

Council Bluffs Society

Mrs. William Howard and her daughter, Virginia, have arrived from Boston, Mass., to make their annual visit with Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Henshaw.

They expect to be in the city until the early part of January and will be joined here in a few days by Mr. Howard who is transacting business in Chicago en route.

Entertain for May Robson.

Miss May Robson, the very popular actress who starred last week at the Grandin theater in "Mother's Millions," was honor guest at a supper given Thursday night after the performance of Mr. and Mrs. George Mayne.

Their guests included Miss Robson, Miss Lillian Hamer, Miss Edith Conrad, Russel Hicks and Walter N. Greaza, all from the company, and George Wright.

Affairs Before The Dance.

Preceding the party given at the Eagle hall last week by the Tuesday dancing club, a beautifully appointed dinner was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. X. W. Kynett at their home.

A centerpiece of fruit was used on the table around which were seated Messrs. and Mesdames W. J. Heiser, Elmer Shugart, Walter Stephan, Frank Riker, Julius Rosenfeld and the host and hostess.

Another dinner of 12 covers was given by Dr. and Mrs. Philip Cogley and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L'Esday, at the home of the former, and a buffet supper to which 22 guests were invited was planned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Emplie.

For Des Moines Visitors.

Honoring Mrs. Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kauffman and Mr. J. W. Howell, all of whom are here from Des Moines as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Mehlhop Jr., a dinner was given on Friday evening at the Omaha club by Mr. and Mrs. George Mayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Everett complimented these visitors on Saturday evening with a dinner at their home, and today they are being entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Mehlhop and at supper this evening by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hess.

To Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Koelne have planned a dinner for next Thursday evening at their home on Glen avenue.

For Miss Manning.

Numbered among the enjoyable affairs of the last week was the luncheon on Monday given at the Harold Ross home by Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Pusey McGee complimentary to Miss Neva Manning of Knoxville, Tenn., who is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Quinn.

Yellow chrysanthemums were used on the table, at which places were marked for Mesdames Richard Green, Donald Annis, Bernard Bono, Harry Stearle, Robert Lindsay, Robert May, William Foster, Miss Adele Plummer, Miss Manning and the hostess.

Attended Football Game.

The football game at Lincoln on Thanksgiving day proved to be a great drawing card and among the people from here who either motored down or took an early morning train were Messrs. and Mesdames J. J. Hess, A. H. Dunn, X. W. Kynett, John Shugart, Henry Jennings, Leo Wickham, Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Hennessy, Misses Claire McInerney, Ruth Pitt, Nan Murphy, Rodna Hughes, Theresa Kinzel, Frances Grow and Adele Plummer.

Tom Delaney, M. H. Green, William Beyers, Bob Wickham, John DeWitt, Dick Barstow, James Bonham, Will Bonham, Erskine Mitchell, Tom Beasley, Art Shea, Henry Quinn, Stuart Short and Dr. Howard.

December Dancing Parties.

The dates for the dancing parties planned by the Elks in their ballroom have been changed and will be held Friday, December 15, and Friday, December 29, instead of on the dates as previously announced.

To Arrive Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McFerron and their daughter, Marie Stewart McFerron of Hoopstown, Ill., will arrive this morning at the Charles T. Stewart home, where they will visit until after the first of the year.

Thanksgiving Dinners.

Thanksgiving, which is always a festive occasion in Council Bluffs, was unusually so this year, and many dinners, in most cases quite informal ones, were arranged for this holiday.

The Hannan and Van Brunt families, following a custom established several years ago, spent the day with Mrs. B. M. Sargent, who in the evening had an additional supper guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Douglas.

Dr. and Mrs. Macrae had with them for dinner their son Donald and his wife and their young son from Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis and Miss June Davis dined with the R. H. Bloomers, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Emplie had the Ned Emplie and Fred Emplie families with them and the Edison Damons' and Louis Zermashless were with Mr. and Mrs. George Damons.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Kiplinger and Earl Kiplinger of Omaha were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore and Misses Nell and Shirley Moore and dining with Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Hancock were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Robinson and the William Baxter family of Omaha.

