

College-on-Ship Newest Scheme to Educate Wealthy

400 Youths to Sail on Asa Candler's School-Transport September 15.

Baltimore, Feb. 20.—Transformed into a sumptuous sea-world-as-you-see-it study college for boys, the former army transport Logan will set sail next September 15, if the plans of Asa Candler, jr., of Atlanta, Ga., son of the multimillionaire beverage manufacturer, are realized. The ship will have accommodations for 400 pupils, a large faculty, managers and clerks of the various departments. Mr. Candler said yesterday that the school is not a philanthropic foundation. It is a purely business proposition. He said and only men of means can afford to send their sons through such a course.

"My own son," Mr. Candler said, "and the son of my brother Howard, will go on the first cruise. This expresses my confidence in the scheme. The view I take is this," Mr. Candler continued, "there are many poor boys who attend schools and buckle down to their work in earnest because they have no other interests. But there are many sons of rich men who have their cars and their clubs and find too much to do other than to study. If the rich men's sons are sent to my school they will enjoy themselves, but at the same time they will see that they must concentrate on their studies."

Young boys will not be accepted by the school, it was stated. Those who are admitted must have reached the third year of high school or the first

Bright Red Light Appears in Heavens in California

Peculiar Phenomenon Attributed to Tail of Meteor by Coast Astronomer; Light Remains in Sky for Period of Half an Hour, Appearing to Drift Slowly.

San Bernardino, Cal., Feb. 20.—A bright red light in the southerly heavens attracted wide attention here last night. For more than half an hour, the object resembled the tail of a comet. At 9:15 o'clock the light faded.

Prof. H. A. Richardson, a local astronomer, said it probably was the tail of a meteor. He could not determine whether the light faded because of the intervening of clouds or whether the object itself disappeared.

Boy's Restlessness Saves House From Destruction

Shelton, Neb., Feb. 20.—(Special.)—Fire of unknown origin threatened the destruction of the William Adamson farmhouse, north of Shelton. A small boy was awakened by the smoke and could not go back to sleep. His restlessness caused an older boy to wake up, and the parents and a large family of children, all of whom were sleeping upstairs, were quickly aroused. The father managed to get down the stairs of the smoke-filled house and discovered a roaring fire in the dining room. He secured some buckets and with the help of two sons, put the fire under control.

Shots Fired Into Store; Parties Escape in Auto

Nebraska City, Neb., Feb. 20.—(Special.)—Sheriff Ryder was notified yesterday that at an early hour in the morning four chaffees from a shotgun had been fired by unidentified parties through the window of the Herman Richter store at Minersville. The owner resides above the store and when he heard the shots he saw an automobile traveling at a fast rate of speed driving away from the scene. It is believed that an effort was made to get the storekeeper out into the open in order that he could be killed with little prospect of leaving a clue. Several cans of canned goods on the shelves of the store were penetrated by the shots.

"Maiden Omaha" to Be Crowned

Manufacturers to Give Away Samples and Prizes at Annual Banquet.

One of the biggest events of the year among Omaha manufacturers, the 13th annual Omaha Manufacturers banquet, will be held in the M. E. Smith auditorium Tuesday evening next. Miss Irene Tauchen, who was elected queen at the industrial show last October, will be crowned "Maiden Omaha."

The main feature at the banquet in years past has been the giving away of samples and prizes by the Omaha manufacturing concerns. This year several thousand dollars worth of samples and prizes, including everything from collar buttons to bed mattresses, will be distributed among the guests.

There are more than 500 manufacturing concerns in Omaha and 215 of these will be represented at the affair. Each concern will contribute a sample of its goods to be given away, and the samples will be placed in large bags and hung on the backs of the chairs around the banquet table. As each guest enters the door he or she will be given a number. Later in the evening a drawing will take place and the lucky ones will carry home their prizes.

Some valuable prizes are to be given away this year, one of the most valuable being a fur automobile robe. The banquet is being held this year in the M. E. Smith auditorium as the rooms at the Chamber of Commerce are too small.

Live Better—

The Metropolitan Agent is a friend to the families he visits and helps them in case of sickness.

Among the useful booklets distributed by the Agents are those telling how to buy food, how to care for food, how to cook food, how to provide wholesome, nourishing food for the least money.
