

Omahans Honored by Clothiers at Their Election

R. E. Wilcox Chosen President of Nebraska Association and H. A. D'Arcy Head of Apparel Club.

Last night was a night of jollification and good cheer for the 100 or more Nebraska clothiers who have been in convention in Omaha since Tuesday and whose meetings were brought to a close at Hotel Fontaine by a grand finale, this being in the shape of an 11-act vaudeville show and boxing match tendered the delegates by the Men's Apparel Club, composed of traveling salesmen whose territory comprises this state.

Following an overture by the Apollo orchestra, the clothiers and their wives were treated to one of the finest entertainments of this kind ever staged in this city. There was an opening chorus by the Apollo singers, a catchy duet number, a classic dance and other features, some along burlesque lines, some hilariously funny and others seriously entertaining. Preceding the entertainment part of the program was a steak supper, with all the other things that go to make a man glad he has a palate.

The afternoon was devoted to hearing talks on merchandise and sales by Thomas C. Byrne, of the Byrne-Hammer Dry Goods company, and John A. Swanson of the Nebraska Clothing company, after which officers were elected. In this matter Omahans were signally honored both by the clothiers and the Apparel club.

R. E. Wilcox of Wilcox & Allen was elected president of the Clothiers' association and H. A. D'Arcy, Omaha representative of the David Adler and Sons company, Milwaukee, was elected president of the apparel club. This organization also picked M. J. Coakley of M. E. Smith & C. as vice president and Dan A. Sonne-land, local representative for Lan-ber, Skinner & Co., St. Paul, Minn., as secretary-treasurer.

William Wolfe, of Neligh was elected vice president of the Clothiers' organization and three new directors were selected as follows: First district, Paul A. Gilmore of Auburn; Third district, John Sonin of Fremont; Fifth district, Emil Wolbach, Grand Island; Joseph Sarbach, former president and M. J. Hirsch were named as national directors by the Apparel club.

The secretary-treasurer of the Clothiers' association will be named by the new board of directors.

Citizens Ask Increase in Prosecutor's Staff

A petition carrying the names of hundreds of citizens asking the legislature to allow the county attorney's office more deputies was sent to Lincoln yesterday.

The petition has the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations.

Henry Beal, county attorney, who returned from Lincoln yesterday after lobbying for a bill to increase the number of deputies, said that it had a good chance of passing.

"Only last week every deputy in my office was prosecuting criminal cases," said Beal. "We had three criminal courts operating while another deputy was in divorce court."
