlantic again and was married at a civil ceremony.

His stay in America gave to the "Tiger" that knowledge of English which has been one of his most useful accomplishments in his long public career. Always he has taken pleasure in the language and in its literature.

To Talk on League.

"My intentions in going to America are good; I feel sure of that," the aged politician said. "I see with confidence clearly how it will be to the material and moral interests of the United States to examine European difficulties with other conceptions than those they have at present."

Clemenceau expects to enlarge his own judgments of European situations by putting his ideas into contact with American views. He does not go to New York with his mind made up and closed as to what would be to the mutual and collective advantage of the United States, France and Europe generally.

"I shall talk about the league of nations, but I have no specific advice to offer," he remarked. "I believe in the idea of the league. The world must have something of the sort. I do not see that the league as it now exists is what Americans should adopt. It does not satisfy me but I am for the experiment."

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Nov. 10.—Supreme Court Justice Joseph Marschauer reserved decision today on a motion made by counsel for James A. Stillman, to vacate the judgment in the Stillman case.

Finger Prints May Light Vote Is Polled in State by Progressives

Reveal Slayer of Rector and Woman Deputy Attorney General Denies Hitch in Investigation of Hall Case—Has Necessary Evidence.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 10.—By A. P.—"I have all the evidence necessary," said Special Deputy Attorney General Mott tonight, dismissing reports of a new hitch in his investigation of the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer in the Church of St. John, The Evangelist.

"It is now only a question of procedure with me," Mr. Mott declared, indicating that he might not, as had been reported, await the swearing in of a new Somerset county grand jury November 20, before taking further action. "I shall know, probably by Monday, what action is best," he added. "and if I take it, I shall be glad to take the public into my confidence."

Mr. Mott refused to be quoted further, but from a source close to him it was learned that he had three courses of action under consideration. The special prosecutor, it was learned, is relying on finger prints as well as corroborative witnesses, to back up the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig raiser and so-called eye-witness, that the slayings were committed by a bushy-haired man, who was accompanied by a woman in a grey coat.

Several of these prints have been obtained and Mr. Mott is confident he can identify all but one. That is a print, believed to be a woman's finger, which was found on the dead rector's cuff.

On his authority, it was said that Mr. Mott planned to make a legal demand Monday on Mrs. Frances Noel Stevens Hall, the rector's widow, that she submit to a finger print test for comparison with the unidentified mark.

President to Honor War Dead on Armistice Day

cause of humanity, and choosing the methods where the obligation thus created will be, I am sure, a fitting prayer for this armistice anniversary."

To Visit Cemetery Early.

The visit of the president to Arlington will be his first official act of the day. Attended by his military aides and accompanied by their aides, the president will leave the White House soon after 8 and traversing the route over which the funeral procession of the Unknown Soldier passed a year ago, will proceed to the national cemetery. A cavalry escort will meet the party near the cemetery and as it passes Fort Myer, near this city, it will be accorded the presidential salute of 21 guns.

Reaching the amphitheater in Arlington, only the president and two of the secretaries will pass into an enclosure about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Without ceremony, the president will advance beyond the two secretaries and, stepping to the tomb, lay the wreath upon it in behalf of the American people. The entire party will then withdraw, concluding the official tribute to the nation's dead.

The visit of citizens to the home of former President Wilson has been planned for the afternoon. The visitors will gather informally about the Wilson home and upon the appearance of the former president, a short program will be carried out.

Henry Morgenthau, American ambassador to Turkey under Mr. Wilson, will give a brief address to which the former president is expected to reply.

New Political Party Has 5 Per Cent of Total—Two Members Elected to the Legislature.

Unofficial observers estimated tonight that the progressives in Nebraska, who organized a new political party at Grand Island last winter, had polled approximately 5 per cent of the vote cast in last Tuesday's general election.

None of the progressive candidates for state office running on that ticket alone were successful, however, except two state representatives. Fourteen successful major party candidates for the state legislature, however, were also the nominees of the progressives.

Vote on Senator.

About 380,000 persons voted for United States senator, unofficial returns indicate, based on a total of 271,679 from 1,363 of the state's 1,521 precincts. Of the 371,679, R. B. Howell, republican, received 215,370, compared to 116,299 for his democratic opponent, Senator G. M. Hitchcock, and 2,910 for Rev. J. L. Beebe of Omaha, progressive.

The prohibition vote cannot be estimated as all of their candidates were running on major party tickets, with one exception, that of Mrs. E. Lucilla Barton of Lincoln, who received but a small vote for congress as compared with her republican and democratic opponents.

Legislative Winners.

Unofficial returns show the republicans elected state senators in all but the Second, Third, Eighth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-third, Twenty-eighth and Thirty-third districts. The vote in the Twenty-fourth was close, and the apparent winner of G. C. Humphrey, republican, over S. M. Fries, democrat, may be upset by the official count.

Of the state senators, three were progressive party nominees, as well as candidates on major party tickets. They are John Wiltz, republican and progressive in the First district; J. H. Heffernath, democrat and progressive in the Tenth, and Henry Behrens, republican and progressive in the Twelfth. In the house, two republicans, running also as progressives, were successful, while one, A. N. Mathers, in the Sixty-eighth, was the nominee on three tickets, republican, democrat and progressive, without opposition. Eight democrats who also were nominated by the progressives for the house were successful.

The republicans elected 57 members to the lower house, the democrats 41, and the progressives two. Obed Raash in the Forty-ninth district (Madison county), and Thomas Axtell in the Eighty-ninth (Lincoln county) were the progressives who won.

Wants Bride Departed.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—Emery Doriko wants his bride of 19 weeks deported to Budapest, Hungary, from where he brought her, because she refuses to come to Cleveland to share a newly furnished apartment with him.

Doriko married Carola Deek on August 26, he told J. A. Fluckey, inspector in charge of the immigration bureau here after a two years courtship by mail. Immediately after the ceremony, Doriko said, his bride told him she never wanted to see him again.
