Mrs. Mallory to Invade France for Second Tilt With Suzanne

New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national women's tennis champion, has practically completed her plans, it was announced today, for departure early in February for France in quest of new court laurels, and incidentally, another test of skill with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French holder of the international women's title.

By arriving in France about the middle of February, Mrs. Mallory would have time to acclimate herself before participating in the winter tournaments along the Riviera. Mlle. Lenglen is entered in the events. Aside from the possibility of another meeting between the queens of American and European courts, interest also is attached to the participation of Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California girl, who has made her home in England for several years and is ranked next to Mlle. Lenglen by many foreign critics. Miss Ryan was to have played her French rival early in February at Cannes, but, according to cable dispatches, she has been obliged to withdraw because of a blistered hand.

Mrs. Mallory's proposed winter campaign, critics believe, would heighten her chances of victory in the world's title event in the summer at Wimbledon, where last year the American champion was defeated in the final round by Mlle. Lenglen.

Says "Bugs" Baer: INCIDENT OF THE MISSING TOUPEE

A Baseball Germino Scalpe a Sensitive Old Timer in Camp.

WHEN a famous oldtimer reads this he will ride ferretboats to hounds in order to be in at the kill of the writer. He was in the big leagues for many years. In all that time he never took a shower bath.

Naturally, the neighbor's children got to talking. Why didn't the old boy sample the junior Niagara?

They discovered he had a toupee. He always bathed in the hotel bath-tubs. He was very touchy about that one-man top. He had his Scotch and soups after each game, but he took his bath in order that curfew and the old toupee would not wring tonight.

After his big league minutes were over, he signed up as a coach. Among the young players the old boy chaperoned was Joe Geddon, a baseball clown of many capers.

Joe got the cornerstone information on the toupee. One morning the oldtimer ate breakfast with his baseball cap on. Dinner also. Supper too. His impolite business continued for three days without explanation.

Although he mailed no specifications, the whole camp soon knew there was something missing. His explanation about the meal helmet was that he had a cold in the head.

His toupee had been kidnapped by dealers in human hair. The senior partner of that firm was Joe Geddon. Joe had decoyed the toupee from the old homestead and had nailed it over the door of the training quarters. Everybody knew where the old top was except the frightful owner.

They let it stay over the door like a hoss shoe. Meanwhile, the old boy scouted around and discovered his scalp hanging up like a turkey before the holidays.

He recused his top sirloin. When the boys started to salute the top that night they discovered it was missing. Also the mail. As the oldtimer ate without his cap that evening, they figured he had the permanent curls nailed on for keeps.

He never cracked a complaint about the accident. Nobody ever suspected him. It was a delicate situation. Something like rowing a paper boat in a lake of blazing oil.

Practice had gone on as usual during alterations. But the oldtimer never allowed his wig to ever fall into the hands of a new management.

It's a good thing there is a continent between him and Joe Geddon, or Joe would inherit a bruise for every hair in the wig.

The Fairview Presbyterians defeated the Calvary Baptists in a slow game, 9 to 5. Smith starred for the winners and Boggs for the losers.

Haskell Indians to Be Blue's Next Foe

The Haskell Indians will be Creighton university's next hardwood floor opponents. The Redskin tribe will play a two-game series here next Friday and Saturday, January 12 and 13. Despite the Blue's 23 to 7 defeat by the Kansas Jayhawkers last night, Coach Schabinger sees a strong team this year.

"Every player showed lots of fight," said Schabinger, "and the team's work as a whole was good. The defensive playing was as good as the Kansas. It was in the flipping department that Creighton was weak."

Prep to Play Bluffs. Creighton High school team, boasting five letter men in its lineup, will pry off the lid to its cage season tomorrow night against Council Bluffs High school at Creighton gym.

17 Holes in One Herd's Record

London, Jan. 4.—Alexander Herd, open champion in 1902, and still a redoubtable player, held out in one yesterday for the 17th time in his golfing career, thereby setting a mark which experts assert has never been even approached by another golfer. James Braid, with 11 ones to his credit, is believed to be the runner-up. Harry Vardon, winner of six world championships, only once held his tee shot.

"Sandy" Herd's 17th was achieved at the Coombe Hill links in Surrey, where 13 of his other similar shots have been made. He told a reporter for the Daily Mail that an American friend had promised to give him a solid gold putter when he raised his record to 20.

"But I don't suppose I'll ever win it," Herd added.

Whenever a player holes out in one it is customary to give the caddy a bottle of whisky and Herd obeyed the decree of fashion. This moved the Mail's golf humorist to remark: "British golf is now so bad that thousands of caddies in this country are dying of thirst."

Dan Tipple's Offerings Win Him a Bride

DAN TIPPLE'S offerings are still going big and in a few days he'll be playing in the rolling pin league.

Mixing a fast ball that split the pines with a curvy one that sailed the corners, Tipple's offerings last season qualified him for the title of Buffalo "ace."

Recently Tipple's offerings went up to Miss Florence Gorlach of Reading, Pa., and instead of taking a vicious swing at 'em, a la West-coast league style, she smiled and cooly answered, "Yes."

So Tipple cut corners in getting to a justice of the peace to procure a marriage license. The "document" was issued at Rockford, Ill., and in a few days Dan will be signed up for life.

Princeton Fan Will Give Roper Gridsters Tiger for Mascot

Boston, Jan. 3.—John R. Howard of Haverhill, father of Albert Howard, member of the Princeton varsity squad last fall, said today that he was starting for India next week with the intention of fulfilling a promise made to Princeton players here November 10 that if they beat Harvard the next day he would get them a tiger mascot from the jungle.

