joins The Omaha Bee January 15th

and he will establish an advertising service department for The Bee that will mean much toward better advertising and successful business development.

Who does not remember the uncommon advertising of J. R. Phipps, the cobbler, The Goddard Fuel Co., Pray for Men, Wilcox & Allen, Stryker's, Douglas Shoe Store, The French Dry Cleaning, Roberts' Milk, Petersen & Pegau Baking Co. and a score of others. Each of these shows "the new slant" mind from his "new slant" pen. Each is an example of

"stick out" copy, full of "the ring" of genuineness, for he picks his words with swift surety. He knows how to "say much in little"—and stop!

In establishing this new Bee service department Mr. Austin will give his entire time to the accounts who seek his services. He will make a thorough study of your business and plan the kind of advertising that will do away with the risk of failure.

The Bee is growing and growing fast —It is building the kind of a staff that a great newspaper must have and in bringing Mr. Austin to The Bee, we feel that we have achieved and advanced one step nearer the goal for which The Bee is aiming.

But why is Mr. Austin coming to peg his hat at The Bee? Let him answer the question himself:

"I have always had a warm spot in my heart for Omaha's best known newspaper. Its aims are high. Its plans for making Omaha a Bigger and Better City are clear and well defined. The Bee is the kind of a newspaper that Omaha is proud of. It will be a keen pleasure to me to play a part in putting across the big things for Omaha that are on The Bee's development program."
