

Women Stone Slayer of Girl in Philadelphia

Shout With Men for Swift
Justice on Man
Who Kidnaped
Child.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—While a crowd of men and women on the street shouted for swift justice, Wylie F. Morgan, slayer of 6-year-old Lillian Gilmore, today was held without bail in a police station in the northeastern part of the city. Then when he was removed from the station to a prison van to be taken to the city hall a shower of stones and other missiles were hurled at the frightened prisoner. No one was struck and no arrests were made.

Morgan's confession of kidnaping, attacking and killing the child, whom he took away with her 4-year-old sister, Dorothy, from near their home last Saturday, in a motor car, was obtained by the police last night. Dorothy was returned home a few hours after the kidnaping. Lillian's body was found last night on the ice of Neshaminy creek, 20 miles from Philadelphia.

Director of Public Safety Cortelyou said that Morgan's trial would be held.

Girl Dies.

Morgan made a lengthy signed statement, the police said, setting forth in detail how he had lured Lillian and her sister Dorothy, 4, from their home on the pretext of taking them for an automobile ride, how he had taken them to a vacant lot, how the older girl had died during an attack and how he had taken her body to the isolated spot 20 miles north of Philadelphia, in the hope that it would not be discovered. After laying Lillian's body along the bank of the stream, he told the police that he had returned to the city with Dorothy and put her out of the car within a few blocks of her home.

Feature Transactions of Livestock Exchange

W. A. Peterson came in from Oakland yesterday with a shipment of 10 head of steers averaging 1,252 pounds, which brought $5.80 a hundred.

"I bought those steers here four months ago," said Mr. Peterson, "and they made an average gain of 412 pounds, weighing 840 pounds when I bought them and they cost me $6.85 a hundred. I gave them a feed of ground corn and alfalfa and am quite pleased with both the gain in weight and price."

According to Mr. Peterson there is a large number of cattle in the feed lots around Oakland and there has also been a good run from that section. He said the big crop of fall pigs raised last year is responsible for the large number of packing sows being brought to market this season.

Three carloads of steers, one load of which sold for the top price of $9.20 a hundred, were brought to the local market yesterday by Carl Saar of Treynor, Ia. Another load went at a hundred while the rest sold for $5.80 a hundred. The entire shipment averaged 1,300 pounds.

Mr. Saar said he bought the cattle on the local market last spring as stockers when they cost him $7.50 a hundred. They doubled in weight since he took them out, he said, with most of the gain in weight made on a feed of blue glass pasture, shelled corn and hay.

After marketing a load of steers averaging 1,255 pounds at the price of $9.20 a hundred at the local yards, Leonard Sedlicky of Linwood put some of the money in the purchase of two loads of lambs which he took out to finish for market. He said he already had a big flock of lambs that he expected to bring to South Omaha in the near future.

Romance Off Rocks —Suit Is Forgotten

Omaha Divorcee Admits Reconciliation With Cattle Baron She Sued for $100,000.

Romance of Emma Anderson, prettily Omaha divorcee, and John C. Bachelor, Cherry county cattle baron, which went on the rocks last December to the accompaniment of a $100,000 heart balm suit, again is under full spread of sail.

Mrs. Anderson at her home yesterday morning, 2514 South Eleventh, admitted a reconciliation, but declined to discuss the case.

Her heart balm suit, the shortest ever filed in district court here, is all up in the air, and has a quartet of high-powered attorneys flustered. The suit, technically, has not been withdrawn, but the papers have been removed from the court house, no one seems to know where or why.

Attorneys for Mrs. Anderson filed the suit, after, according to her story, she had agreed to wed the wealthy king of the cattle country on December 11. He put off the wedding for a few days, she said, then told her "it was all off," and checked out of the Paxton hotel eight hours ahead of a process server.

Then Mrs. Anderson went into seclusion. And as for the cattle baron out in the great open spaces was fought a grim, bitter battle between pride and love, and love won.

Just how Bachelor again approached the lady of his desires, and how she received his halting, possibly awkward advances, is not part of the record, but at all events, the heart balm suit seems off.

Miss Ruth Bachelor, his daughter in Omaha yesterday morning, declined to comment upon her father's action. "You'll have to see his attorneys," she said.

Burton of Chicago, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, testified yesterday at a reopening of the senate manufactures subcommittee decision in a state league debate with the local high school here last evening. Judges were Professors Duncan, Esson and Aylesworth of Colner, Peru and Nebraska university respectively. This is Pawnee City's first defeat.

Cost Secondary in Design of Mae Murray Costume

Either men or women may compete for the $50 in gold prizes offered for the three best designs for a costume for Mae Murray, in The Omaha Bee's contest.

Entrants are not limited in any way regarding the expense of the costume, only, of course, the judges probably will not countenance a design running into the thousands of dollars unless so designed that any necessary jewels, might be borrowed. Miss Murray expects her costumes to cost her a great deal of money and expense is not a major factor.

In her letter regarding the contest Miss Murray says: "It is far from an easy matter to select designs for any costumes, for the public has grown to expect a great deal from me in them in originality. People expect something distinctive and unique, something startling in creation in each one. I always have welcomed suggestions, even though some of them have been impractical for my use."

Remember that the prizes will be awarded for designs and description of costume, the only condition being that the design must be in either pen and ink or in color. First prize, $25; second, $15, and third, $10. Two tickets to see Mae Murray in "Jazzmania" at the Sun next week will be awarded every one who sends in an accepted design.

Secretary Davis Seeks Way to Bar Noted Dancer From Shores of America

Washington, Feb. 27.—If Isadora Duncan, the dancer, dislikes American institutions and American ways as much as she pretends, she may soon be relieved of bothering about them again.

In view of remarks attributed to her recently as she was sailing from New York for Europe, Secretary Davis, as head of the governmental department dealing with naturalization, has asked Attorney General Daugherty if there is not a way in which she can be divested forever of her citizenship.

In the past the dancer's right to enter the United States has been challenged because of her radical utterances, but on every occasion she has been able to establish her status as a citizen.

Widow Relents; to Bury Suicide

Man Swallows Poison in Home
When Wife Files Suit for Divorce.

Mrs. Anna Hefflin, 27, 3013 North Forty-first street, whose husband, Louis, 47, killed himself because she filed a divorce petition, plans to give him a proper funeral.

"There's a little insurance," said Mrs. Robert E. Petty, 3922 North Forty-first street, neighbor, with whom she lives, "and Mrs. Hefflin intends to see that he is buried properly."

Widow Finds Body.

Mrs. Hefflin discovered the body at 3:30 Monday night when she went to the home, next door to the Petty's, to replenish a fire. Hefflin had left a note: "I am leaving as you requested. Goodbye."

At its side were papers served on him Monday morning in his divorce action.

Married Four Years.

The Hefflins were married in 1918. Mrs. Hefflin charged that her husband began to drink soon after they were married and later became an habitual drunkard. She worked, she charged, and paid half of the $900 that had been paid on their home, but he beat her.

"Friday night" he went home drunk and held her virtually a prisoner," Mrs. Petty said. "She called me the next morning and I brought her right over to my home, and told her she was a fool to stand it."

Mrs. Hefflin's answer was the petition, asking divorce and their interest in the home.

Architects! Builders!

Before putting up apartment houses, hotels, office buildings and large residences, provision should be made to carry the wires necessary to furnish telephone service.

If some arrangement is not included in the original building plans, it may be necessary to make extensive and costly alterations, after the completion of the building, in order to conceal the wires placed in the halls and rooms.

We will be glad to give architects, owners or builders the benefit of our experience in such matters, and assist in planning the best system of wires for each case.
