Stars of Past Years Trying to "Come Back' in the picture world this season. Never has a year brought forth so many avowed intentions from one time favorites to reclaim their place in the sun. Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne are hard at work on a new story. Theda Bara hopes to brush up on her vamping and J. Warren Kerrigan is to hold the center of the screen in a new super-special that may again mark him as a popu-

No matter what the outcome of these stellar attempts to prove the fallacy of "the fickle mob," self confidence appears to be the motive that inspired them. Whether popularity is something that can be picked up just as it has been discarded will be an interesting issue.

Perhaps the most courageous and certainly the most successful essay at coming back" is that made a few months ago by Priscella Bonner who dates her first film fame back 15 years to stardom in the earliest two reelers. When she married she announced that she would retire. As the years passed old ambitions revived and when she finally answered the call of the camera again she found that new players, new directors and changed methods of casting had altered the entire outlook.

Just when the former leading lady was prepared to take the first open, J. Lamb. ing as an extra, B. P. Schulberg, president of Preferred Pictures, gave but in those few feet of film reewers and theatre-goers recognized he qualities that once had made Miss Bonner a favorite. Because of her enthusiastic reception she was given other roles, increasing in importance until, when the "all-Irish-allstar" cast for Tom Forman's production, "April Showers," was formed, Schulberg again engaged her-this time not as an extra but as a principal in the brilliant cast keaded by Kenneth Harlan and Colleen Moore.

Old Fiddlers' Contest At Rialto Thursday

this week in conjunction with the each. showing of the picture founded on "Mighty Lak A the power of music. night with an old fiddlers' contest. Prizes will be offered for the three best entrants, $25 for first prize, $15 his command, which were many. for second prize and $10 for third

"Does It Pay?" Completed. with Hope Hampton as the featured him. player supported by a notable cast, and directed by Charles Horan.

TODAY

ALL WEEK

N "Manslaugh-

one side of the modern girl. Here's the other.

ter" you saw

Surprising Scenes Include:

of million-year-old monsters.

is an old and hackneyed one. Here is the story of the "poor little rich boy" who is a "rich little poor boy" because he wants to be. "I've made a fool of myself at he had to be put on an allowance, times," he frankly admits. "I spent money that could have been well saved. I'm going to beat back now, and save money that could be well spent. Watch me

His friends are watching himand watching him with interest too. Because they think they know Vincent J. Lamb and they are wondering if he can keep his resolution. There is a girl in Hollywood watching him too, however, and it is she that he is eager to please. "Needles and pins, needles and when a man marries his trouble begins," is a rhyme of the Lamb says it's all wrong. "When a man marries his trouble ends," he declares. "I'm going to

In 1908 Joe Connor, a wealthy Omaha grain broker, died and left an estate valued at that time at $460,000. One of the five heirs was Mrs. Mary

But Mrs. Lamb, it happened, was a very well-to-do woman on her own part was limited to merely a flash account—silver and United States way of running in the family. So she determined to leave the bequest intact and have it invested in good, sound securities and placed in trust for her three sons, who were nephews of the grain broker.

Mrs. Lamb was fortunate in her investments and the estate increased in mathematical progression as the years passed by. It is now valued at more than $1,000,000.

But in the meantime the United States had become involved in a great war, and Mrs. Lamb sent her three young man of his responsibilities and sons, including Vincent, into it. Only engagements should. two of them came back, the third there are only two sons to share the his former "cases" he assured Sought Good Times. that inclination with every means at best girl friend.

His mother wanted him to go to school-giving him the choice of several universities. He declined politely and said he wanted to go west, to "Does It Pay?" has been completed Hollywood. Mrs. Lamb went with up Miss Ivers.

The Master Spectacle of Modern Life

the pictures." But his mother calmly banker and had gone to Hollywood, a name for herself on the screen. If tion that it known as the Chief Payer needed a young man to take stock 000,000 instead of the $460,000 it really still was a minor and than any con- felt the call of a career. tract he might make would have to be When a contract was signed Mrs. incent inserted a stipulation that the boy's salary should be paid to her.

Cupid Takes a Hand. That irked Vincent. He found himself back on the hated allowance plan and the money his mother allowed him as not at all sufficient to enis earning his $18 a week.

