

7,000 Patients Are Visited in Year by Nurses

Mrs. W. E. Rhoades Re-Elected Head of Nurses' Association—Reports Are Submitted.

The Visiting Nurses association of Omaha, at its annual meeting yesterday noon in Brandeis restaurants, re-elected Mrs. W. E. Rhoades president.

Praises Milk Fund. Mrs. Rhoades referred in her report to the milk and ice fund of the Omaha Bee, which last year exceeded all previous years.

Work Is Increasing. Mrs. Norton, secretary, reported that the work of the Visiting Nurse association is fast growing and that a larger budget is necessary to maintain efficiency.

Woman Struck by Auto Dies. Mrs. Josephine Conn, 60, 3151 Farran street, victim of an automobile accident in the night of January 19, died yesterday morning at Lord Lieber hospital without regaining consciousness.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. IN USE FOR OVER 30 YEARS.

Blackheaded Pimples Quit With S. S. S.

Why? Pimple-Poison Goes When Red-Blood-Cells Increase! S. S. S. Builds These Red-Blood-Cells.

The shame of a blemished face! blood-cells that is what you need when you see pimples as at you in the mirror.

STOP RHEUMATISM WITH RED PEPPER. When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

man, on returning from his run, discovered his mother's absence from home and found her in the hospital.

Beldens, Father and Son, Buy Thompsons' Stock

Charles C. Belden and C. R. Belden have purchased the common stock interests of Henry A. Thompson and Harold A. Thompson in the Thompson-Belden company, it was announced yesterday.

Colored Lyric Soprano Will Give Concert Here. Mme. Sadye Cochrane-Chadwick, colored lyric soprano, will appear in concert at the Bethel A. M. E. church.

Judge Divorces and Then Lectures Youthful Couple. Lila Todd, 19, and Lyle Todd, 21, after District Judge Day granted a divorce to the wife, received a little lecture on when and how to get married from the judge.

Fire Apparatus Will Be Used to Advertise Film. An interesting collection of photographs and documents pertaining to the history of the Omaha fire department will be exhibited in one of the Sixteenth street show windows of Burgess-Nash company, beginning next Saturday night.

Y. W. C. A. Officers Elected. Mrs. Palmer Findley was re-elected president of the Young Women's Christian association for the ensuing year at its annual election yesterday.

Brief City News. Fined on Gambling Charge—John Voegel, 419 Dodge street, was fined $50 in municipal court yesterday on a charge of operating a gambling game.

Cops at Bargain Sale—After a crowd of over-enthusiastic bargain hunters had broken some of the load of cut glass advertised on sale in a local store, 11 policemen had difficulty in stemming the tide of human waves.

Births and Deaths. Births. Clarence and Irene Pamp, R. F. D. No. 7, Benson, boy.

Triumph of John Kars

By RIDGEWELL CULLEN. A Thrilling Tale of Love, Adventure, Gold and Indians, With Its Stirring Episodes Set in Alaskan Wilderness.

"There's no one around," he comforted her. "I'll be frank. Yes, I was awake. Wide awake—hours. I just couldn't lie there waiting—waiting. I had to get around. I had to look at it all—again. Say, John, dear, it's our wedding day. It is to us. Think of it, little girl, think of it. By noon you'll be my wife—my wife. And after, after we've eaten, and Father Jose and Bill have said their pieces, we'll be setting out down the river with all the folks we care for, for a new, big, wide world, and the wide open trail of happiness waiting for us. If it wasn't I'm holding you right now in my arms I guess I'd be hugging you all the time."

"I can see it all, now," he exclaimed. "With the murder of Al- lan, by the Indians, Murray's whole play begins. He goes up with an outfit. His outfit sees the result. There's nothing to be done. So he gets right back with the mutilated and mangled with the folk he's injured. Murray keeps to the play of the loyal friend and protector. Louis Creal tells him you've found one of the family. Besides, Murray figures around you and Jessie. It's the first snag he's hit, and it's one to be cleared. He's got to marry Jessie and so make himself one of the family. He's taking no chances. He'll have to be administered by Jessie's husband. And in the end, the whole outfit'll come into Jessie's hands, and so into his. But there's a further snag. Alec is to get the business at his mother's death. Alec has to be got rid of. How? Alec is yearning for life. He's yearning to wallow in the silk of Leaping Horse. Murray encourages him. Murray persuades his mother. Murray takes him down there, and flings him into the sink. But Murray hasn't forgotten you and your lot. He's going to get you done up on Bell river the same as Allan Mowbray. So he ships in the supplies and makes ready. Meanwhile the boy plays into his hands. He gets all tied up with the woman belonging to Shaubbaum. And Shaubbaum figures to kill him. Murray chances that. It'll have him acting that way himself. But he's taking no chances. He watches all the while. He locates everything, every move Shaubbaum makes. How I can't guess, but it's easy to follow. Like Murray. Well, the gunner get around. May be you'll say this is just a guess. It don't seem that way to me. I sort of see it all doing. The day Alec's to be shot up by Shaubbaum's men gets around. That morning Murray pulls out north. Then comes night. He sneaks back. I seem to see Murray sitting around in one of the boxes opposite us, as we keep close in that box, hidden. He watches. The boy knew trouble was hitting his trail. When it caught him up he was ready. He was quicker than the gunner. Only the bullet I dug out of the poor kid's body. Murray cleared on the instant, and didn't have to pass through the hall. The rest—Bill finished up with a comprehensive gesture.

