

Accountant Sees Misrepresentation in Creamery Books Denies Ever Examining General Ledger of Waterloo Company Produced in Court.

Alex Green, chief accountant of the Michigan State Securities commission, testified yesterday at the trial of 11 defendants in the Waterloo Creamery company case in federal court that he was shown different general ledgers of the company when he came here early in 1921 to examine the condition of the company which had applied for permission to sell its stock in Michigan.

stock in Michigan. The ledger here in court does not substantiate those figures.

"Isn't it true," asked the defense attorney on cross-examination, that you are testifying thus merely to justify yourself?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

Green said the books showed that at that time officers drew these salaries: Leroy Corliss, Bert Corliss and H. P. Ryner, $5,000 a year each; Miss I. M. King, secretary, $1,600 a year.

Enjoined From Voting.

District Judge Fitzgerald yesterday issued a restraining order to prevent Leroy Corliss, president of the defendant Waterloo Creamery company, from voting his $110,000 worth of stock in the Alamito Dairy company at its annual meeting today.

Attorneys for the Alamito company say that Corliss gave his note for the stock two and one-half years ago and neither the note nor the interest has been paid.

The restraining order also specifies the meeting shall be held between 12 noon and 4 p. m., and restrains Corliss from preventing preferred stockholders from voting.

Order restraining the Waterloo Creamery company from voting its $194,000 worth of stock in the Alamito company was issued a week ago by Federal Judge Woodruff. These two restraining orders remove control of the Alamito company from Corliss and the Waterloo Creamery company.

Hindu Ineligible to Naturalization, High Court Holds Bhagat Singh Thind Denied Citizenship on Appeal From Decision of Federal Court in Oregon.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—A high caste Hindu is not a "free white person" within the meaning of the naturalization law, and therefore under the recent decision of the court excluding Japanese are not entitled to citizenship. The supreme court held today in an appeal brought by the United States against Bhagat Singh Thind.

The court ruled that the words "white person" must be given the meaning they have in common usage and are not to be applied through a scientific study determining whether the persons affected descended from white stock.

Bhagat Singh Thind, a high-caste Hindu of full Indian blood, born in Punjab, India, was naturalized in the United States district court for Oregon in 1920, over the objection of the federal government. Failing in its effort to have that court reverse its action, the United States took the case to the ninth circuit court of appeals, which affirmed the decision of the lower court, holding that Bhagat Singh being legally in the country, was within the meaning of the naturalization law a free white person entitled to admission to citizenship.

Bhagat Singh entered the United States at Seattle in 1913, and in 1915, at the age of 25, he entered the army and served six months at Camp Lewis. He was given an honorable discharge in which his conduct was marked "excellent."

In 1917 congress passed an act under which Hindus were excluded from the United States, but did not affect the status of Hindus who had entered the country prior to that date, leaving the court in the present case only to determine the question whether a Hindu of the caste of Bhagat Singh is a "white person."

Millions of wishes created this record

EVERY time a phonograph record has been played these past twenty years—ever since the first disc record—some one has wished that surface sound might be abolished.

Millions and millions of times it has been wished—by people with sensitive nerves, who hear the noise of needle friction above everything—by keen-eared music lovers listening for delicate phrasing and expression, which they know to be there, but which are drowned in the blur of surface sounds.

Those millions of wishes have at last come true in the form of Columbia New Process Records. Columbia engineers and chemists solved the problem by the discovery of a new surface substance so fine and smooth that the needle travels over it almost inaudibly.

All of the Columbia Records out to-day are made with this amazingly quiet, new surface.

Tear out this list and take it to a Columbia Dealer. He will play any or all that you request. Note the fullness and sweetness of tone, a finer musical quality than you ever heard before. Note the absence of any annoying surface distraction.

As an example of this wonderful new construction and superior musical charm ask to hear A-3790. It's Ted Lewis and His Band playing "Runnin' Wild"—a fox-trot that will keep you dancing till it's time to bring in the milk. Its teammate on the other side is "St. Louis Blues."

Only in Columbia New Process Records can you obtain this perfection of surface quietness. The process is patented.
