Of Perfection"

So says Martin W. Bush, who has been a teacher of Piano Omaha for fifteen years and is very well known to music lovers in the middle west. Mr. Bush has been organist in Omaha Churches for the past eight een years, instructor at Duchesne College and the Convent of the Sacred Heart for the past eight years, and is the present President of the Omaha Clef Club.

He studied piano with Max Landow and had theoretical work at the Institute of Musi-cal Art in New York City, also studied under Sigismund Stojowski and Ernest Consolo in that city. In a letter of ap-preciation for the Steinway,

The beauties and superiorities of the Steinway Piano are so self-evident that they need no explanation or defense. It has been my pleasure and privilege to have played on the instrument for many years, and I have never known it to fall short of perfection in the requirements of perfect balance of compass, tone quality, action and response to every demand made of it.

in Winter Session Clemenceau's Call on Wilson in S Street Home One Address to Southern Society.

> Washington, Dec. 7 .- (By A. P.)-, Clemenceau arrived, but retired in America's wartime president and mediately so that the two might be alone. Mr. Wilson remained seated throughout the visit, the former premier said, adding that he did not prolong his stay as he had when me called on President Harding, because his host appeared to be fatigued.

The call at the Wilson home was an important incident of a day that proved one of the busiest that M Clemenceau has had since he landed on American shores three weeks ago His activities began with an early morning visit to Arlington cemetery and ended late tonight with an address to the Southern society, in Continental Memorial hall, where a few months ago the treaties negotiated at the arms conference were signed.

Message to South. The address to the Southern society was in the nature of a message to the south, since the former premier was obliged to cancel his intended trip into that section. M.