The passage of time for John Kars had never been so swift, so feverish in the rush of poignant events. Four months had passed since he had landed like a shadow in the night on the banks of Snake river, to tell the story of men's evil to those to whom he would gladly have imparted only happy tidings. Now he was at landing again. It was the crown day of his life, and he desired to live every moment of it. So he had left his bed under the hospitable roof of Father Jose to witness the first moment of his birth.

For all his desire to forget, the rapid moving scenes of the summer days came back to him now, vivid and painful. He contemplated afresh his journey down the river with his prisoner and his loyal friends. He remembered his landing on that very spot when sleep wrapped the Mission of St. Agatha. He thought of his first visit to the padre, and of his ultimate telling of his story to the two women who had suffered so deeply at the hands of the murderer. The story told them had come the great looking forward. His work completed, he had promised that not a consideration in the world should stay his feet from the return. And Jessie had yielded to his urgency on that return she would give herself to him, and the beloved padre should bless their union in the little Mission House.

That night his canoe started for Leaping Horse. He remembered the anxious, busy days there when the machinery of outland justice creaked rustily under his efforts to persuade it into full and perfect motion. And Justice had won. So he turned his back on Leaping Horse with the knowledge that the murderer would pay his penalty.

His work was done, and now, on this day of days, as he watched his splendid birth he thanked God that the contamination of the gold world which had so long overshadowed would no longer threaten the life of the girl who was to be given into his keeping before its close.

Kars drew a deep breath. The draught of morning air was nectar to his widely expanding lungs. Realization of happiness rarely comes till it is past. Kars was realizing it to the full. Kars was realizing it to the full at Fort Mowbray, the landing at his feet as crowded with craft. But it was not the craft of trade. It was his own outfit, largely augmented. A week had been spent upon the landing, a week of unalloyed happiness and deeply sentimental care. These were canoes laden with the many household goods and treasures of Jessie and her mother, who were about to take their places in his life.

A sound behind him caught his quick ears. In a moment he had turned. Jessie was standing in the mouth of the avenue which led down from the clearing. He strode up to her, his arms outthrust. The girl yielded to his embrace on the instant, and then hastily released herself, and glanced about her in real apprehension. Kars smilingly shook his head.

"There's no one around," he comforted her. "I'll be frank. Yes, I was awake. Wide awake—hours. I just couldn't lie there waiting—waiting. I had to get around. I had to look at it all—again. Say, John, dear, it's our wedding day. It is to us. Think of it, little girl, think of it. By noon you'll be my wife—my wife. And after, after we've eaten, and Father Jose and Bill have said their pieces, we'll be setting out down the river with all the folks we care for, for a new, big, wide world, and the wide open trail of happiness waiting for us. If it wasn't I'm holding you right now in my arms I guess I'd be hugging you all the time."