W. A. Maurer was host at a Thanksgiving dinner, his guests being Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maloney, Mr. and Mrs. George Givater and Mr. and Mrs. William Maurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matral entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ellen Langens, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schoeninger, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Knize and Miss Irene Knize.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Douglas were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wickham and son, Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. William Coppock and son, and Mrs. William Coppock and Miss John and Miss Elizabeth Douglas.

With Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clark were Mrs. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Maurer.

Visitors From Boston

Mrs. William Howard and Daughter, Virginia.

C. G. Robinson, Mrs. Helen Metcalf, Mrs. Harriett Day, Miss Elizabeth Day, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riker and daughter, Frances, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Day and children.

Mr. J. B. Atkins had a family gathering at her home, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hohrer had 11 guests with them, Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Seybert had a dinner of 12 covers, and Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Woodward entertained informally on this occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Tinley were Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Tinley and children, Winifred and Robert, Dr. Mary Tinley, Miss Aurelia Tinley, Mr. and Mrs. Folsom Everett and small daughter and Mr. and Mrs. George Spooner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, Miss Marian Turner, T. G. Turner and R. D. M. Turner had dinner together and later formed a theater party at the Brandeis.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wilcox entertained the various members of the Wilcox families and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Moore had an informal dinner at their home.

Bridge-Luncheon Series.

Three lovely luncheons followed by bridge, were given the fore part of last week by Mrs. Leon Lafferty and Mrs. S. W. McCall at the home of the former.

On Monday Mrs. H. A. Quinn won the high score prize and Mrs. M. Murray of Omaha the cut-off all.

The score of Mrs. Harold Ross was high on Tuesday and in the cut-off all Mrs. J. W. Ball was the winner.

On Wednesday Mrs. Ned Shepard received the prize for the greatest number of points and Mrs. M. A. Tinley won the cut-off all.

Bazar.

Christmas shoppers will have an opportunity of purchasing clever little novelties next Wednesday when the members of St. Francis alumnae hold their annual bazar in St. Francis auditorium.

Apron, doll and fancy work booths have been erected and in the evening a chicken dinner will be served.

Afternoon Bridge.

Guests sufficient to complete three tables of bridge were invited on Friday afternoon by Mrs. E. L. Moore to meet Miss Martha Miller, who came from her home in Galesburg, Ill., to spend Thanksgiving in Council Bluffs.

Miss Margaret Flickinger was awarded the prize for high score.

Tea.

The Council Bluffs and Omaha people who were in the Anna Z. Ross European party last summer are being entertained at tea in Omaha

The Woman Who Has Married Beneath Her

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"Three years ago I married a man against whom my parents and friends warned me," writes Mrs. B. J. W. "He was of lower station than I. He had no great ambition to improve, either socially or financially. He lacked culture and education. But he was dear and kind to me and his love swept me beyond all normal thought. "I fancied we could make a go of it. And so I married him. He worked hard and given me everything he could afford. But I miss all the things which once made up my life. I have a baby, a good home, an honest, loving husband, and I can see secure financial future. But I can't keep from looking down on my husband and I feel as if my love would go unless there is some way for me to change him from a plodding, hard-working man to the charming gentleman who is my ideal—now that it is too late.

"Is there anything for me to do? I dread hearing folks say that they told me so. I hate the thought of going home and being dependent. But I cannot go on like this. Don't think my husband is not well-mannered and clean cut. Don't think he is stupid. But I don't think he will ever make a stir in the world, and he hasn't the social graces and finesse I admire. And I can't have the social position I feel is mine by rights. Do you understand? Can you see a way out?"

I cannot decide whether my correspondent is a snob—or a coward. That she is selfish, morbid and weak seems apparent. And I wonder how much tact she possesses and how much adaptability she has shown.

A slight difference in social grades is a farcial thing to stress in this democracy of ours where a rail-splitter may become president.

The man who is accustomed to eating off the kitchen table may have a little trouble adjusting himself to a butter and a silver service, but a clever wife will help him bridge the gap.

The wife who sits back and permits herself to be supported according to the best of her husband's ability isn't a very imaginative or inventive person. If instead of criticizing her husband and thinking of the social graces she would like him to possess, a woman were to cultivate the gifts of strength and courage which are his and to seek to inspire him to use them more fully, she might see the results along the very line she craves.

When a man is loving, devoted, honest and not lacking in brains—the woman to whom he is married must be stupid or lazy if she cannot fire him with ambition and help him find ever better and finer ways of using his gifts.

