

Iowa Woman to Go to Trial for Slaying Youth

Unwritten Law to Be Defense
—Prosecution Will Seek to Prove Jealousy Was Motive.

Atlantic, Ia., Jan. 5.—(Special)—That she slew George Bohnke, her youthful lover, at her Prairie Rose store last summer to save herself and her home from ruin, will be the defense of Mrs. Alfred Liebeck, whose trial on the first degree murder charge will begin at Harlan the first of next week. The case is expected to be assigned next Monday for trial early in the week.

Details of Mrs. Liebeck's defense are not as yet made public, but it was stated today that the woman will make the plea that Bohnke was a home wrecker. Mrs. Liebeck shot the youth, when he came to her store with a young woman and asked her to accompany them to a dance. She then attempted to kill herself, but her daughter knocked the gun to one side as she fired and her wound was not fatal. She was very low for a time from the self-inflicted injury, but recovered and was placed under arrest. Subsequently she was admitted to bail of $20,000. The prosecution will attempt to prove that the crime was activated by jealousy, and that when Mrs. Liebeck saw young Bohnke with the other woman she shot to kill him and then herself.

Mrs. Liebeck will be represented in her defense by former District Judge Shelly Cullison, son of Judge George W. Cullison and T. H. Smith, former state senator. County Attorney V. H. Byers of Shelby county will conduct the prosecution.

Briggs, 'Ding' and Others to Join Omaha Bee Staff

cartoons for a Sioux City newspaper. Later he went to Des Moines and a few years ago he joined the star corps of The New York Tribune. In the last five years no cartoonist in America has been so honored by republication of his cartoons in newspapers and magazines in every state of the union. He has an unusually happy faculty of combining humor with definite purpose, producing thereby a result which has power to stir as well as amuse the reader.

Burgess ranks almost as the originator of what have come to be known in acceptance of his title, "Bedtime Stories." He tells tales of "Peter Rabbit," "Farmer Brown," "Ruddy Fox," "Danny Meadow Mouse" and a host of others, all in a manner which delights the little folks.

Mark Sullivan, political analyst, maintains an unequalled reputation for the thorough independence of his views. He writes news; he interprets news. He tells of the undercurrents and of the happenings behind the scenes.

The Complete List.

These are but the high spots of The Omaha Bee's news service. The full list of features available March 14, follows, with the prospect of other additions of equal value from time to time:

"Midwinter Fair" at Auburn

Pawnee City, Neb., Jan. 5.—(Special)—Nemaha county is about to open its first "Midwinter fair," to be held in the auditorium on the fair grounds at Auburn, January 8 to 13. The money raised will go towards clearing the indebtedness of the fair association there.

Uncle Sam Says

Important Apple Insects.
This booklet, prepared by the federal bureau of entomology, is designed to acquaint fruit growers with the general distribution, description, life history and control of the apple insects with which he is likely to be troubled.

Orchardists and even growers of a few apple trees would do well to study carefully the insects causing important injuries in order that remedial measures may be intelligently applied.

Readers of The Omaha Bee may obtain a copy of this booklet free as long as the free edition lasts by writing to the Division of Publications, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., asking for "F. B. 1270."

Parents' Problems

How can a boy of 9 be broken of the habit of loitering about the streets instead of coming directly home from school?

This is a plain question of obedience. Take the tendency in time. The secret of securing obedience is the habit of expecting it every time. When a boy who has never been taught to obey, this would be a good place to begin, first by making it clear that the requirement was no arbitrary unreasonable demand, but being careful always to have something for the boy to do on his return.