"I can see it all, now," he exclaimed. "With the murder of Al- lan, by the Indians, Murray's whole play begins. He goes up with an outfit. His outfit sees the result. There's nothing to be done. So he gets right back with the mutilated and mangled with the folk he's injured. Murray keeps to the play of the loyal friend and protector. Louis Creal tells him you've found one of the family. Besides, Murray figures around you and Jessie. It's the first snag he's hit, and it's one to be cleared. He's got to marry Jessie and so make himself one of the family. He's taking no chances. He'll have to be administered by Jessie's husband. And in the end, the whole outfit'll come into Jessie's hands, and so into his. But there's a further snag. Alec is to get the business at his mother's death. Alec has to be got rid of. How? Alec is yearning for life. He's yearning to wallow in the silk of Leaping Horse. Murray encourages him. Murray persuades his mother. Murray takes him down there, and flings him into the sink. But Murray hasn't forgotten you and your lot. He's going to get you done up on Bell river the same as Allan Mowbray. So he ships in the supplies and makes ready. Meanwhile the boy plays into his hands. He gets all tied up with the woman belonging to Shaubbaum. And Shaubbaum figures to kill him. Murray chances that. It'll have him acting that way himself. But he's taking no chances. He watches all the while. He locates everything, every move Shaubbaum makes. How I can't guess, but it's easy to follow. Like Murray. Well, the gunner get around. May be you'll say this is just a guess. It don't seem that way to me. I sort of see it all doing. The day Alec's to be shot up by Shaubbaum's men gets around. That morning Murray pulls out north. Then comes night. He sneaks back. I seem to see Murray sitting around in one of the boxes opposite us, as we keep close in that box, hidden. He watches. The boy knew trouble was hitting his trail. When it caught him up he was ready. He was quicker than the gunner. Only the bullet I dug out of the poor kid's body. Murray cleared on the instant, and didn't have to pass through the hall. The rest—Bill finished up with a comprehensive gesture.

The passage of time for John Kars had never been so swift, so feverish in the rush of poignant events. Four months had passed since he had landed like a shadow in the night on the banks of Snake river, to tell the story of men's evil to those to whom he would gladly have imparted only happy tidings. Now he was at landing again. It was the crown day of his life, and he desired to live every moment of it. So he had left his bed under the hospitable roof of Father Jose to witness the first moment of his birth.

For all his desire to forget, the rapid moving scenes of the summer days came back to him now, vivid and painful. He contemplated afresh his journey down the river with his prisoner and his loyal friends. He remembered his landing on that very spot when sleep wrapped the Mission of St. Agatha. He thought of his first visit to the padre, and of his ultimate telling of his story to the two women who had suffered so deeply at the hands of the murderer. The story told them had come the great looking forward. His work completed, he had promised that not a consideration in the world should stay his feet from the return. And Jessie had yielded to his urgency on that return she would give herself to him, and the beloved padre should bless their union in the little Mission House.

That night his canoe started for Leaping Horse. He remembered the anxious, busy days there when the machinery of outland justice creaked rustily under his efforts to persuade it into full and perfect motion. And Justice had won. So he turned his back on Leaping Horse with the knowledge that the murderer would pay his penalty.

His work was done, and now, on this day of days, as he watched his splendid birth he thanked God that the contamination of the gold world which had so long overshadowed would no longer threaten the life of the girl who was to be given into his keeping before its close.

Kars drew a deep breath. The draught of morning air was nectar to his widely expanding lungs. Realization of happiness rarely comes till it is past. Kars was realizing it to the full. Kars was realizing it to the full at Fort Mowbray, the landing at his feet as crowded with craft. But it was not the craft of trade. It was his own outfit, largely augmented. A week had been spent upon the landing, a week of unalloyed happiness and deeply sentimental care. These were canoes laden with the many household goods and treasures of Jessie and her mother, who were about to take their places in his life.

A sound behind him caught his quick ears. In a moment he had turned. Jessie was standing in the mouth of the avenue which led down from the clearing. He strode up to her, his arms outthrust. The girl yielded to his embrace on the instant, and then hastily released herself, and glanced about her in real apprehension. Kars smilingly shook his head.

"There's no one around," he comforted her. "I'll be frank. Yes, I was awake. Wide awake—hours. I just couldn't lie there waiting—waiting. I had to get around. I had to look at it all—again. Say, John, dear, it's our wedding day. It is to us. Think of it, little girl, think of it. By noon you'll be my wife—my wife. And after, after we've eaten, and Father Jose and Bill have said their pieces, we'll be setting out down the river with all the folks we care for, for a new, big, wide world, and the wide open trail of happiness waiting for us. If it wasn't I'm holding you right now in my arms I guess I'd be hugging you all the time."