Not by correcting him and nagging at him and wanting him to run before he knows how to walk—but by encouraging him and sympathizing with him and striving to fire his ambition can a woman aid in the improvement and success she craves. The wife who can't help her husband make the most of himself is a pretty weak and wobbly person. She had better stop criticizing her man and look squarely and honestly at the woman who is supposed to be his helpmate.

With the right woman by his side, a man can climb the highest mountain and never get out of breath. Remember that, Mrs. B. J. W.

Mrs. Leonard Everett returned home Friday evening from Des Moines, Ia., where she spent Thanksgiving with her mother.

A. D. Annis left Wednesday evening for Chicago, where he spent Thanksgiving with his daughter, Marjorie, and son, Albert, who are in Illinois colleges.

Mrs. J. J. Spindler is expected Monday from Colorado for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Glenn Wilcox, and Mr. Wilcox. With her also comes Miss Josephine Spindler, who plans to be here for the Christmas holidays.

When sending parcels a distance through the mail, it is wise to wrap them in several papers, each one addressed and tied, so if the outer wrap is damaged the destination will still be known.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blind announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Elizabeth, to Mr. Howard H. Over, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds R. Over. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Both are popular in social and church circles.

An Important Book for Women to Come January 1.

A publication certain to be of interest is the "Women's World Year Book," to be issued by the Women's News Service, 20 East Forty-second street, New York City, January 1, 1923. It will contain a widespread knowledge of women's affairs outside the purely domestic and social circles.

"Who's Who" records the doings of women in comparatively small ratio with those of men. The new year book will complement the other well-known publications of National and international organizations of women which will be recorded, important meetings of the past year and events of the year to come will have a place in the volume, which will also include biographical sketches of outstanding women. Ida Clyde Clarke is editor of the work and has been assisted by leading women throughout the United States.

Lessen the Danger of Fire. Clean chimneys and stovepipes frequently. All unused stovepipes should be properly closed.

Install first aid fire extinguishers at all danger points. Keep matches away from an open flame of heat and out of the reach of children.

Keep oily rags or mops used for polishing in metal containers, to avoid fires caused by spontaneous combustion.

Influenza. "Why in thunder don't you get rid of that cough? She's slovenly and dirty and she can't boil water without burning it."

"I don't dare discharge her, dear. She is engaged to the driver of a coal wagon."

Informal Musical

The music department of the Omaha Women's club, Mrs. Willis Redfield, leader, will entertain at a musical tea Wednesday afternoon, 3 o'clock, in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium. The program will be given by the director of the music department, Robert Cusaden, violinist, accompanied by Wallace Wheeler; Neil Atkinson Kelley, soprano; Winifred M. Traynor, pianist. Delightful Gifts for the Girl in College

It's such a joy to give Christmas presents to the college girl. So many lovely gifts are possible.

First of all, if you are her parents and she hasn't a wardrobe trunk, give her one. It is so useful in the dormitory room. Party frocks may be hung in the wardrobe side and kept free from dust and at the same time, ready to be donned at a minute's notice.

A trim new suitcase, especially the fitted kind, would be a useful gift, or a hatbox, for traveling back and forth to and from college.

A new handbag, beaded or leather the hand tooled leather being particularly durable.

Silk umbrellas are always acceptable, and the folding variety would suit the college girl who does frequent packing.

Desk accessories, study lamps, fountain pen, or a desk set might be a welcome present. A sewing basket would be a happy choice, or a boudoir clock, a laundry bag, a kodak, an electric iron or an electric grill oh how many delightful things there are for the college girl.

Concert Soloist

A feature of the concert to be given by Mt. St. Mary Glee club December 12 at Creighton auditorium will be a piano group by Miss Mary Alice Kirtley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kirtley. Miss Kirtley is a member of the Junior Musical club and an artist pupil of Miss Corinne Fagellan.

She is also interested in Camp Fire activities and has been awarded a national honor in the organization.

Proceeds from the concert will be added to the building fund for the new $400,000 school which the Sisters of Mercy are to erect on their beautiful site, adjoining Faircross. The number of patrons for the concert is still growing and the friends of the Sisters of Mercy are looking forward to a successful concert.
