

Make Farmer Pay Is Plan of Bryan to Cut Expense

Governor Would Make Individuals Pay Students for Tuberculosis Eradication Campaign.

Lincoln, Jan. 19.—(Special)—Students in the state agricultural college would be pressed into service to overcome the menace to health and cattle raising by Governor Bryan in his refusal to appropriate any money whatever towards eradication of bovine tuberculosis and maintenance of burrows in the present state board of agriculture.

The governor proposes a law making it impossible for sale or transfer of cattle without accompanying certificates to the effect that these cattle are free of tuberculosis. "Who would you have to do this work of inspecting and issuing certificates?" he was asked.

Would Have Students. "Certain students in our agricultural department do this now and we could send them out to make inspections, charge for these inspections and certificates and make this self-supporting," he replied.

The governor asserted he hadn't decided definitely whether members of his proposed board of health would receive salaries. He stated that undoubtedly a secretary at a salary of approximately $2,500 a year would carry out the administrative plans decided upon by the board after the board had consulted with the executive council.

You must bear in mind that my suggestions have not been carried out as yet," he said.

Must Do More Work. Next, the governor was asked if he planned to give extension departments of the state agricultural college and university extra appropriations or allow them extra help for the multiple duties he would place on their shoulders by abolishing the departments of public welfare and agriculture and turning most of the work done by these departments over to the two educational extension departments.

No, these extension departments are doing similar work right now and they can handle the work done in the state house of similar nature without any additional help or appropriations," he replied.

Alleged Forger Attempts to Swallow "Evidence"

When Carl Holland, 123 North Tenth street, was arrested yesterday by Detective Charles Walker, he is alleged to have stuffed $340 worth of travelers' checks into his mouth in an effort to chew them beyond identification, but the sleuth pushed his hand down the prisoner's throat and extracted them.

The checks were patched together and Holland was charged with forging the name of Alex J. Porter, brakeman for the Milwaukee railroad.

Woman Struck by Auto Is in Serious Condition

Mrs. Joseph Conn, 3151 Farnam street, who was struck by an automobile driven by J. E. Brown, January 16, is still in a serious condition at Lord Lister hospital. X-ray pictures disclose a double fracture of the skull, three fractures of the right leg and a broken collar bone.

Self Sacrifice Made by Striking Shopman

Falls City, Neb., Jan. 19.—(Special)—The spirit of self-sacrifice which has been so stressed as characteristic of the railroad shopmen now on strike and which has enabled them to withstand hunger and cold, was never better illustrated than a case which has just been made known.

One striker, a machinist, after knocking about in search of employment, obtained a job as a machinist at a Nebraska City packing house at 89 cents an hour—higher wages than he ever received at the Falls City shops of the Missouri Pacific.

The wages appealed to him, but he thought of another striker, father of 12 children, who was out of funds and was a source of worry to his local. The first striker obtained permission from the packing company to exchange his job with the other, who was more in need, and now the former is again walking the streets in search of employment.

There are but six machinists out of work here, according to union officials.

Two Arrests Made in Raids by Sheriff

Two arrests were made Thursday night in the first city-wide raiding sortie of the new sheriff's administration. Headed by Sheriff Mike Emdre, Deputies Otuf Valdemar Thestrup, George McBride and John Maloney, the new "morals squad" from the sheriff's office, scoured the town in search of gambling and booze rendezvous.

They met with success in the basement below the Orpheum Gardens, 1415 Harney street, where they found according to Thestrup, instead of a bowling alley, a short bar topped with a number of glasses in which was whiskey.

The next stop was at the soft drink saloon of Harry Norman, Twenty-sixth and N streets, where they found several persons gambling. Norman was arrested on a charge of gambling.
