Will Not Give Bentley Part of Sale Price

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 3.—Jack Bentley, the pitcher-first baseman sold by the Baltimore club to the New York Giants for $500,000 will not be successful in his efforts to get part of the sale price from the Orioles. If Owner Jack Dunn of the Orioles, adheres to the determination expressed today in the following statement:

"The Baltimore club will not give a bonus in any player sold. It is paying more money as salaries than any minor league club in the country. In fact, it is paying as salaries more money than is taken in at the gate.

"I did not want to sell Bentley. He demanded to be sold. I complied with his request. Therefore, why should we reward him for fulfilling his demand?"

Tickets were as high as $60 for the Willard Drumpsey championship fight in Toledo, but if they would fight again anyone who paid $60 for a seat to the fight would be on the market for the Sixteenth street viaduct.

The arena, the latest boxing center of Philadelphia, was formerly the Ice Palace. It can accommodate 10,000 spectators. The former Olympic arena was abandoned as a boxing arena under the new arrangement.

Scrambled Sports

JACK DEMPSEY is the heavy-weight champion of the world, but in the last four years he has had only four battles, all of which doesn't speak very well for a champion.

Dempsey's excuse for not being more active is that he lacks opponents, which is not true. Harry Wells, Jimmy Cowley and Tommy Gibbons want to fight.

Sporting men say that the reason Dempsey has not swapped punches more often is not because he lacks opponents, but because he wants more money for his services than they are worth.

If Dempsey were willing to meet all comers for a reasonable percentage he would find plenty of work to do.

English Welter Outboxes Omaha Welterweight in 10-Round Bout; Decision Unpopular With Fans

By RALPH WAGNER.

"Kid" Schlaifer, Omaha welterweight, was donated a 10-round decision over "Billy" Wells, champion welter of England and Canada, Friday at the end of their bout, the main event of a fight program staged at the City auditorium.

What prompted Referee George Duffy of Milwaukee, who, by the way, is licensed by the boxing commission of Wisconsin, to give a decision such as he did, is beyond our imagination and beyond that of a majority of the thousands of fans who witnessed the contest.

If one boxer ever gave another a good licking in a 10-round bout, "Billy" Wells gave Schlaifer one last night. In saying this we are not taking any credit away from the "Kid." He fought the best he knew how; he fought like he has never fought before; battled the Englishman from one corner of the ring to the other; hit Wells time and again with stinging lefts and rights, but, granting all of this, the Omaha welter was outboxed from the first round to the final ring of the bell. Wells made Schlaifer miss so often that it's a wonder that he isn't ill from pneumonia. The Londoner also hit Schlaifer often and hard. Schlaifer's face proved this at the end of their bout. The "Kid" showed the effects of the fight more so than did Wells.

But how a referee, a referee with the reputation George Duffy totes around with him, could give a decision like he did last night is beyond our reason. The fact that Wells hit Schlaifer three times with a backhand swipe surely does not warrant such a decision.

Fans Hoot Decision.

At the end of the bout when Duffy donated his verdict, spectators hooted themselves hoarse. Several climbed into the ring and for a time it looked dark for the referee. However, he managed to get to the dressing room where he remained until late into the night.

Wells also remained in the ring. The Englishman deserved the decision if any one did. In his dressing room he wept like a baby, not because he lost the decision but because he knew he beat Schlaifer and wasn't given credit.

Wells won five rounds, while Schlaifer took two. The first round started even. The first round started to the Englishman, while the second was won by the "Kid." The third was Wells' and the fourth belongs to Schlaifer. Wells had the best of the fifth and the sixth and seventh were even. The eighth, ninth and tenth belong to Wells.

But the fight. It was a gallant struggle, with the dope under two ways. Wells, the clever boxer, showed that he could stand and fight like a wildcat. The "Kid" showed, showed that he is improving in his game. Wells was cautious at the start, back-jumped briskly and muffled the "Kid's" rushes. Thus passed the first and second rounds, with little damage done. The third was a whirlwind. They mixed furiously, Schlaifer swinging, Wells jabbing and hooking, and Schlaifer looking somewhat puzzled at the bell. So far Wells had it on leading and general results.

Tide Turns.

The fourth saw the tide turn suddenly. Schlaifer managed to shoot Wells as full of interest as Elvis Presley and escaped his desperate returns. The "Kid" breezed forth in this round and chased Wells around the ring. Near the bell Schlaifer clipped Wells on the chin, caught him off balance and knocked the Englishman down. He was up in a jiffy, however, and on top Schlaifer like a wildcat.

The Englishman has a defense that shed Schlaifer's blows like duck sheds water. His left and right dukes came in contact with Schlaifer's face and body bodies and bodies of times during the bout, but hit as hard as he could. Wells was unable to make the game little Schlaifer give ground to such extent.

In the fifth round Wells easily outboxed Schlaifer. He made the Omaha lad miss repeatedly. Wells carries a wicked left that simply whittled Schlaifer down in this round. In characteristic milling fashion the "Kid" bored in with wild swings. Occasionally they landed smack on Wells' ear, but seemingly had little effect. Near the bell Wells peppered Schlaifer in the beizer and soon the
