

172 Indians Must Die for Rioting

Accused of Murder in Non-Co-Operationist Disorders Last February.

London, Jan. 10.—Advices from Lucknow stated today that the death sentence has been imposed on 172 Indians, accused of murder and arson, as a result of the non-co-operationist rioting at Chauri-Chaura last February.

Seven of the 238 persons who were originally held on the charges, died while awaiting trial. Two others received two year prison terms. Forty-seven were acquitted.

Seventeen native police were killed in the rioting at Chauri-Chaura, which occurred on February 4, last. The demonstration was one episode in a week-end of anti-British uprisings in various parts of India.

The mob at Chauri-Chaura, numbering 2,000 Indian nationalist volunteers, reinforced by villagers, attacked the police officers and killed the entire staff, including the eight policemen who were sent to reinforce the post. The buildings were burned. Chauri-Chaura is 15 miles southwest of Gorakhpur on the Bengal, northwestern Railway.

On the same day, a disturbance was reported at the town of Berally in the middle United province. A crowd of 5,000 persons which attempted to seize the town hall, was dispersed by the police after two members of the mob had been killed and five wounded.

Later, another disturbance occurred at Tiruvannamalai, 85 miles southeast of Madras in the Tanjore district. Three persons were killed and 8 wounded.

Louisiana has 19 registered women statisticians, which exceeds the record of any other state.

Long and Short of It at Bellevue Vets' School

The long and the short of it at Bellevue Vocational Training school. The gentleman on the left is Arthur H. Schork who measures 6 feet, 8 inches from the soles of his feet to the crown of his head. His little friend is Roy I. Cooley, whose height is just 5 feet 3 inches.

When the late unpleasantness between Germany and some of her neighbors extended to the U. S. A., Roy Cooley of Albion, Neb., started out "to be a soldier." So did Arthur H. Schork of Rich Hill, Mo.

Roy measured just 5 feet 3 inches in height, but he managed to get into the infantry in a Wyoming town where he was staying at the time.

"I was under height, but I was an extra good man, so they took me," Roy explained at Bellevue Vocational Training school where he is a student.

Arthur left the telephone company at Rich Hill, Mo., where he was employed and went to Kansas City to enlist.

"Whaddya think we are?" the recruiting officer demanded. "Think we're going to dig all the trenches in France a foot deeper just to accommodate you? Nothin' doin'."

But Arthur finally got into the signal corps. His height, 6 feet 8 inches, was rather an advantage there.

Schork now is studying to be an electrician and Cooley to be a watchmaker.

They are great chums in spite of the foot-and-a-half difference in their "longitudes."

Schork has to be a bit careful in going through doorways and under chandeliers. He sleeps in an extra big bed provided for him. He has advantages, though, such as when he's at the table. He can reach for things.

Cooley spent several months overseas.

C. of C. Puts City Council on Pan

Burlesque Session of City Commissioners Features First Gridiron Dinner.

The city council was put on the pan last night at the first annual gridiron dinner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the chamber dining room at 615.

The feature of the dinner, which was held in observance of annual Father and Son week, was a burlesque session of the council.

The meeting started off well enough, with President Mount Burns in the chair and plenty of singing and laughter and congeniality, but when Leo Beveridge took the floor for a speech and lit into the city commission for past, present and future faults, Municipal Judge Frank Dineen leaped to his feet, waved his arms, tore his hair, summoned his friends about him and showed those flip Junior chambermen just how the old city council works.

Dineen played his Mayor Dahlman. F. L. Campbell, Jr., put sand in his hair and ate raw meat so he could be the redoubtable Daniel Butler, defender of the people's rights; Harry Greenway portrayed the activities of his honor, Joseph Koutsky, with the lantern of Diogenes looking for an honest man who'll admit there have been some public improvements; Dr. Robert Drake was expected to don a red shirt and blue trousers and play fireman as he represented John Hopkins; Russell Funkhouser frolicked brought in the old broom and played missionary, was there, too, in the person of Porter Allen. Gerald Ellick played City Clerk Claude Bossie.

Henry Dunn, the singing police commissioner, will be there, too, in the person of Porter Allen. Maybe he'll ride a toy motorcycle to show how the new suburban police patrol system will work. Gerald Ellick will play City Clerk Claude Bossie.

Menus for the banquet were printed in nine different languages—so that all who came might read in his own tongue.

Dean McGinley of Trinity cathedral delivered an address on Father and Son.

Mayor Dahlman was present and was given a chance to get even with the burlesquers.

Miss Dora Neun, of Rochester, N. Y., is considered one of the most successful women chemists in the United States.

It'll be the best news of the year. It means much in happiness . . . but wait.

"Many dishes—Many diseases"

So Benjamin Franklin discovered two hundred years ago—and we're re-discovering its wisdom now.

Strength and energy do not come from a big variety of dishes on your table.

Better, far better, a few simple, well-balanced foods, including a large proportion of your most wholesome and sustaining of all foods—Bread.

This has been proved by the experience of the English, who gave up rich foods at the outset of the war and have never gone back to them, but are now basing their meals fifty per cent on Bread. A startling gain in national health has been the result.

Try making one meal on Bread and milk for a week, and note the new store of vigor and energy you will thus easily acquire.

The Bread you will especially enjoy for its flaky lightness and fine texture is
