

Wealthy Chicago Red Must Serve Pen Term

Chicago, Nov. 16.—(By A. P.)—The two-year fight of William Ross Lloyd, wealthy communist, to escape a five-year penitentiary sentence for violation of the Illinois espionage act, known as the "over-throw" law, ended at midnight when, according to word reaching here, Chief Justice Thompson of the Illinois supreme court announced he would deny Lloyd's motion to stay the sentence until December 15.

Lloyd and 17 other members of the communist party were convicted in Chicago in August, 1920. They were accused of advocating overthrow of the government.

Their fight to escape sentence was made on the grounds that the Illinois "overthrow" act, adopted during the war, usurped authority vested in the federal government alone.

The United States supreme court refused several days ago to hear the Lloyd case. Pending the defense motion before that court Lloyd's attorneys obtained the stay of sentence from the state court until today.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 16.—Harry L. He is 35. He was held in default of $5,000 bail.

Bride, 22, Quits Rich Mate, 52, Two Hours After Rites

Mrs. Leo Webber-Ostrand.

Because his pretty 22-year-old divorcee-bridal of two hours refused to go on a honeymoon with him and deserted him then and there, Jacob H. Ostrand, 52, wealthy farmer of Randolph, Neb., filed suit for divorce in district court Wednesday.

Yesterday the bride, formerly Mrs. Leo Webber, countered with a suit seeking annulment of the marriage.

She complains of shattered courtship promises.

"I don't want a divorce," said the bride. "I don't want alimony.

"All I want is a chance to be free—to earn my own way in this world, and," her voice softened as her eyes dimmed with tears, "and to bring up little Leo the way he should be reared."

Promised Gifts.

"Little Leo" is Leo Clayton Webber, her 18-month-old baby, son of her first husband, "Pete" Webber of Sioux City, from whom she was divorced.

Ostrand, the bride charges, promised her a diamond ring, an automobile and to take care of little Leo, before they were married.

But after the ceremony she asked him again about the ring, the car, and the baby, she alleges, and he replied: "Get that baby idea out of your head."

When the bride was 12, she related, her mother was housekeeper for Ostrand. That was only 10 years ago.

Almost Penniless.

Then last February while she was living with her mother in Sioux City and after she was divorced, Ostrand began writing letters to her, she claims.

She was almost penniless, she said, and the wealthy farmer began to promise her a diamond ring, an automobile and to care for the little baby.

Mrs. Webber consulted friends and went to see Judge A. L. Sutton and Max Frankin, attorneys. She told them her story. They are representing her in the annulment proceedings.

She and Ostrand were married by Judge Crawford November 1. She refused to go on a honeymoon, she says, after he refused to care for her baby.

Thomas Conley, one of the clerks in Judge Crawford's court who witnessed the wedding rites, is acting as Ostrand's attorney in the case.

"We don't want a divorce," said Judge Sutton. "We want an annulment. Ostrand misrepresented himself."

Ostrand is said to have declared that since the girl-mother would never come back to him anyway, he would fight the case out in the courts.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Webber-Ostrand is selling Christmas cards to support herself and her baby.

"Always Responsive" —The Steinway!

Such is the descriptive term used by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Borglum of the Borglum Piano School, Omaha's foremost teachers, when speaking of the Steinway Piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Borglum studied under Wager Swayne, pupil of Leschetizky, and often returned to Paris or London for further study and advanced work. They use the Steinway Piano and find it a joy and an inspiration. The following is a letter of appreciation from Mr. and Mrs. Borglum:

"We are glad to state that we have had our first Steinway Piano nearly 30 years and the second about 15, using the two together in our teaching and studio recitals with eminent satisfaction. We have never regretted the choice of the Steinway Piano as the instrument for fulfilling our ideals for musical interpretation. Its always responsive, beautiful tone and wonderful wearing qualities make it an incomparable instrument for the modern virtuoso and teacher.

"During the past 22 years our Steinways have been a joy and inspiration in teaching and the presentation of pupils.

The music masters are unanimous in their praise of the Steinway. "The Instrument of the Immortals," and our Steinway recital rooms contain many beautiful instruments for your selection. Remember we are the exclusive representatives of NEW Steinways in Nebraska and Western Iowa and have arranged terms of 10 per cent of the purchase price and the balance in 3 years' time. Your old piano will gladly be accepted as a substantial part payment.