Then to complicate matters, he fell giving up his life in France. So now in love. It wasn't at all like any of "Old Melody Week" at the Rialto $1,000,000 estate, making $500,000 mother and friends. This was the real thing this time and marriage was the object, not just dances and motor Back from the war Vincent Lamb rides and bridge parties and the achave a good time and he satisfied average wealthy young man and his and good times the sensationalists her son, so he returned to Chicago. like to write about. She seemed to "I'm tired of working for nothing

"Who is the girl?" his mother asked. "Grace Ivers," replied the youth, whereupon the mother began to look

Her investigation brought out facts Vincent had good looks and the that would have been satisfactory to clothes and manners of a gentleman the most particular parent. Miss

SHOWS AT

11-1-3-5-7-9

Feature 30 Minutes Later

Adam's

Elliott Dexter--Theo. Kosloff--

Revealing the modern girl in her true colors. In a story crammed with action, De Mille interprets her impulsive heart to all who wish to appreciate her for what she really is.

Anna Q. Nilsson--Pauline Garon

Paramount

Picture

Milton Sills--

Youth, 20, Works for $18 a Week to Convince Pretty Young Bride He Is Worthy of Fortune Left by Uncle to play around with him, fair weather friends, many of them, who saw in the heartily and found that the firm of stories came out. They put the > pointed out to the producers that he because she had a pretty face and she had a second guiding purpose in of Checks and of Grand Giver of Good elt the call of a career. her life, it was to help along other Times.

> "She isn't like the other girls here," young men and women who she was One gned by her to complete its validity. Vincent had told his mother proudly, convinced, had ambitions similar to and Mrs. Lamb found that he spoke her own. the truth. Miss Ivers had no "vamp- A romance started and progressed ish" tendencies and paid no attention nicely, but romance doesn't thrive on rowly, Rose" will be celebrated Thursday felt the young man's inclination to customed round of pleasure of the to invitations to the kind of parties the kind of allowance Mrs. Lamb gave back here to make my fortune." He found friends who were eager to play around with him, fair weather

> One night a particularly tricky party was being "thrown" and Vincent asked.

"Why not cash a check?" someone in Holloywood," he announced. "I'm

"Fine," was the chorus of reply, and the person who had the bright idea wrote out the check and Vincent endorsed it. Another check was floated in the same manner. No difficulty was encountered because those who cashed the checks knew of the wealth that Chicago is doubting whether he and position of the Lamb family.

receivers were stunned Behind the Bars.

"Not so good," they decided, and they had Vincent and his check-writ-arived there last October and had a big as theirs is to them." serious talk with his sweetheart. Her father was consulted and there was he was asked. emnized on October 17.

to Chicago alone, while his bride re- over again. turned to Hollywood and her screen

His Own Proposition.

'I'm going to work and I'm going to waiting for the test." make good. The old days are over His first interview was with the trustees of the Connor estate.

"I want things to be arranged so that I can't get any of the money rediculous, but I'm going to work so until I have earned $10,000 by my- hard for that $18 that they will have self." he told them The trustees looked at him

"Are you in earnest? 'Never more so.

The next order of business for the that $18 is boosted. now "rich little poor boy" was to find "poor little rich boy" an excellent oc- heartily and found that the firm of stories came out. They put the to make cupant of that rather tiresome posi- B. L. Koppenhagen, brokers, with of amount of the Connor legacy at $5.-

"How much does it pay?" Vincent Trade instead of a grain broker.

told. "Nothing that you would touch." laughed at those who doubted his "Oh, wouldn't I?" he demanded, sincerity. And best of all, for him, and snapped up the job. And so He Toils.

has stuck hard by the task ever since. For handicaps he has the knowledge doubting either. will stick by the ship. For assets all I care about," says Vincent. But the checks came back and the and an urge that drives him forward, he has Grace's constant letters saying that she knows he will make good and that she is believing in him and pulling for him every minute. "I'm doing the best I know how and ing friend arrested. The two spent a I want to put myself across without Europe is depending upon America few hours in custody and then the having anyone know I was different checks were paid and the affair set- from the rest of these boys here in ing to Clare West, costume designer tled. But Vincent had learned a lest the office, or had any more money." he said, "I haven't any more, as far ductions. He went to a railroad station, as that is concerned, since it is all bought a ticket for Denver, where up to me now and my $18 a week become virtually the dictator of the Miss Ivers had returned home. He looks just as big to me and is just as worlds fashions," declares Miss West.

