

Childers, as Gun Carrier, Put to Death

Irish National Army Officially Announces Republican Commander Killed in Dublin on Friday.

Captured November 10

Dublin, Nov. 24.—Erskine Childers, chief lieutenant of Eamon De Valera, was executed here today. He was executed at 1 o'clock this morning for having had an automatic pistol in his possession. It is announced in an official bulletin given out by the national army.

While the method of execution was not officially described, it is believed it was by shooting.

Hanging in Balance.
The fate of Childers has been hanging in the balance for several days, while court actions were fought over his military trial, but with the adverse finding by the master of the rolls yesterday on application for a stay of judgment, the feeling that seemed to prevail in Dublin last night was that Childers would be executed.

This belief is thought likely to have inspired heavy attacks made on national army posts in Dublin last night. All the attacks were abortive.

Republican Army Officer.
Erskine Childers, a lieutenant commander in the Irish republican army, and one of the right hand men of Eamon De Valera, was placed on trial before a military tribunal in Dublin on November 17, on the charge that he had a pistol in his possession when arrested at Wicklow by free state forces on November 10. The trial lasted two days. Childers, who was

London, Nov. 24.—Notification that he was to be executed this morning was not received by Erskine Childers until 8 o'clock last night, according to the Evening Standard. His relatives were not allowed to see him and the first intimation that they had of the carrying out of the sentence was at noon today when they received a letter from the adjutant general. Mrs. Childers collapsed.

32 years old, appealed through counsel for a writ of habeas corpus which was denied yesterday by the master of the rolls. He then appealed to a court of appeals for southern Ireland. Childers was an ardent proponent of an Irish republic and strongly opposed ratification of the treaty setting up the Irish free state on the ground that it meant "absorption of Ireland in the British empire." He was defeated last June in the elections for the Irish parliament, receiving fewer votes than any other candidate in the whole election.

Educated at Trinity College.
Early in the next month, he was reported to be organizing a band of insurgents in the Dublin hills and later in the summer commanded the band of irregulars who cut the cable in Valentia harbor.

Childers was educated at Trinity college, Cambridge. He served in the European war as a lieutenant commander of the royal naval volunteer.

Potatoes Sell for 20 Cents a Bushel in West Nebraska

Storage Facilities Filled at Alliance Where Table Varieties Are Being Buried in Pits for Keeping.

Farmers in the western part of Nebraska are not receiving more than 20 cents a bushel for their potatoes, according to a report made to the agricultural committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

R. W. Beal, a potato dealer of Alliance, Neb., another guest at the committee meeting, said that storage facilities in his district were filled with seed potatoes and that the table varieties were being buried in pits for keeping.

Through Four Dealers.
The committee found that in moving from farm to table the potato crop goes through four sets of dealers: first the shipping agent, then the broker, then the wholesaler and finally the grocer.

Send Out Stickers.
The campaign to market Nebraska-grown potatoes is growing rapidly in momentum, according to J. M. Gillan, manager of the Chamber of Commerce industrial bureau.
