Tax Evaders Are Being Detected

Revenue Agents Inspect Bank Accounts, Collector Warns—Blanks Mailed.

A special elaborate system of catching income tax evaders is being put into operation here and elsewhere by the federal internal revenue department. Collector A. B. Allen said yesterday.

"Men and women who think they are too smart for the government may find themselves caught before long," he said. "Internal revenue agents are given power to examine bank accounts, records of county and city treasurers, registers of deeds and so on."

"Doubtless there are many who think they are getting away with something but these evasions are never outlived and the agents are working constantly and bringing evaders to justice," he said.

Mr. Allen, correcting the statement made recently by a public speaker that "92 cents of every dollar of income tax goes for the expense of collecting it" showed by the government report that it cost only $1.07 to collect each $100 of income tax last year.

Feature Transactions of Livestock Exchange

John Jespersen brought a shipment of lambs to the local market yesterday from Cortland that averaged 75 pounds and sold for $14.80 a hundred, the top price for the day. The consignment was sent to feed in a cornfield 92 days ago. They cost at that time $12.45 a hundred and averaged 55 pounds.

The steer market was topped by Frank Ketz of Marne, Ia., who brought in a shipment of 31 head of heavy Herefords that averaged 1,355 pounds, for which he received $9.55 a hundred. The cattle will be shipped east, having been bought by an order buyer for shipment.

Thor Flotra of Petersburg was on the market with both cattle and hogs. The cattle averaged 1,248 pounds and sold for $8.15 a hundred, while the hogs showed an average of 225 pounds and brought $8.25 a hundred. "I bought these cattle on the local market 80 days ago," said Mr. Flotra.

They cost me $6.50 a hundred and averaged at that time 950 pounds. Today they averaged 1,248 pounds.

"These cattle were put in the cornfield, where I kept them for three weeks after which I put them in the feed lot, with a full feed of corn and alfalfa hay. The gains, both in weight and price prove to me that cattle feeding has been a paying proposition this season."