another talk. The wedding of Vin- "It's my own idea and it came to ideas and materials for Mr. DeMille's cent Lamb and Grace Ivers was sol- me because of her," he answered. "I next production, which is to be based met Grace and wanted her and got upon the 10 commandments. From that day on Vincent was a her, and then knew it was up to me changed young man. He went back to cut out the old life and start all whose work is reflected on our living up to my income and what I London, and the Europeans very evi-Parties were proposed as soon as got from mother and no matter how dently realize it. Every advance he folt the pavement of Michigan high the total amount ran it never trade showing of a big American proboulevard under his feet, parties that seemed enough. I suppose I would duction is a mecca for European probably would have had the same have gone along in the same way un. designers, and it won't be long before end as the old ones, rollickers strolling til I got my money and then gone at through restaurant doors and piling it the same way if it hadn't been for laughingly into motor cars, while Vin- Grace. But she made it all different. cent stayed behind to pay the check. She wouldn't want me if I didn't make good, even though she had faith "Nothing stirring," he answered, enough in me to marry me without

> No Saving Done Yet. "But how are you going to save $10,000 on $18 a week?"

> "I'm not," he answered. "That's to increase my pay, and then I'll be on my way."

> Vincent is living in a furnished room for which he pays $4 a week His food, he says, costs him about

So, with the consent of Vincent's cidentals, carfare and the like. His mother, the arrangements were made. clothes, he figures, will last him until

When Chicago first heard of its quotations as they came in over the was and they changed the Joe Connor ticker and write them on a black- to Patrick O'Connor and made him president of the Omaha Board of But Vincent Lamb, who is now just "Eighteen dollars a week," he was 20 years old, just laughed. And he

"He's delivering the goods," they He went to work immediately and say. "He has prospects. The girl out in Hollywood isn't

"And my bosses and my wife are

Europe Sets Fashion

his employers laughed with him.

Instead of depending upon Europe, for'ideas for women's fashlons, accordfor Cecil B. DeMilles Paramount pro-

Ideas in Our Films

"The American motion picture has Her impressions are fresh, because "What is making you do all this?" she has just returned from a trip to Europe for the purpose of

"Our designers, especially those screen," Miss West continued, "are "You see, in the other days, I was months ahead of those of Paris and the leaders of the profession abroad will be sending their representatives here for our American premieres." Miss West spent a month in London and Paris purchasing materials, ornaments and jewelry

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS HAMILTON - - - 40th and Hamilton

FEATURE and COMEDY VICTORIA - - - - 24th and Fort

CHARLES RAY "GAS, OIL AND WATER"

- - - 16th and Binney LEWIS STONE

THE STEPPIEST PEPPIEST MOST PULSE QUICKENING AND EYE FILLING STRIP

PRICES This Week Only Daily Mats. . . 35¢ Evenings and Sunday Mat. 50¢ Children

SNUB POLLARD In Two Reels of Laughs

"NEWLY RICH"

Sun International News Weekly.

Daring Dances

Lavish Costumes

It's About the Overthrow of Thrones

and the Moans of Saxophones

$150.00 in cash prizes to the best amateur talent.

A Picture that was MADE to be talked about PRICES Strand Supreme Orchestra PRICES Week Day Matinees Until Harry H. Silverman, Director Nights and Sunday 5 o'clock Offering the overture, PIQUE DAME All Seats . Latest Events KIDS Balcony 40¢ Lyman Howes
Main Floor 50¢ Hodge Podge

Exciting Wheat Deals at the Chicago Board of Trade. The National History Museum filled with 30-foot skeletons

And a ball that marks the ultimate in De Mille magnificence.

"Vision" scenes showing the life of prehistoric man.

Spice, Snap, Color, Love, Thrills-They're All Here.

MONDAY "JAZZ-CONTES"

Appearing at 9 e'Clock