Princeton won and a tiger cub will be shipped by Howard as soon as he reaches India, he said.

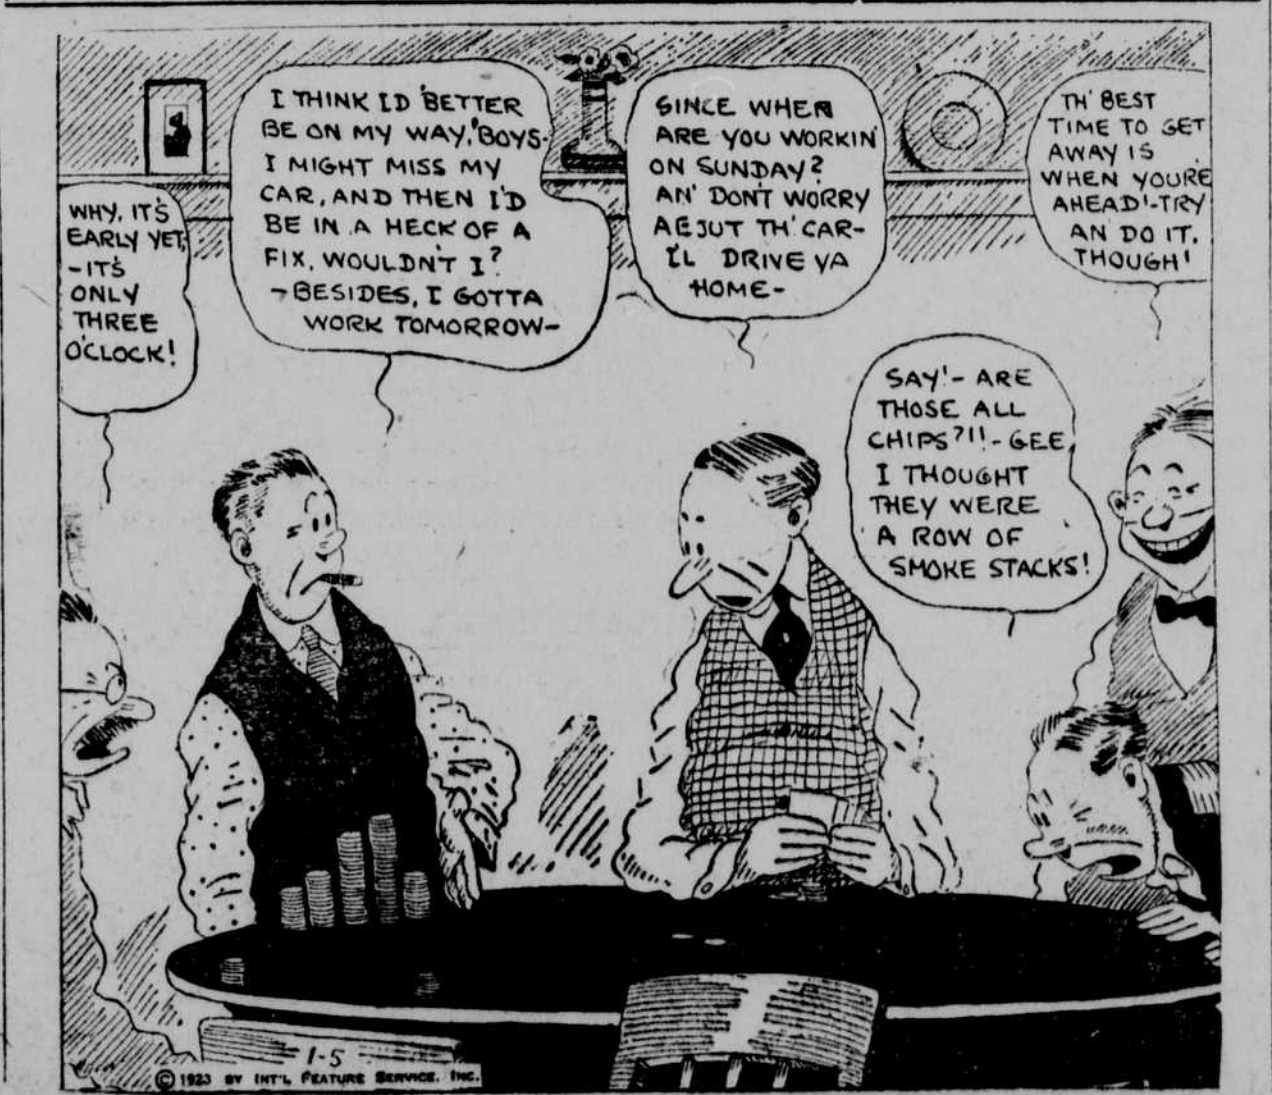

The advantage of height is great and counts for much, but the center must have other virtues. He should be a good shooter to cover great distances fast, and possessed of an endurance that will carry him at top speed through the 40 minutes of playing time. There may be breathing spells for the guards and forwards, but the center is on the go all the time. When the team is in possession of the ball he must be maneuvering to open spots in order to receive passes and help work the ball into the basket. He always follows the play, and should, on account of his height and ability to jump, be should follow up the shots, and should be ready either by taking the missed ones and shooting them up again, or by passing to a free man. When his team loses the ball he must be on edge on the defense and be ready to take the rebound to intercept passes and to take the missed shots of opponents off their backboard.
