

J. H. Knight Is Ace of Pilots in Air Mail Service

Omahans Has Covered More Miles Than Any Other Flyer—Leonhardt of Cleveland Close Second.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—J. H. Knight of Omaha is ace of pilots in respect to the number of miles flown in the air mail service, according to the records of the Post-office department compiled today, but his hold on the distinction is slender since his performance is nearly equalled by Pilot E. G. Leonhardt of Cleveland, O. Knight has flown 146,729 miles, while Leonhardt has covered 145,750 miles.

Both pilots are veterans in the transcontinental service carrying the mails. Knight became pilot June 25, 1919, and Leonhardt joined the air mail service September 19, 1919. Pilot Leonhardt wings his way over mountains and plains on the eastern division from Newark to Iowa City, while Knight flies the central division route from Iowa City to Rock Springs, Wyo. Both flyers were in the army service during the war.

Veteran flyers, as well as veteran flyers have distinguished records in the air mail service. No. 99, a De Havilland, now entering on its third year with 110,206 miles to its credit, has been flown farther than any other plane in the postal service. This plane has been in continuous use since November 15, 1919, except for the time taken for its periodical inspection and overhauling.

Three Creighton Students Injured in Auto Crash

Three Omaha boys, students at Creighton university, were injured Wednesday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding skidded into a telephone pole at Twenty-eighth and Farnam streets. The boys suffered cuts and bruises. They are Gerald Quinlan, 21, 4808 Dodge street; Jack Redmond, 15, 1021 South Thirtieth avenue; and Walter Hayward, 3122 Woolworth avenue.

"Ebb Tide" Opens Here.

"Ebb Tide," a story of the South Sea Islands, full of adventure and action, opens at the Rialto theater Thursday for the remainder of this week. In the cast for the picture are Lila Lee, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton, George Fawcett, Noah Beery and Jacqueline Logan.

In addition to the feature Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven's new comedy, "Twin Husbands," will be shown.

AT THE THEATERS

CAPACITY audiences continue to applaud Bill Jones, the Reno judge, the divorce-seeking vaudeville actress and the other red-blooded characters whom Omaha playgoers are seeing for the first time in "Lightning" at the Brandeis theater this week, as in other cities where the record-smasher has been presented this season, old attendance records are being broken for the run for seats and it is expected that "Lightning" will add this city to its list of box-office championships. There are still good seats for all the remaining performances, however, including the extra matinee today and Sunday and the extra Sunday night performance.

"Youth," stars of the future, introducing 19 juvenile vaudeville stars is the extraordinary headline attraction at the World theater starting tomorrow. As presented by Maud Daniels this offering is the last word in entertainment. Comedy runs rampant throughout the 25 minutes. Mary Caroline Daniels is the featured girl and little Dominic, a 10-year-old Italian boy, is the principal comedian of the act. Songs, dances, comedy, instrumental music and novelty are introduced in rapid succession. Making up the big supporting bill are the Three LeGros, noted pantomime comedians; the Four Ortons, in a laughable novelty; Maurice, the French card manipulator; and his first American tour; the Three Avolios, premier xylophonists and Nash and Marsh in songs and patter. May Allison in a romance of the South Seas, "The Woman Who Fooled Herself" is the full length screen feature.

"There is a limit to realism in the musical burlesque that is presented by the Columbia attractions," says Mildred Simon, comedienne with Joe Levitt's "Giggles" at the Gayety theater this week. "In other lines of stage entertainment realism is carried to an extreme degree, but in Columbia burlesque we must wear tights on all occasions. The powers that demand bathing girls on Columbia stages must have their nether extremities clad." The two final performances occur today.

Orpheum patrons are reminded that they have but today and tomorrow left for seeing Julian Eltinge. In the four song numbers he presents the display of a lavish wardrobe. Sarcorial richness is particularly splendid in his Cleopatra number. "The Bide-a-Wee Home" is the title of the appealing playlet, which Claude and Fanny Usher are presenting. The Orpheum has brought to Omaha, the hilarious travesty, "Working for the Railroad," is amusingly presented by the clever blackface comedians, Glenn and Jenkins. Miss Bobby Polson and Jack Deary, with their metropolitan orchestra, an organization that is reported to be as big a success over the Orpheum circuit as Henry Santrey and his band, come as the important feature next week.

The plot of the "Brazilian Hellness," which is now showing at the Empress with a cast of nine people, has to do with a young woman of supposed great financial means, who is sought after by a young man desirous of finding a wife. This chap, having been imported by a friend to "land" the hellness, makes every endeavor to do so. Herbert and Carter, in "Well, I Don't Care," offer the best in amusing entertainment. The two remaining acts are Antoinette & Mootie in "A Refined Singing Musical Offering," and Dave Winnie, "That Interesting Athlete."
