

Volstead Notable Figure in Congress

Washington, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The most notable figure at the opening of the extra session in the house was Andrew J. Volstead of Minn.

Volstead, the author of the Volstead law, defeated by a man "drier than Volstead," was the recipient of many handshakes from his dry friends and from some of the wets.

Asked as to his future plans, the author of the Volstead law said: "I have no plans other than to get through with the session." Concerning the wet bills that have been introduced, he said: "I have been in congress for 29 years, and one has to be beaten some time. Perhaps it's what one should expect after 29 years of service."

They visited France, Germany, Austria and other countries and spent many days in the leading toy factories. They bought toys direct from the manufacturers, not only at the lowest possible cash prices, but they were given the first pick in selection. These toys came to the United States before the toy tariff went into effect, and we will sell them on the old tariff basis. When you remember that the old tariff rate on toys was 35 per cent and the new 70 per cent, you will readily see the advantage our customers will obtain through our purchase of these toys under the old tariff.