"I can see it all, now," he exclaimed. "With the murder of Al- lan, by the Indians, Murray's whole play begins. He goes up with an outfit. His outfit sees the result. There's nothing to be done. So he gets right back with the mutilated and mangled with the folk he's injured. Murray keeps to the play of the loyal friend and protector. Louis Creal tells him you've found one of the family. Besides, Murray figures around you and Jessie. It's the first snag he's hit, and it's one to be cleared. He's got to marry Jessie and so make himself one of the family. He's taking no chances. He'll have to be administered by Jessie's husband. And in the end, the whole outfit'll come into Jessie's hands, and so into his. But there's a further snag. Alec is to get the business at his mother's death. Alec has to be got rid of. How? Alec is yearning for life. He's yearning to wallow in the silk of Leaping Horse. Murray encourages him. Murray persuades his mother. Murray takes him down there, and flings him into the sink. But Murray hasn't forgotten you and your lot. He's going to get you done up on Bell river the same as Allan Mowbray. So he ships in the supplies and makes ready. Meanwhile the boy plays into his hands. He gets all tied up with the woman belonging to Shaubbaum. And Shaubbaum figures to kill him. Murray chances that. It'll have him acting that way himself. But he's taking no chances. He watches all the while. He locates everything, every move Shaubbaum makes. How I can't guess, but it's easy to follow. Like Murray. Well, the gunner get around. May be you'll say this is just a guess. It don't seem that way to me. I sort of see it all doing. The day Alec's to be shot up by Shaubbaum's men gets around. That morning Murray pulls out north. Then comes night. He sneaks back. I seem to see Murray sitting around in one of the boxes opposite us, as we keep close in that box, hidden. He watches. The boy knew trouble was hitting his trail. When it caught him up he was ready. He was quicker than the gunner. Only the bullet I dug out of the poor kid's body. Murray cleared on the instant, and didn't have to pass through the hall. The rest—Bill finished up with a comprehensive gesture.

The passage of time for John Kars had never been so swift, so feverish in the rush of poignant events. Four months had passed since he had landed like a shadow in the night on the banks of Snake river, to tell the story of men's evil to those to whom he would gladly have imparted only happy tidings. Now he was at landing again. It was the crown day of his life, and he desired to live every moment of it. So he had left his bed under the hospitable roof of Father Jose to witness the first moment of his birth.

For all his desire to forget, the rapid moving scenes of the summer days came back to him now, vivid and painful. He contemplated afresh his journey down the river with his prisoner and his loyal friends. He remembered his landing on that very spot when sleep wrapped the Mission of St. Agatha. He thought of his first visit to the padre, and of his ultimate telling of his story to the two women who had suffered so deeply at the hands of the murderer. The story told them had come the great looking forward. His work completed, he had promised that not a consideration in the world should stay his feet from the return. And Jessie had yielded to his urgency on that return she would give herself to him, and the beloved padre should bless their union in the little Mission House.

That night his canoe started for Leaping Horse. He remembered the anxious, busy days there when the machinery of outland justice creaked rustily under his efforts to persuade it into full and perfect motion. And Justice had won. So he turned his back on Leaping Horse with the knowledge that the murderer would pay his penalty.

His work was done, and now, on this day of days, as he watched his splendid birth he thanked God that the contamination of the gold world which had so long overshadowed would no longer threaten the life of the girl who was to be given into his keeping before its close.

Kars drew a deep breath. The draught of morning air was nectar to his widely expanding lungs. Realization of happiness rarely comes till it is past. Kars was realizing it to the full. Kars was realizing it to the full at Fort Mowbray, the landing at his feet as crowded with craft. But it was not the craft of trade. It was his own outfit, largely augmented. A week had been spent upon the landing, a week of unalloyed happiness and deeply sentimental care. These were canoes laden with the many household goods and treasures of Jessie and her mother, who were about to take their places in his life.

A sound behind him caught his quick ears. In a moment he had turned. Jessie was standing in the mouth of the avenue which led down from the clearing. He strode up to her, his arms outthrust. The girl yielded to his embrace on the instant, and then hastily released herself, and glanced about her in real apprehension. Kars smilingly shook his head.

Three Arrested in Liquor Raid

Attempt to Destroy Two Gallon Jugs of Evidence Foiled by Police.

Three men were arrested yesterday afternoon when the police morals squad under Sergeant Frank Williams raided a soft drink parlor at 101 South Thirtieth street.

The men arrested were Fred Finlayson, Millard held, held on a liquor charge, Joe Schutte, State hotel, held for investigation, and Gus Rueda, 1554 North Sixteenth street, held on a charge of drunkenness.

The place was under $5,000 bond on a previous injunction proceedings, according to Officer A. B. Nelson, a member of the raiding party, the bond conditioned upon observance of the liquor law.

ago Dr. Mathews' license was revoked by the state department of public welfare and that it has never been restored.

PNEUMONIA. Call a physician. Then begin "emergency" treatment with VICKS VAPORUB. Over 17 Million Jan Used Yearly.

EAT SKINNER'S Superior SPAGHETTI.

On Bargain Rack. Dresses for Street, Afternoon and Office. $17.50 to $45.00. $22.50. Thome's Shop. 1812 Farran.

Watch For The HUMMING BIRD.

THE TABLE SUPPLY. OMAHA'S PURE FOOD HEADQUARTERS. 17th and Douglas. Phone AT. 3857.

