Catches Ball Behind Own Goal Line After Punting From Goal

Omaha Rec Leased Wire.
Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—A play previously unheard of by the most veteran college football officials happened in Saturday's closing game between Swarthmore college and Haverford college at Haverford when Lester Asplundh, punting star for the winning Swarthmore team, caught the ball standing behind his own goal line after he had punted the leather from his own goal line. He was thrown for a safety, Haverford's only two points.

Haverford had been held for downs on the Garnet 10-foot line Asplandh stepped back, booted the ball for a height of 20 yards and as far into the field of play, but an air current coming from the northwest twisted the ball in the nature of a boomerang back to Asplundh, the punter, who was still behind his