Thursday, February 1st. We Reopen the Table Supply. A Finer, Better Market Than Ever Before.

Every trace of the unfortunate fire which visited us during the holidays—has vanished—and from a smoke-stained store has sprung a new Table Supply—a shopping center for Omaha housewives which will prove to be in the future Omaha's one dominant value-giving market—which always maintains a most exacting quality standard.

Every Dollar's Worth of Merchandise in Our Vast Stocks Is New and Fresh.

Not a single package or can from our old stock remains. Every article is new—every article secured on the present day low prices and will be offered you on the same basis. From tomorrow on—make the Table Supply your shopping center. It's a place in which you'll like to buy—a home-like store where real service awaits you.

Extreme Specials for Opening Days. 48-lb. sacks of Blue Bell Flour $1.59. 10 lbs. Best Sugar 71c. No. 2 cans Tomatoes, special 11c. Kamo Maine Corn, 7 cans $1.00. Red Alaska Salmon, tall cans 23c. Ripe Olives, 3 cans for 25c. Queen Olives, quart jars 39c. No. 3 cans Sauerkraut, 3 cans for 37c. 3 lbs. of Ankola Coffee for $1.10. Dr. Price's Baking Powder, 2 cans 25c. Walter Baker Chocolate, 1/2-lb. cake 17c. Pure Comb Honey, full lb. 23c. No. 3 cans Nomis 27c. Nomis Blackberries, No. 2 cans 24c. Evergreen Corn, 3 cans for 25c.

Quality Meats Most Decisively Underpriced. Fresh Leaf Lard 9 Lbs. for 99c. Armour's Star Bacon, 1-lb. carton 37 1/2c. Extra Lean Pork Chops, 2 lbs. 25c. Choice Steer Shoulder Steak, 2 lbs. 25c. Fresh Spare Ribs, lb. 10c. Homemade Frankfurters or Wienies, per lb. 12 1/2c. Choice Steer Round Steak, lb. 17 1/2c. Choice Steer Boiling Beef, lb. 5c. Fresh Cut Hamburger, 2 lbs. 25c. Morrell's Extra Lean Bacon, lb. 29 1/2c. No. 1 Skinned Hams, half or whole, lb. 21c.

Cigars—Just Inside the Door. Spur Cigarettes, carton $1.19. Garcia Cigars, box of 50 $1.89. Gerard Brokers, 2 for 25c val. 50 for $4.00. Star Cheving Tobacco, full plug 75c. Tuxedo Smoking Tobacco, 2 pgs. 25c. French Briar Pipes, 75c value, 39c. Safety Matches, 2 doz. boxes 15c. Special—Mixed Candy, 25c lb. value, 3 lbs. for 25c. Tuffy Candy, special, 3 lbs. 25c. Special Creams, per lb. 23c. Atlantic Mints, 50c value, lb. 25c. Stearn's Cough Drops, 5c value, 2 for 5c.

Wonderful Values From Our Enlarged Fruit Department. BANANAS—Large and ripe, 100 bunches, special for the opening sale, doz. 25c. Extra Fancy Navel Oranges, sweet and juicy, doz. 27c. Extra Fancy Roman Beauty Apples, 40-lb. boxes, for $1.85. Extra Fancy Fresh Ripe Tomatoes, 2-lb. basket for 29c. Fancy California Celery, large stalks, for 10c. Green Onions, regular 10c bunches, for 5c. Fancy Head Lettuce, 3 for 25c. Brazil Nuts, lb. 17 1/2c. Large English Walnuts, per lb. 25c. Fancy Strawberries, quart box 49c.

Opening Day Specials In Butter and Eggs. Extra Fancy Country Roll Butter, lb. 49c. Ideal Creamery Butter, per lb. 51c. Gem Nut Oils, lb. 22c. Fancy Cream Cheese, per lb. 32 1/2c. Fancy Ripe Olives, per quart 35c. Fresh Eggs, doz. 33c.

Fresh Fish and Oysters. Standard Oysters, Qt. 65c. Select Oysters, Qt. 75c. Salmon, half or whole, lb. 14c. Small Catfish, per lb. 20c. Silver Bass, per lb. 18c. Fresh Fish, per lb. 18c. Fresh Herring, per lb. 9c.

Phone AT. 3857. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets—Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Bayer Aspirin advertisement featuring the Bayer cross logo and text: "Genuine Bayer Aspirin", "SAY 'BAYER' when you buy. Insist! Unless you see the 'Bayer Cross' on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over 23 years and proved safe by millions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Pain, Pain."